DEATH BRUSHES M'ARTHUR

Jap Flyer's Bullet Misses by Foot; Yanks Cut Leyte in Half

GEN. MacARTHUR'S HDQ., Philippines, Nov. 3 [Friday]—(AP).—Gen. MacArthur had one of his closest escapes from death today when a Japanese aerial strafing attack put a 50 calibre bullet into a wall just a foot from his head.

Hearing the bullet hit, Col. Lloyd Lehrbas, the general's aide, hurried into the room and found the American commander examining the hole. Unconcernedly nodding at the hole, Gen. MacArthur said:

"Well, not yet!"

The general has had many close brushes with death. The closest also was in the Philippines, from a bombing attack shortly after the war began. He was in the open when some Japanese planes appeared. One bomb exploded only a few feet away and wounded one of his Filipino orderlies standing by his side.

Cuts Leyte in Half.

Japanese defenses on Leyte Island were cut in two today when troops of the American 7th division broke thru to the west coast, capturing Baybay, 26 miles south of the enemy's escape port of Ormoc.

Other American forces completed a juncture in Carigara, key town of the northwestern Leyte coast, and MacArthur announced: "The end of the Leyte-Samar campaign is in sight."

Ormoc was surrounded on three sides by American forces and shipping in the bay was hammered by fighter planes and bombers. Returning pilots said heavily laden Japanese barges were moving out from Ormoc toward larger vessels in the bay and returning empty—an indication the Japanese were attempting to save whatever troops remained on Leyte.

Had Reënforced Troops.

Reënforcements previously had been landed at Ormoc from Cebu, and some of them were known to have been sent over a mountain highway to bulwark Japanese forces along Carigara bay.

The Japanese withdrawal from Carigara town, evidently made at night, climaxed delaying battles for both the community and supporting points deeper in Leyte valley.

Maj. Gen. Frederick A. Irving's 24th division, driving toward Carigara from Jaro, crushed the last Nipponese rearguards, then moved rapidly across the final six miles of highway to complete a juncture in Carigara with 1st division cavalrymen.

Filipino guerrillas marched in the American ranks as Carigara was entered.

69 Lost by U. S. in Great Air Battle Over Germany.

LONDON, Nov. 3 [Friday].—(AP).—American flyers destroyed 208 German planes yesterday when the German air force made its reappearance and was whipped in one of the great all-time aerial battles, a dogfight of 2,400 United States and Nazi planes over Merseburg, about 100 miles southwest of Berlin. Officials reported that of 2,000 United States planes, 41 bombers, and 28 fighters failed to return.

Following quickly, more than 1,000 royal air force bombers roared over western Germany after nightfall and delivered one of their heaviest blows at Duesseldorf, Rhineland industrial city.

In the daylight raid, 1,100 American heavy bombers blasted the Leuna synthetic oil plant at Merseburg and rail yards at Bielefeld and Rheine, the latter two towns in western Germany. Yank flyers in 900 Mustangs and Thunderbolts escorted the bombers.

Yanks Set Seven Records.

The Americans set these records:

Fighters shot down 130, beating previous record of 117.

Bomber crews shot down 53 more planes and 25 were destroyed on the ground.

Fighters and bombers destroyed 208, highest for 1944. The all-time high, set on Aug. 18, 1943, was 307.

Col. Preddy shot down one plane to become the highest ranking ace operating in this theater, with 23½ in air and six on the ground for 29½.

Flak Rattles "Like Hail."

The pilots flew thru the heaviest flak they have encountered in months — "it rattled like hail" on the wings and fuselage, one pilot said, and met upward of 400 German fighters, including many green and black jet planes which, flyers said, "climbed straight up off the ground." Lt. Thomas Radonski, Milwaukee, Wis., bombardier, shot down a jet plane as his Flying Fortress came off a bomb run, and three other jet craft were officially downed.

The Americans, apparently expecting fierce opposition, sent out the second largest fighter escort ever dispatched by the 8th air force to shepherd the 1,100 bombers to their targets.

The large scale appearance of the German air force was the first since Oct. 7.

A Smile for 'Dr. Kildare'

AN AMERICAN EVACUATION HOSPITAL, Leyte Island, Philippines, Oct. 25 [Delayed]—(AP).—A little Filipino girl, with a bullet thru her cheek and tongue, gave the hospital attendant a bit of a smile that had the fortitude of ages in it.

The attendant ran his hand over her black hair as he ministered gently to her. He looked around and said "they need us much in all this carnage. We are at least doing something constructive."

The attendant was Tech. Sgt. Lew Ayres, former star of the movies.

[Ayres, a conscientious objector to war, was inducted into the army in 1942 after he volunteered for noncombatant medical service. He said recently he planned to enter a seminary after the war and go to a Congregational pulpit.]

In Hospital for Natives.

As a chaplain's assistant Ayres came ashore with an early wave of Yank liberation forces and joined the workers in a hospital for natives. During the last 48 hours he and the staff, including eight native girls, aided a pitiful caravan of wounded Filipinos as shells burst, machine guns chattered, and aerial bombs roared near-by. They went about their work even as the Japanese staged a counter-attack on this palm shaded village.

Many of those aided in the evacuation hospital are victims of skin ulcers brought about by scanty food during the Japanese occupation. Ayres said:

Recognized from Film Role.

Ayres smiled as he said he already had been recognized by some of the natives who called him "Dr. Kildare," a role he played in movies, and sought his autograph. He added, "It gave me more of a thrill to be recognized by these tortured little people than by movie fans in the United States."

TIME TO SHOW YOUR COLORS

Japs Shelled with a Home Made Cannon

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LEYTE ISLAND, Philippines, Oct. 28 [Delayed].—The strange story of how 2,000 Filipino guerrillas, led by fewer than a dozen Americans and a brass band, marched on the town of Butuan, Mindanao, and for eight days besieged the Jap garrison, was told today by Maj. Cliff Richardson, Los Angeles, Cal.

Richardson was a member of Comdr. John D. Bulkley's historic PT squadron in the Philippines. When his boat was destroyed after tangling with a cruiser, he went to Mindanao, arriving there three days after the last airplane had left. He gathered other Bataan refugees and attempted to reach Australia by boat, but it was swamped.

Leads Leyte Guerrillas.

In time Richardson came to Leyte, met a guerilla leader and became his chief aid.

The battle of Butuan, however, is the guerrilla story of all guerrilla stories. It was one of the fantastic events of two and a half years of living 1,200 miles from the nearest American base.

The Butuan battle occurred a year and a half ago. For months the guerrillas had been arming. When they had 2,000 riflemen they decided to begin cleaning out the Japanese. They were going to start at Butuan and then go on thru the islands.

Band Leads Way to Butuan.

They gathered a mile and a half from Butuan. Wives and parents came to say good-by. Then the brass band started down the road to Butuan and the men fell in behind. With them they dragged their only artillery piece, a gun made of 3 inch gas pipe, cart wheels, baling wire, and a firing pin made from nails and sprung with a rubber band. Shells were pounded from copper pipe.

As they neared the town they spread out. They charged. They overran Jap outposts and the Japs retreated to a concrete school building. The guerrillas followed, encircled the school, and set up siege. They fired their artillery with the aid of a 40 foot string. It blew a foot wide hole in the wall—but also blew up the cannon. It wasn't until the next morning that the cannon was ready for use again. The second shot required a second day of repair. The third shot on the third day put the cannon out of action for good.

Because the guerrillas thought some Japs were hiding in the town they started a systematic fire.

The next day Jap reënforcements arrived. The guerrillas went back into the hills and onto farms, but even today the people talk of the battle of Butuan.

CHICAGO PILOT BAGS EIGHT NAZI PLANES IN ONE DAY'S FIGHTS

Lt. W. J. Cullerton.

Lt. William J. Cullerton of Chicago set an all-time record for the United States 8th air force yesterday when he destroyed eight Nazi planes in a raid on Germany.

He shot down two that he encountered in the air and smashed six on the ground. Never before had an 8th air force pilot achieved such a combination in one day's operations.

Lt. Cullerton is a fighter pilot. He flew one of the 900 Mustangs and Thunderbolts that escorted 1,100 American bombers over Germany.

In previous combat Lt. Cullerton had shot down three enemy planes and destroyed seven on the ground.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Orville F. Cullerton, 1719 New England av., received a letter from him last Monday stating that he had just finished a week in a "flak house," which he explained was a rest home for pilots. At that time, he had completed 260 hours of combat flying.

Lt. Cullerton, a graduate of Fenwick High school and former student at Wright Junior college, entered the air forces in September, 1942, and was the 10,000th aviation cadet qualified by the Chicago army aviation cadet board.

New Dealers Egg O'Daniel in Texas Riot

Houston, Tex., Nov. 2 [Special].—A barrage of eggs and vegetables heaved at Sen. O'Daniel [D., Tex.] while he was speaking to 4,000 persons at the City Auditorium tonight brought special police squads to the scene to escort him to safety after a 30 minute commotion. The senator charged that the disturbance was prearranged by "Communists, labor racketeers, and New Deal fellow travelers."

None of the missiles struck the senator, who was speaking over a Texas radio network under auspices of the Texas Regulars—anti-New Deal Democrats—but fist fights broke out thruout the crowd.

O'Daniel, who continued to read his speech thruout the riotous demonstration with the help of a group of followers who stood around him on the stage for protection, termed the disturbance "one of the most disgraceful events" in the history of Texas.

500 Hecklers Organized.

Police said about 500 men "apparently in three organized groups" began heckling the senator as he arose to speak and continued shouting during the entire speech. One man, James D. Smith, 44, was arrested on a charge of disturbing the peace. Police said he had thrown one of the eggs. At the station, police said, Smith's pockets produced three ripe tomatoes and two more eggs.

As O'Daniel finished reading his speech, Atty. John H. Crooker apologized to the radio audience for what he said was "the most disgraceful scene in Houston's history."

At his hotel room, Sen. O'Daniel said "if anybody would have said a few short years ago that such an un-American demonstration as took place here in Houston tonight could have taken place in Texas where people believe in law and order and freedom of speech, nobody would have believed it."

Held Proof of Charges.

"The Communists, labor leader racketeers, New Deal fellow travelers, and lawless elements, which constitute the principal backing and support of the New Deal party, certainly proved to the people of Texas and this nation that what I have been saying for many months about the suppression of free speech in America by the New Deal dynasty is true," said O'Daniel. "I do not consider it a personal assault but an assault on our American democracy."

O'Daniel, who is not a candidate in this campaign, said he had been "reliably" informed of what would happen before he spoke.

F. D. R. PROTESTS 'WICKED CHARGES'; DEWEY LASHES 'SINISTER' $1,000 CLUB

TEXT OF ADDRESS.
The text of President Roosevelt's address will be found on page 5.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 2.—President Roosevelt tonight accused the Republican opposition of attempting to panic the people on election day by "wicked charges" but expressed confidence that the voters would not be swayed by "malignant murmurings—or shouts."

The 15 minute radio address from the White House was obviously an answer to Gov. Dewey's speech in Boston last night which centered upon the menace of Communism, particularly with reference to the endangering of American freedoms, including freedom of religion.

Omits Pearl Harbor Remark.

The official text of the President's speech, as distributed to the press, quoted him as saying:

"But the American people are not panicked easily. Pearl Harbor proved that."

Inadvertently or otherwise, Mr. Roosevelt omitted the reference to Pearl Harbor when he spoke on the air.

He said the campaign had been marred by more than the usual crop of whisperings and murmurings.

Party Spite Fence.

The President again denied that congress would coöperate more effectively with a Republican President in dealing with peace and postwar problems then it would with the present occupant of the White House.

This assertion, he declared vehemently, was a threat to build "a party spite fence" between the nation and the peace. He recalled that the senate and house last year passed the Connally and Fulbright resolutions almost unanimously and said this showed agreement with his foreign policy.

The President divided his address into two sections. The first part dealt with the war and he revealed that the campaign against Japan is many months ahead of the most optimistic schedule.

No Winter Lull.

He said there will be no winter lull in the European fighting, and the Germans will be kept on the move until Berlin is reached. In Italy, the allied armies are steadily moving forward against bitter resistance.

A job of great magnitude remains, Mr. Roosevelt continued, and all-out production efforts at home must be maintained.

With an apparent eye on the women's vote, the President extended a tribute to the part the women of America are playing in the war.

Then he swung into the political portion of his speech in which he expressed his distaste for certain aspects of the campaign waged against him. He said he did not propose to answer "in kind" the whispers and rumors which he compared to those "of enemy origin" and predicted they would be treated with "the same contempt."

REPORT ILLNESS TO FORCE HULL OUT OF CABINET

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 2.—Vice President Wallace is slated to become secretary of state if President Roosevelt's drive for a fourth term is successful, it was reported in high administration circles tonight.

Secretary of State Hull, who entered Naval hospital almost two weeks ago, has confided to intimates that the state of his health will prevent his return to his post.

President Roosevelt is aware that Hull will not resume his place and reportedly already has decided to offer the cabinet post to Wallace as balm for the stab the Vice President received at Chicago when Sen. Truman was named the fourth term running mate.

No. 1 Speaker.

The appointment also would constitute a reward for Wallace's political activities. He is the No. 1 speaker for the fourth term. He has made about twenty speeches in behalf of Mr. Roosevelt in the last few weeks.

The exact state of Secretary Hull's health has been kept almost as closely guarded a secret as the President's health and for the same reason—the adverse influence it might have on the Presidential campaign.

The 73 year old secretary, who has guided the state department longer than any other man in the nation's history, is one of the pillars of the New Deal. His presence in the cabinet as a disciple of Jeffersonian democracy has served to keep many a conservative Democrat in line for the President.

He Wins His Feuds.

It was largely for this reason, according to general capital opinion, that Hull has been able to win his feuds with such redoubtable opponents as Raymond Moley, former brain-truster and assistant secretary of state; the late George Peek, head of the Export-Import bank, and former Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles.

Welles challenged his superior on matters of policy and moved closer and closer into the confidence of the President. When Hull forced a showdown about a year ago, Welles was the one told to go, much to Welles' surprise. It was recognized here that, had Hull been dropped, Mr. Roosevelt might well have lost the solid south as well as huge blocs of conservative Democrats in the north.

Hull entered the naval hospital at Bethesda, Md., on Oct. 20. He previously had been confined to his apartment since his 73d birthday on Oct. 2. For many years he has suffered from a throat irritation. Some years ago he gave up smoking to ease the irritation.

Early this summer he took a two week vacation at Hershey, Pa. He also took other short respites from his post during the year. None of these gave any cause for alarm.

Time to Retire.

However, during the confinement to his home Hull confided to friends that he can no longer stand the rigorous demands of the cabinet post. He said he recognized the time had come for him to retire.

Last Tuesday Mr. Roosevelt visited his chief aid and chatted with him for a half hour. After the visit Mr. Roosevelt said he did not know the state of Hull's health as he did not ask Hull's doctor.

When Hull entered the hospital,

Blasts President's Part in Sale of 'Privilege.'

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Scranton, Pa., Nov. 2.—Gov. Dewey, in four fighting speeches in Pennsylvania and one at Baltimore, Md., this afternoon and tonight, attacked President Roosevelt's $1,000 "special privilege" club as sinister and corrupt. He struck hard at Communists high in the New Deal and appealed to Democrats as well as Republicans to vote next Tuesday for a stable and sound administration which can hasten the war's end and assure veterans of an America of freedom and opportunity.

The 42 year old candidate was cheered by enthusiastic crowds in York, Sunbury, Wilkes-Barre, and Scranton. The final "mopping up" trip into Pennsylvania was made in a determined effort to corral Pennsylvania's 35 electoral votes, which according to most political observers, may determine next week's Presidential election.

Before a crowd of 12,000 jamming the state armory here, as in Wilkes-Barre earlier in the evening and at Baltimore at noon, Dewey denounced the opposition campaign as cynical and corrupt. The New Deal campaign leadership by Earl Browder and Sidney Hillman was condemned as a Red plot to undermine American institutions.

Gov. Dewey's Scranton and Wilkes-Barre speeches were made after a trip from Baltimore, where he addressed an overflow meeting in the Lyric theater. En route to Wilkes-Barre he made brief stops and addressed crowds at York and Sunbury, Pa. The three major speeches were similar in context.

WILKES-BARRE SPEECH

"Governor Martin and fellow Americans:

"You are not here to see one man, or any six men; your are not here to pay any tribute to anybody; you are here because you believe with me and with, I believe, the majority of the American people, that if we can clean the quarreling, bickering, and chaos out of Washington we can speed victory and get our young men home sooner.

"You are here because you believe with us that we can bring a lasting peace, because we will have harmony between the President and congress restored once more. You are here because you believe with us that if we have a change of administration we have to change it fast if we are going to have a hope for the future of this United States as the country we know, we love, and we grew up in.

"Last Saturday night my opponent dusted off a lot of broken and very stale promises that had been used three times before; and then he added a few new ones, and then he said, by inference, these weren't any good when they were made before, but I expect you to believe them how and give me 16 years in the White House.

Promised Jobs to All.

"He promised jobs to everybody at the end of the war, but the record shows that after eight years of the New Deal and 58 billion dollars spent, and more power than all previous administrations put together, we still had 10 million Americans unemployed in 1940. That promise was no good, and as I have said before, it still will be no good, even tho it is repeated again and again and again.

"I made a speech in Philadelphia, your own state, on Sept. 7, and from that speech my distinguished opponent apparently discovered that we needed new houses in the United States; that we needed new housing as we have never needed it before, so he found that I had said we need a million houses a year for 15 years. He promised that, too. The fact of the matter is during all his administration from the beginning to this moment, including all the houses built at your expense with government money, we only had 380 thousand units a year, while we needed a million new houses to get back up to the condition of housing in 1930. That new promise is no better than the rest of them, whether it is repeated again and again and again.

Nine Long Years.

"He promised to carry on social security, and to extend it. Well, the fact of the matter is that the old age pension laws and unemployment insurance laws have been on our books now for nine long years, and there are still 20 million Americans who are entitled to the benefits of those social security laws, and they are left out. They are left out because this administration didn't have either the confidence or the political courage to put them in. So that promise, too, is no good, however often it is repeated.

"Now my opponent also discovered from listening to what his opposition has been saying that there were 25 different agencies hung around the necks of the working men and women in this country, so that nobody can find out what his rights are, and when he does find out they aren't there. It takes months, and sometimes years, to get an adjudication of a thing a man has a right to, with 25 different agencies giving different rulings. Government has taken over collective bargaining. In the light of that record my opponent promised to stop that. I leave it to you whether that promise is any good either.

"Now while the mightiest war in history is being fought to victory on every front, the nation is engaged in a great decision over whether it shall continue down the New Deal road to totalitarianism or go upward on the road to freedom at home. With these great problems before us it has been a tragic circumstance to find the leadership in our national government viewing with cynical satisfaction the most corrupt offer ever made by any political party. Yes, the very brazenness of the $1,000 club is just more evidence of the corrupting influence of too many years in power.

This Sordid Story.

"Now to get to this sordid story. My opponent admitted last Tuesday that it was he himself who thought up the idea of the notorious $1,000 club. This is the organization which offers—yes, offers it, mind you—special privileges and a voice in the formulation of administration policies, together with a chance to visit the President on Thursday afternoons, all for one thousand dollars.

"Well, I have got another letter on that subject. This one was sent out by Mr. Roosevelt's special privileges in government society. It was written on the stationery of the Democratic national committee to a select list in Kansas, and it tells us a little more about this $1,000 club. It ends up by saying—and I quote it—'Membership in this club will be a badge of distinction forever; and there are other advantages which I can explain to you when we meet.'

Mr. Roosevelt's club offers the right to give special privileges to a select group of men who can afford a thousand dollars for a campaign contribution. Then it offers something more which it doesn't dare put in writing. We can only guess what this is. Has this special privilege to do with war contracts or is it special consideration on income tax, or is Mr. Roosevelt's club offering special influence with the war labor board or the national labor relations board to members who can afford a thousand dollars?

Rips "Secret Dealing."

"One thing I do know. We are not fighting a war for freedom in order to have a government of special privilege by either groups of special privilege or by Communists. It is time to bring an end to government by secret dealing. We want no more secret deals either for special interests in government at home or in our foreign policy abroad.

"My opponent has never yet taken the people of this country into his confidence on vital matters of foreign policy. He has never told us where we have been, or where we are going. He has not told us the nature of his secret conference with Marshal Stalin. We have been left to learn from the prime minister of England how much happens between him and the head of our own government. The small nations of Europe are being disposed of without the American people being told about what is happening to them.

"We in the United States want a good, sound, and honest, and a lasting peace. We want an organization for peace that will achieve it, and we do not want an alliance of a few strong and powerful to rule the small and the weak nations in it. The time has come to put an end to secret treaties or to secret deals at the expense of the American people everywhere in the world.

Hillman's Highest Bidder.

"The New Deal we find—and it is all in the record now—we find that it is offering itself for sale to a few men who can contribute a thousand dollars, but as I said last night they are being taken to the cleaners. They won't get it. There are higher bidders in the market. The higher bidders are Sidney Hillman's political action committee, and Earl Browder's Communist party. They have been in cynical alliance with this administration, and the whole conduct of this campaign has in effect been placed in their hands. What do they expect in return? Why are they so violent for the fourth term? You know what communism is. Communism means that the government owns your home, the place you work in; it tells you where you can work and when and for what wages, and it tells you what you may do from the beginning of your life to the end, and if you disagree you are quietly liquidated, either by force or by economic strangulation.

"Moreover, communism is specifically and publicly committed as an enemy of religion, and the head of the Communists in the United States writes publicly that we consider there is no difference between good and bad religions, they are all bad for the masses, and we propose to educate the people away from them.

"Those are the people who are now fighting for the election of Franklin D. Roosevelt, and he repudiates them with very soft words, indeed.

Subject to Collapse.

"This election is going to decide every major question about our future, and one thing we do know, the Democratic party has been crushed by one man rule for 12 long years, until it is easily subject to capture, until as a result of this election its machinery will successfully be taken over by that cynical alliance of the PAC and communism. The Democratic party is in such weakened condition that we must consider very strongly the prospect of this country slipping into tired hands, into the hands of those who will make it over to suit their own devices.

"I can give you one assurance which will be very, very good for a long time to come; no communism, no fascism, no totalitarian group is trying to take over the Republican party, and they never will. Our party brought 26 fresh, competent liberal progressive administrations to this country, governing two-thirds of the people of the United States. It is now prepared to give that same kind of government to the country which your good governor, Ed Martin, gives to the state of Pennsylvania. And this is not a party contest.

"For many years every national election in this country has been primarily a contest between Democrats and Republicans. Much of the strength of our system of government has been owing to the existence of two major parties, evenly matched and equally equipped in leadership to provide the people with good government, altho they are divided at election time on political issues, they both have one essential thing in common.

"Both Democrats and Republicans had an abiding faith in our system of representative government. The country was safe in the hands of either party. Today that two party system stands in danger. The Democratic party, weakened by 12 years of one-man rule, is being taken away from the Democrats. It has been captured by the coalition I have described.

Democrats Sure to Lose.

"In past elections when the Democrats won the Republicans lost, and when the Republicans won the Democrats lost; but it won't be so in this election. If the Republican party was to lose this election, the Democrats also will irrevocably lose their party. This is not a contest between Democrats and Republicans; it is a contest on the one hand between those who believe in our system of government, Republicans and Democrats alike, and on the other hand those who have kidnaped the Democratic party in order to change our system of government.

"The only way for the real members of the Democratic party to win this election, the only way for them to recapture their own party, is to join with the Republicans in defeating the New Deal, the political action committee, and communism all in one; because the election of a Republican administration next Tuesday will be a great victory for both Republicans and Democrats. It will be a victory for all of those who believe in our system of government. This will once more restore teamwork between the President and the people's representatives in congress. My opponent has consistently abused the members of congress; he has attempted to purge them, and today there is an irrevocable breach between the executive and legislative branches of our government.

"The breach began with the arrogant attempt to pack the Supreme court; it was widened by the attempt to purge the members of congress. It has deepened year after year until it flared in open revolt this year. You remember what happened. Mr. Roosevelt chose of all days this year Washington's birthday to send a veto message so savage that his own majority leader, Sen. Barkley, rose to denounce that veto message as more clever than honest, and as a calculated and deliberate assault on the integrity of every member of congress. The other senators, regardless of party, rallied around Sen. Barkley's declaration of independence, and members of the house crowded in the senate to shake his hand.

Insults Republicans.

"Now not satisfied with having alienated the leader of his own party, Mr. Roosevelt started out last Saturday night to insult the Republicans who will be the new leaders in congress. On the radio he made a savage accusation against them of placing political advantage above devotion to country, just because they publicly pledged themselves to a program of lasting peace. We can't work out the problems which lie ahead of us under a President who wars at every turn with congress. We have made a good start toward the establishment of a world organization to prevent future wars, but more remains to be done. In the end it will be congress that must approve the terms and scope of our participation in this world effort to maintain peace. In the working out of that program there must be mutual confidence and teamwork between the President and congress. If we are not to run the great danger of seeing this whole program wrecked upon the rocks of one man's arbitrary will we must install next Jan. 20 an administration that wants to work with congress, that knows how to work with congress, and that deserves the confidence of the people and their elected representatives. That we can and will do.

"Now, I have read very carefully every speech my opponent has made in this campaign. I have yet to find out one single thing that he intends to do, or proposes to offer to do, that is different from the program which failed from 1933 to 1940, in all those peace time years. Not one single concrete proposition. Now, the fact of the matter is that we know that program failed because we still have 19 million unemployed in 1940. Therefore where do we go?

Cites Specific Program.

"I have laid out a specific, concrete program from Philadelphia to Seattle, and from Seattle down to Los Angeles, and back up to Boston. We have built it brick by brick, dealing with every single subject of our government, and I may say that that program involves a decided and radical revision of all the program which failed under the New Deal. What has been the answer to that program? Nothing but oratory and revised and dusted off promises; no suggestion as to how it will be done.

"Our program involves first restoring harmony with the congress; secondly, devoting the whole effort of this administration toward full employment. We have 500,000 young men and women coming to maturity every year in this country, a half million new people who want jobs. We certainly can never create the expanding business opportunity for those people under the defeatist philosophy of this administration. I have laid out a specific tax program step by step. We must change personal exemption, so that a man who makes as little as $11 a week no longer pays an income tax. We must revise the taxes so that after credit for dependents we shall not find at least 23 cents taken out of every dollar in the pay envelope by the federal government. We must revise and lower the taxes on our job-producing enterprises so they can go ahead and create opportunities for employment for every American. But there are gloomy people who tell us that taxes must be kept way up to the limit where they now are.

"They say you cannot lower those taxes and meet the interest of the debt. They forget the tax rate doesn't determine the amount of tax revenue.

Wants Higher Income.

"The other important factor is the size of the national income. In all its peace time years under the New Deal the highest national income we ever had was 76 billion dollars, and that was way below what we hit 11 years before. It was the first time in our history that for a whole decade we did not go forward to surpass our previous record. If we are going to go back after the war to a national income of 76 billion dollars, the New Deal's best, then it will be necessary to keep taxes up to the limit, but the truth is that we never can restore the financial integrity of our government, we never can meet the costs of our staggering national debt, and all the other costs of government by levying a crushing tax on a dwindling national income. The first step toward sound government finance must be to restore the vitality of our job producing equipment.

"We must work out a higher income, which will provide revenue for our government. We must keep a tax rate that the people can bear. Our goal must be to increase the national income by letting the productive sources of this country in industry, labor, and agriculture go to work again. This we can only do by instaling a national administration under which our people will be encouraged to go to work, to produce and create new jobs at high wages, instead of piling on higher and higher taxes which act as a brake on productive enterprise.

Must Alter Tax Setup.

"We must revise our entire tax structure so we will no longer crush incentive. It is far better to have a low tax rate with a national income of 100 and 56 billion dollars than a higher tax rate with a national income of 76 billion dollars, which is the best the New Deal has ever done. That is just plain horse sense, but that is one commodity they have not got in Washington.

"Then I have proposed that we lift from the back of all business, big and little, that crushing burden of paper work and of millions of forms which are gradually drowning little business today. Everybody who wants to start out with a machine shop, or grocery store, or some new little enterprise, to get ahead in the old American way finds he has got to be an accountant, a tax expert, a lawyer and a bookkeeper, and on top of that he has got to hire a government expert to tell him what to do. That enormous burden can and will be lifted, as I said in my own state two nights ago. We did it in New York, and we can do it in the nation.

"And then I have proposed that we take that enormous aggregation of conflicting, quarreling, disagreeing agencies which are crushing American labor, and put all of them into one competent, revised and real department of labor. You know for 12 long years now we have had a department of labor in name only, with an estimable lady who held the office, but only held the office. And accordingly we propose that we restore the department of labor to its former strength and importance by putting at its head a man from the ranks of labor.

"And then we propose to start on Jan. 20th the finest house cleaning there ever was. You can pick your own candidate to head the list, whether you want Harold Ickes or Frances Perkins or Sidney Hillman's PAC lieutenants. When we have cleaned out the free riders and those who are merely quarreling we will have unity again in this country; we will have the American people united behind their government; we will have removed those who are stimulating today, and have for years, the quarrels between the executive and congress. We will then have the capacity and the willingness to back up our great military leadership, and back up our fighting men to the limit, so we can speed victory on every front.

"Let me give you two solemn assurances. Our next President will never divide by use of his office or in any other way one section of the American people from another section, or one class from another class, or one religion from another religion, or any group from another group. And one thing more: our next President will never attempt to take personal or political profit out of the achievements in war time of the American people, or the sacrifices of their sons and daughters. We can and we will achieve unity; we can and we will, under God, restore in this country a belief and a sacred determination to preserve freedom in America, and opportunity for all. With your help we will start doing it next Jan. 20."

Bricker Says F. D. R. Record Shows Him as Business Foe

Paterson, N. J., Nov. 2 (AP).—Gov. Bricker asserted tonight that President Roosevelt's expression of belief in free enterprise was contradicted by the New Deal record and the attitude of its advisers.

The Republican candidate for Vice President, invading the populous New Jersey-New York vicinity in the windup of his campaign, pegged a nation-wide radio address on this statement made by the President last Saturday in Chicago:

"I believe in free enterprise and always have."

Cites Ward Seizure.

The statement, Bricker said in a prepared speech, "was in the very shadow of a nonwar business [Montgomery Ward] which he took over with armed troops. This was the site of the attorney general's Fascistic remark that 'No business in this country is immune from Presidential order.'"

Bricker, referring to Mr. Roosevelt's current radio broadcasts as a "preelection appeasement program," added:

"If Mr. Roosevelt believes in free enterprise, in exceptional rewards for business risks, he takes strange and devious ways of showing his belief."

'State Socialism.'

The Ohio governor described the system of government-owned war plants now in operation as "the nucleus of state socialism," and remarked:

"The big question is: when is Washington going to get out of business after the war? Mr. Roosevelt said nothing about that in Chicago."

Taking up another recent statement in which Mr. Roosevelt said he foresaw an expansion of peace time productive capacity requiring "new facilities, new plants, and new equipment," Bricker quoted the President as saying in 1932: "'Our task now is not discovery or exploitation of natural resources, or necessarily producing more goods. It is the soberer, less dramatic business of administering resources and plants already in hand.'"

In view of the record, Bricker declared, Mr. Roosevelt's prediction of expanded production facilities in peace time "is at best an admission that the New Deal economic policies during the last 12 years have been dead wrong."

DEWEY INDORSED BY EX-MAYOR OF BALTIMORE

Washington, D. C., Nov. 2.—Howard W. Jackson, former Democratic mayor of Baltimore tonight called upon Maryland Democrats to vote for Gov. Dewey and Gov. Bricker to end "the personal and parental rule of a man fond of power and restore government by the people."

In a stinging indictment of the New Deal he warned voters there are not two Roosevelts—"one a valiant world leader and the other a political trickster at home." He asserted that the foreign policy is "blood and bone" of the domestic policy and if the voter takes Secretary of State Hull he must also take Harry Hopkins, White House intimate.

BRITISH SEEK RIGHT TO SELL LEND-LEASE

F. D. R. Is Reported as Sympathetic.

(Copyright: 1944: By the New York Times.)

Washington, D. C., Nov. 2.—The President and his advisers now have unde. consideration, and are discussing with a British delegation here headed by John Maynard Keynes, a supplemental, "second phase" lend-lease proposal made by Prime Minister Churchill to Mr. Roosevelt at the last Quebec conference which, it agreed to, will permit Great Britain to acquire at least 2 billion 500 million dollars of nonmilitary supplies for resale in its export trade.

The original British request, it is understood, was for 6 billion 500 million dollars of lend-lease, of which 3 billion 500 million was to be nonmilitary and open for resale. An informed source said the 3 billion 500 million may come down to 2 billion 500 million before the end of the negotiations.

At present a British official policy announcement, made in 1941, forbids resale of any lend-lease supplies not paid for in cash, and this would have to be withdrawn because no cash exchange is any part of the Quebec proposal.

It's All Up to Congress.

Also, congress must appropriate for any "second phase" lend-lease and, without its approval, the new agreement could not include authority to the British to resell any of the supplies, including the nonmilitary items.

The negotiations began at Quebec with the arrival of Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, who took along his post-war plan for an agrarian, nonindustrial Germany after the war. Morgenthau's favorable attitude toward the British lend-lease proposal brought from them in return encouragement of his German plan. That vanished from the scene, however, under the spotlight of publicity and because of the bitter opposition of the heads of the state and war departments, who were not represented in the discussions at Quebec despite the fact that they and not the treasury are primarily concerned.

Hull, Stimson Focal Points.

Secretary Hull and Secretary Stimson became focal points for the opposition in Washington both to Morgenthau's post-war German plan and his selection by the President to take the lead in the Quebec lend-lease discussions to which the plan then was linked.

No representative of the foreign economic administration, which under Leo T. Crowley directs lend-lease, was invited to Quebec either, and this agency became a willing ally of state and war with the objective of shelving the treasury post-war German plan and returning direction of the subsequent negotiations with the Keynes delegation to state, war and FEA.

The President is said to have given to the British proposal a "cordial reception," which may have led some of the Quebec conferees from London to believe that the contract was as good as signed. But it was asserted today that, while the President agreed "in principle," he intended no detailed comment and could have given no binding promise because the eventual decision rests with congress.

Nothing Settled as Yet.

It was also contended that nothing yet has been settled in the Washington negotiations except that the British are disposed to reduce their $3,500,000,000 request to $2,500,000,000 with respect to lend-lease supplies they want to resell for their export trade.

In presenting their case at Quebec the British conferees are understood to have pointed out their special necessities: weakened finances and strained credit, war damage that includes widespread destruction of civilian housing and industrial plants, and other ravages of war.

It is reliably reported that they asked the President, and he sympathetically received the request that he take these things in account with respect to fixing the time and conditions of the renewal of competition for post-war export markets.

Compelled by Necessities.

The proposal that Great Britain be given the right to resell nonmilitary lend-lease supplies for export, and thus reverse its government's policy against this practice, was explained as compelled by these special necessities.

The lend-lease unexpended appropriation at this time is about 5 billion dollars, or far short of the 6½ billion overall which the British are seeking for the second phase.

Congress undoubtedly will inspect the agreement very closely, regardless of the outcome of the elections next Tuesday. The American conferees as well as the President are wholly aware of this prospect, and consequently whatever Mr. Roosevelt sends to congress will be prepared with care for the domestic political consequences as well as for the effect of congress' decision on the war and our future relations with our closest ally.

Unionists Revolt Against PAC

MORE VOLUNTEERS SOUGHT TO SERVE AS WATCHERS AT POLLS

More volunteer election workers are needed if complete vigilance against fraudulent voting is to be maintained, Frank J. Durham, assistant chairman of the Business Men's committee, declared yesterday.

"We can find plenty of people who want to talk about vote frauds," he said. "We want men and women who will do something about them."

Classes will continue up to the day of election, Durham said. Instruction classes will be held today at 1:30 p. m. in Kimball hall, 308 S. Wabash av., and at 7 p. m. in Room 1552 at 135 S. La Salle st. Volunteers will be welcome at these classes.

Volunteer observers recruited by the Joint Civic Committee on Elections will receive special instructions on "short penciling" methods, Chairman Guy E. Reed said yesterday. He explained this method is employed by dishonest judges after the polls have closed on election day.

HILLMAN DENIES 'PUTTING IN FIX' TO AID BRIDGES

New York, Nov. 2 [Special].—Sidney Hillman today asserted that the Republicans are preparing to charge him with taking $15,000 "each week or each month" from Harry Bridges, west coast labor czar, in return for "putting in a fix" that would prevent Bridges' deportation.

"If there is any such money," the chairman of the CIO political action committee said, "I will contribute it all to the Dewey campagin fund." He termed the purported charge a "damnable lie."

Saying he got his information from a trusted aid, Hillman added that the telegram which tipped off the Republican plans was being photostated in a studio on 5th av. At the studio the manager, Harry Smith, said:

"We're in the photography business. If we got an order for a photostat, I wouldn't know how to handle it."

UNIONIST BARES FORCE USED TO SWELL PAC FUND

Fined for Resisting, Says CIO Member.

Benton Harbor, Mich., Nov. 2 [Special].—The sworn statement of one CIO member that he was not only forced to pay $1 to Sidney Hillman's political action committee but also was fined $5 and charged $2 for reinstatement in his union when he resisted was turned over here today by Rep. Hoffman [R., Mich.] to an investigator for the house campaign investigating committee.

Rep. Hoffman declared this affidavit directly refutes Hillman's sworn testimony before the committee at a hearing in Washington that all contributions to the PAC from CIO workers were voluntary.

John D. Quinn, house committee investigator, said he would question Richmond Watson, who made the sworn statement, and also check on the claims of other workers in this area that they paid PAC assessments under duress and after threats that they would lose their jobs.

For "Educational" Purposes.

Hoffman said CIO advertisements in local newspapers that the house campaign investigating committee had completely cleared the CIO were not true. In an effort to offset the charges of Watson and other workers, an advertisement over the name of Eldon C. Stover, recording secretary of local No. 468, UAW-CIO, declared the $1 "contributions" from workers were used exclusively for organization and educational purposes.

Explaining that he worked for the Clark Equipment company in Buchanan, Mich., Watson stated that last summer the president of his local demanded he pay a $1 assessment.

May Pay or Be Fined.

"I asked him what this political action committee was if it wasn't political," Watson said.

"The chief steward then told me I would have to pay the money, and if I did not I might be subject to a fine of $100," Watson stated in his affidavit. "I told him I was not going to pay until I had to.

"The superintendent then told me I would have to pay it if I worked there, and Bullen, the local CIO president, told me if I did not pay it before midnight, he would go to Detroit and put me on the blacklist. That statement, he said, was 'not a threat but a promise.' I was suspended from the union the next day.

"To straighten the matter up, I paid $5 fine, $2 for reinstatement, and the assessment of $1, a total of $8. I was then allowed to continue my work."

"I requested that the conversations be carried on in the presence of the chief steward of my department," Watson said. "This request was refused. They thereupon requested me to make a statement for publication that I was entirely satisfied that the dollar was not to be used for political purposes. I refused to make such a statement.

"Bullen then said he was going to get it in the paper that I was satisfied, even if it cost him $50. I said my answer was yes and no; I was satisfied that under the laws of the United States they had no right to use my money for political purposes but under the union constitution they could use it as they saw fit."

CIO DOWNSTATE REBELS AGAINST PAC'S 'SLAVERY'

An open revolt by CIO labor groups in downstate Illinois industrial areas, who are protesting the vote pressure tactics of the organization's political action committee, is making heavy inroads into the committee's strength, insurgent CIO workers said yesterday in Chicago.

Spearheading the attack upon the PAC is the Volunteer Committee of Republican Trade Unionists, whose members belong to the CIO United Farm Equipment and Metal Workers local 120 at the Allis-Chalmers plant in Springfield.

The committee includes Roy E. Perrine, Earl P. Smith, Elmer V. Howard, and Ray Downey, all of Springfield. Downey is a former president of the local.

PAC Called Slavery Tool.

The trade unionists' committee launched its attack upon the PAC at Granite City on Oct. 15 before a large gathering of union workers.

"The theme of the meeting and subsequent gatherings at Hillsboro, Rock Island, Quincy, Joliet, and other cities, centered around the constitutional rights of free born Americans to vote as the conscience dictates," Downey said. "The Sidney Hillman controled PAC, thru its indorsement of President Roosevelt, is leading workers into slavery."

"This volunteer committee is not fighting the CIO—only the PAC," Perrine said. "We believe that the CIO was organized as a bargaining agency to better the condition of workers and not as a political pressure group."

Dewey's Pledge Welcomed.

The volunteer committee was present on the platform when Gov. Dewey spoke at St. Louis. Also present was H. L. Williamson, secretary of the Illinois Republican Editorial association, and committee publicity director, who outlined the group's plans to Gov. Dewey. The governor, said Williamson, was in full accord with the committee.

"The volunteer committee members and thousands of other CIO workers in Illinois are heralding Gov. Dewey's pledge to organized labor at Pittsburgh, Oct. 20," Howard said.

"Dewey's promise to appoint an active, able secretary of labor from the ranks of labor, has hit a responsive chord among workers," he asserted.

M'GINNIS OUSTER SHOWS BOSSES' POWER: BROOKS

Charges Politicians Can Veto War Leaders.

Evidence that big city political bosses and fourth term radicals have a "veto power" over American generals and admirals is found in the transfer of Lt. Comdr. Edward F. McGinnis from the war ballot office of the navy, Sen. Brooks said last night.

The McGinnis affair as an issue against Sen. Lucas, New Dealer running for reëlection, was gaining power as leaders of the American Legion continued to join in demands for an immediate investigation. Mayor Kelly has admitted that he complained in Washington about McGinnis' assignment, saying, "he won't get any votes for Roosevelt."

Sen. Ferguson [R., Mich.] has charged that Sen. Lucas acted as Kelly's errand boy in achieving Lt. Comdr. McGinnis' transfer from the ballot office. McGinnis is a Republican. Four former Democratic politicians now are on duty in the war ballot office.

What Everybody Knew.

"Every one knew," said Sen. Brooks, "that the bob-tailed federal ballot sponsored by Sen. Lucas was designed to deny the soldiers and sailors their full right to vote for all the candidates in this election.

"Every one knew that the administration, dominated and controled by city bosses, Sidney Hillman, and Earl Browder, would not allow a fair and equal representation administering the ballots.

"Now we have the full proof—the brazen admission that Boss Kelly thru his errand boy, Sen. Lucas, could dictate what officers in the navy could handle these ballots.

Proof of Influence "Shocking."

"This confirms the growing suspicion that Kelly and other city bosses, with Harry Hopkins, Sidney Hillman, and Earl Browder, are exercising a veto power over our generals and admirals. They apparently are the one who can say where any boy shall serve, and when and how.

"The American people knew that they dominated our home front. Now they know their influence reaches to the naval and military fronts thruout the world.

"This shocking proof strikes terror in the hearts of millions of fathers and mothers who fear daily for the safety and welfare of their sons and daughters who are suffering and dying to preserve a free country."

Chicago Captain Is Cited for Job on Italian Front

Washington, D. C., Nov. 2 (AP).—The war department announced today award of the bronze star medal to Capt. John L. Corcoran, 702 Barry av., Chicago. The citation said Capt. Corcoran, while attached as an liasion officer to headquarters of an infantry regiment in Italy, made repeated trips into a fire swept area to adjust artillery fire and to obtain information, and as a result an enemy counter-attack was crushed and two 88 mm. guns were destroyed.

NAVY EXPLAINS M'GINNIS SHIFT ON LUCAS' PLEA

Not Sure Vote Aid Was Politician.

BY PHILIP DODD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 2.—Transfer of Lt. Comdr. Edward A. McGinnis from the war ballot office of the navy on the demand of Sen. Lucas [D., Ill.] last June did not imply that the navy department concurred in the charges made by Lucas that McGinnis was active in Republican politics, a navy spokesman said tonight.

McGinnis' transfer was demanded by Lucas after Mayor Kelly of Chicago had complained that the officer would "get no votes for Roosevelt," according to charges made this week by Sen. Ferguson [R., Mich.]. Ferguson's motion to have the senate campaign expenditures committee investigate the incident was killed by New Deal members of the committee.

"Comdr. McGinnis was transferred to avoid further criticism and because he wanted other duty anyhow," the navy spokesman said tonight. "The transfer does not imply that the navy agreed with the senator's charges that McGinnis was politically active."

In a press statement tonight, the navy department revealed that nine of the 20 navy, marine, and Coast Guard officers who have been connected with the war ballot office were active in party politics prior to their being in the navy.

Of the 20 officers, according to the statement, six were registered Democrats, five of whom had been active in politics; five were Republicans, four of whom had been in politics; three were independent, and six, who are in the field, were of unknown political affiliation.

The navy department statement had been promised as an answer to a challenge made yesterday by Ferguson to Undersecretary of the Navy Bard to tell the story of the McGinnis transfer to the senate campaign committee.

The navy spokesman said tonight's statement by the department confirmed Ferguson's charge that former politically active persons were in the war ballot office, but said no steps would be taken to remove them.

TRUMAN VOICES NEW DEAL PLEA FOR LABOR VOTE

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 2 (AP).—Winding up an 8,000 mile transcontinental tour with an appeal for labor's vote in Pennsylvania, Sen. Truman charged tonight that Republicans in congress had fought "nearly all" of the Democrats' "liberal reforms."

The Democratic Vice Presidential candidate asserted in a radio address that "reactionaries opposed to any progressive movement and enemies of labor" are "hoping and praying that somehow they can defeat the President."

In his last speech of the campaign, except for a final appeal to Missouri voters from his home town of Independence, Mo., Saturday night, Truman expressed the belief that Pittsburgh, "like all other industrial communities," will go Democratic.

76° Temperature Marks 2d Warmest Nov. 2 Here

After two days of record breaking temperatures, the mercury almost set a third record when it rose to 76 degrees at 3:45 p. m. yesterday. The day was the second warmest Nov. 2 in weather bureau history here, being exceeded only by the record 76.4 degrees on Nov. 2, 1938. It was far from balmy in North Dakota, however. Temperatures were in the low 20s and in the west snow up to 12 inches in depth fell.

WHERRY BLASTS LUCAS' ROLE IN 'INVISIBLE RULE'

Bloomington, Ill., Nov. 2 [Special].—"Invisible government" is the dominant issue in this campaign, Sen. Wherry [R., Neb.] asserted tonight before a Republican rally. Brandishing documents to sustain his charge, he said that 57 major promises of the New Deal have been broken.

Urging the election of Richard J. Lyons, Republican nominee, as United States senator from Illinois, Wherry described him as a man who would be with any President in the right and against any President in the wrong. Wherry assailed Sen. Lucas, Democratic nominee, as part and parcel of the New Deal.

"For 12 long years the farmers and the rest of the citizens of America have suffered under an invisible government," Wherry said.

Lists Experimenters.

Not forgotten, said Wherry, are the Tugwells, the Corcorans, the Cohens, the Ezekiels, the Franks, the Hopkinses, the Frankfurters, the Rosenmans, and the Nileses, whom he termed "experimenters and communistic plotters against the peace and security of this nation."

But there still are the Flynns, the Hillmans, the Browders, the Hagues, the Kellys, the Pendergasts, and the One Thousand club, he said.

"Every agency of our government is filled with these minions of invisible government," he said.

Recalls McGinnis Ouster.

"The American people dare not, and they will not, permit their government to be controled and operated by members of the invisible government, who can plot in the deep shadows of the White House against the welfare of our nation.

"It is this sort of government, this sort of people, that Scott Lucas is urging you to vote for Nov. 7. Do you doubt that Lucas approves of this sort of thing? Then consider the fact that Lt. Comdr. McGinnis, who was detailed to work on the war ballot program for the navy, was removed. By whom? By Mr. Lucas and Mr. Kelly. And why? Because, says Boss Kelly, 'He won't get any votes for Roosevelt.'"

Never again must a President of either party be permitted more than two terms, Wherry said, because there can be no free elections if the President, thru long tenure and patronage, can tie to himself 12 million votes.

F.D.R. SAYS G.O.P. TRIES TO SET UP A 'SPITE FENCE'

Calls It Barrier Between Nation and Peace.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 2 (AP).—Following is the text of President Roosevelt's White House speech:

"I had hoped that during the earlier part of this week I could have gone in person to some of the nearer midwestern cities, such as Cleveland and Detroit, and I had hoped that I could visit some of my old friends in upstate New York.

"However, on my return to Washington from Chicago I find that I am not free to spare the time right now. Therefore, I am speaking to you from the White House.

"I am disappointed about this—but, as I told the American people when I became President, I follow the principle of first things first: and this war comes first.

"We have all been overjoyed by the news from the far Pacific, 8,000 miles away. Never before in all of history has it been possible successfully to conduct such massive operations with such long lines of supply and communication.

Ahead of Schedule.

"In the Pacific theater, even while we are fighting a major war in Europe, our advance toward Japan is many months ahead of our own optimistic schedule, but we must remember that any military operation conducted at such a distance is a hazardous undertaking. In any long advance, progress may be interrupted by checks or setbacks. However, ultimately our advance will stop only in Tokyo itself.

"Our success has been the result of planning and organization and building; it has been the result of the hardest work and the hardest fighting of which our people are capable.

"On the other side of the world, in Europe, the allied forces under Gen. Eisenhower are pounding the Germans with relentless force.

"We do not expect to have a winter lull in Europe. We expect to keep striking—to keep the enemy on the move—to hit him again and again—to give him no rest—and to drive thru to the final objective—Berlin.

Had Slugging Match.

"In Italy against the handicap of rugged mountain obstacles and against bitter German resistance the allied armies are steadily moving forward, wearing down the German fighting strength in a slow, hard slugging match.

"In winning this war there is just one sure way to guarantee the minimum of casualties—by seeing to it that in every action we have overwhelming material superiority.

"We have already sent to Europe—just one of our many fronts—a force greater than the entire American expeditionary force of 1918. American troops now are fighting along a battle line of 300 miles in France and about a hundred miles in Italy.

Landings in France.

"Within 10 weeks after the first landings in France last June the allies had landed on the Normandy beaches nearly 2 million men, more than 2 million tons of supplies, and nearly half a million vehicles.

"Think of all that vast mass of material for one operation—think of the war factories and ships and planes and railroads and labor required to produce and deliver the right supplies to the right place at the right time.

"Then think of the tasks that lie ahead of us—all the long, tough miles to Berlin—all the major landings yet to be made in the Pacific—and you will have a conception of the magnitude of the job that remains to be done. It is still a job requiring the all-out production effort to all our people here at home.

Prolongation of War.

"Delays in the performance of our job at home mean prolonging the war. They will mean an increase in the total price we must pay in the lives of our men.

"All of our able commanders in the field know this. And so do our soldiers and sailors. And we at home must never forget it.

"All Americans at home are concerned in this—the fulfillment of an obligation to our fighting men.

"The women of America are most profoundly concerned.

"Today women are playing a far more direct, more personal part in the war than ever before.

"First, and I think rightly first, are those women who have gone into the WACS and the WAVES and the marines and the Coast Guard, the nursing services of the army and navy, the Red Cross—serving in all kinds of places, in and out of the United States—all of them performing functions which definitely relieve men for combat work.

Women in Industry.

"Then there are the millions of women who have gone into war industries. They are greatly responsible for the fact that the munitions and supplies to our men at the front have gone thru to them on time.

"And, finally, the women who uncomplainingly have done the job of keeping the homes going—the homes with service flags in the window—service flags with blue stars or gold stars.

"And we do not forget those women who have volunteered with the men in the difficult and important work of the ration boards all over the nation—doing the job of apportioning the necessities of life equitably among their neighbors—rich and poor.

"Every one who has made a sacrifice in this war—and that includes 135 million Americans—is determined that this must not happen again—that the disastrous mistakes of the past shall not be repeated—that this nation shall be committed to play a leading part in a world organization which shall be strong and effective and enduring.

Campaign Assertion.

"We have been told during this political campaign that unless the American people elect the Republican Presidential choice the congress will not coöperate in the peace. This is a threat to build a party spite fence between us and the peace.

"I do not know who empowers these men to speak for the congress in uttering such a threat.

"Certainly the United States senate and the house of representatives showed no reluctance to agree with the foreign policy of this administration when, almost unanimously last year, they passed the Connally and Fulbright resolutions which pledged this nation to coöperate in a world organization for peace.

"These are high and serious matters to those who know how greatly our victory in this war and our ability to establish a lasting peace depend on maintaining unshaken that understanding which must be the core of the united nations.

"It is heartening for me to have known and to have talked with the statesmen of the smaller nations as well as our larger allies—men like Benes of Czechoslovakia, Mikolajczyk of Poland, Nygaardswold of Norway—and leaders of democratic thought from Yugoslavia, and Greece, and Denmark, and Belgium, and the Netherlands—and, of course, the great leaders of our neighbor countries in this hemisphere.

Family of Nations.

"I have spent many fruitful hours talking with men from the more remote nations—such as Turkey, Persia, Arabia, Abyssinia, Liberia, Siam, and others—for all of them are part and parcel of the great family of nations. It is only thru an understanding acquired by years of consultation that one can get a viewpoint of their problems and their innate yearnings for freedom.

"And all of them have this in common—that they yearn for peace and stability—and they look to America with hope and faith.

"The world is rising from the agony of the past, the world is turning with hope to the future. It would be a sorry and cynical thing to betray this hope for the sake of mere political advantage and a tragic thing to shatter it because of the failure of vision.

"There have been some other aspects of this campaign which have been distasteful to all of us.

"This campaign has been marred by even more than the usual crop of whisperings and rumorings. Some of these get into print, in certain types of newspapers; others are traded about, secretly, in one black market after another. I do not propose to answer in kind.

"The voting record proves that the American people pay little attention to whispering campaigns. They have paid little attention to all the malignant rumors of enemy origin which have flooded this country during this war—and I am sure they will treat the present whispering with the same contempt.

More Wicked Charges.

"As we approach election day more wicked charges may be made with the hope that some one or somebody will gain momentary advantage.

"Hysterical last minute accusations or sensational revelations are trumped up in an attempt to panic the people on election day.

"But the American people are not panicked easily.

"This election will not be decided on a basis of malignant murmurings—or shouts. It will be settled on the basis of the record.

"We all know the record of our military achievements in this war.

"And we all know the record of the tremendous production achievements of our American farmers, our American business men, and our American labor.

"And we all know the record of our teamwork with our allies. Immediately after Pearl Harbor we formed with the other united nations the greatest military coalition in world history. And we have steadily gone on from that to establish the basis for a strong and durable organization for world peace.

"The America which built the greatest war machine in all history and which kept it supplied is an America which can look to the future with confidence and faith.

"I propose the continuance of the teamwork that we have demonstrated in this war.

"By carrying out the plans we have made we can avoid a post-war depression—we can provide employment for our veterans and our war workers—we can achieve an orderly reconversion.

"Above all, we can avoid another false boom like that which burst in 1929 and a dismal collapse like that of 1930 to 1933.

Era of Expansion.

"With continuance of our teamwork I look forward, under the leadership of this government, to an era of expanison and production and employment—to new industries and increased security.

"I look forward to millions of new homes, fit for decent living; to new, low priced automobiles; new highways; new airplanes and airports; to television, and miraculous new inventions and discoveries, made during this war, which will be adapted to the peace time uses of a peace loving people.

"The record that we have established in this war is one of which every American has a right to be proud—today and for all time.

"We do not want the later record to say that the great job was done in vain.

"We do not want our boys to come back to an America which is headed for another war in another generation.

"Our post-war job will be to work and to build—for a better America than we have ever known.

"If in the next few years we can start that job right, then you and I can know that we have kept faith with our boys—we have helped them to win a total victory."

CAMPAIGNERS SPEED UP DRIVE FOR VOTES AT DISTRICT RALLIES

Gov. Green, Richard J. Lyons, Republican candidate for United States senator, and other state nominees will make the rounds of a flock of mass meetings tonight. Star speakers are scheduled for rallies in the Lawndale Masonic temple, the Masonic temple at 12757 S. Western av., the Washington school in Chicago Heights, the Lowell school in Harvey, and the Knights of Columbus hall, 4723 Madison st.

Democratic candidates will be honored Sunday night at a dinner in the Terrace Casino of the Morrison hotel by the Greek division of the party. Mayor Kelly, Sen. Lucas, running for reëlection, State's Atty. Courtney, nominee for governor, and other candidates will be present.

Fred A. Cain, president of the Illinois Veterans' league, is active in behalf of the candidacy of marine Sgt. Edward J. Barrett, Democratic nominee for secretary of state. Cain said that "Barrett's election will mean that veterans of Illinois will have a champion in Springfield who knows, as a veteran of two World wars himself, what their problems are."

Among the last minute appeals to be made by Sen. Scott W. Lucas, and Thomas J. Courtney, Democratic gubernatorial nominee, will be a double appearance as guests of State Sen. William J. Connors, 42d ward Democratic committeeman, at a mass meeting to be held by Connors Sunday afternoon at 945 N. State st.

Forty-six police motorcycles and 46 squad cars will be used on election day to pick up election returns at precinct polling places and take them to district stations, Capt. Harry A. Fulmer, director of police personnel, yesterday told 38 police lieutenants who went to his office to receive election day instructions. In addition, Capt. Fulmer said, 120 policemen have been detailed to take the returns from district stations to election headquarters in the city hall.

Sen. Brewster [R., Me.] will be the principal speaker at 8 p. m. tonight at a Republican rally in the Gordon school auditorium in Lake Forest.

FIVE PRO-F.D.R. ELECTORS ADDED IN MISSISSIPPI

Jackson, Miss., Nov. 2 [Special]—The Mississippi legislature, meeting in extraordinary session in an attempt to halt a Democratic bolt, tonight named five new Democratic Presidential electors to replace an equal number of electors on the party slate who had opposed the Roosevelt-Truman ticket.

The action to amend the state's election laws was regarded as carrying a measure of victory for the anti-Roosevelt group for it left undisturbed on the Nov. 7 ballot the names of the rebel electors who had asserted they would vote for Sen. Byrd [D., Va.] for President.

The bill passed by both houses of the general assembly provided for a supplemental ballot to be attached to the regular ballot listing the five new electors along with the four pro-Roosevelt electors whose names are on the regular ballot of nine electors designated at the Democratic convention last June.

4 Sets on Ballot.

Thus, for the first time in Mississippi history, voters will be confronted with four sets of nine electors when they go to the polls next Tuesday to vote for their state's members of the electoral college. On the supplemental ballot will be the team of nine solid pro-Roosevelt electors. And on the regular ballot will be the nine Democrats named by the state convention and two sets of Republican electors—the "white-Negro" and the "lily white" factions.

"This was the only safe way to do what was wanted," explained Walter Sillers, speaker of the house.

Gov. Thomas L. Bailey, an ardent New Dealer, had issued a call Tuesday night for the special legislative session to take some action to get rid of the anti-Roosevelt electors. The executive and other fourth term advocates had first planned, thru their control of the legislature, to force the rebellious electors to forfeit their offices unless they signed affidavits promising to support Roosevelt.

Affidavit Plan Dropped.

Altho the legislature decided in joint session today that it has the power to elect members of the electoral college, it dropped the affidavit plan and adopted the supplemental ballot because, it was explained, "anything else might have run afoul of the state constitution."

In his address to the joint session of the legislature, which convened at 2:30 p. m., Gov. Bailey outlined the "crisis" in the state's electoral situation and declared that a vote for Sen. Byrd or any candidate other than President Roosevelt is "in effect a vote for Dewey."

He mentioned the suggestion that the legislature appoint the electors but said he didn't recommend that course "altho it is within your constitutional prerogative."

Hold Separate Sessions.

"I prefer," he said, "that the right of selections which resides in the people remain there, namely, the right of all qualified electors to freely express their choice at the ballot box. I urge legislation which will do no violence to the rights of any citizen and I urge upon you the enactment of legislation which will protect, preserve and guarantee that right unto all qualified electors."

The legislature then went into separate sessions and, first the house and then the senate, passed the bill drawn by the governor's advisers to replace the slate of electors which the Democratic convention had named and specifically left free to vote as they pleased.

The senate added three minor amendments merely clarifying the bill's language which necessitates its return to the house tomorrow morning, but the house is expected to approve those additions without delay.

The legislative action leaves unaffected some 25,000 absentee soldier and sailor votes which had been cast on ballots containing the names of the original pro and anti-Roosevelt electors. The need to avoid interfering with these ballots was one of the numerous delicate angles in handling the entire matter.

The new electors, named at a caucus of both legislative houses, and those they are intended to replace are: Former Lt. Gov. J. B. Snider for Frank Everett; Guy Mitchell Sr. for T. J. Tubb; W. C. Coleman for J. B. Perry Jr.; Hugh Wall for W. G. McLain, and Miss Susie B. Powell for Clarence Morgan.

MISSISSIPPI FIGHT ON ANTI-NEW DEAL ELECTORS ASSAILED

Cleveland, O., Nov. 2 [Special].—Attempts by Gov. Bailey [D., Miss.] to oust three Democratic Presidential electors who indicated they would refuse to vote for President Roosevelt were assailed today by Charles Grissom, executive secretary of the League of American Independents.

Grissom, who said he had "worked for the election of Roosevelt three times," wired Gov. Bailey that "your actions in calling a special session of the legislature to disfranchise the people of your state and denying them the right of vote in the Presidential election constitutes one of the sorriest incidents in the history of the United States."

"I am as much a Democrat as you ever professed to be but if the people of America can be bamboozled by Roosevelt job holders into voting for his continuance in office and for the devastating influence of those un-American forces which support him, then I must warn America that such action carries all the potentialities of revolution," said Grissom's wire.

"If you, as governor, can deny the people of your state the right to express their preference by ballots for the Presidency, then such action points the way we are headed under Roosevelt. I condemn the action you have taken and agree that you should resign as governor of Mississippi."

LYONS, GREEN SHOW GAINS IN TRIBUNE POLL

Downstate Areas Reveal Republican Growth.

BY LEWIS HUNT.

Further returns today in THE TRIBUNE'S state-wide straw vote place Richard J. Lyons, Republican nominee for United States senator against Sen. Lucas, in virtually the same favorable position accorded Gov. Dewey, the party's Presidential candidate. Both Lyons and Gov. Green, whose campaign for reëlection against State's Atty. Courtney is winning indications of stronger support than he received in 1940, show increased strength in straws from the important downstate sector.

The contest for state's attorney in Cook county between John T. Dempsey, Republican, and William J. Tuohy, Democrat, remains tight on the day's addition of straws.

Some Roosevelt Gains.

A trend in favor of the President is suggested by straws taken by THE TRIBUNE'S canvassers in several localities since the table printed today was made up. Compared with the first checks, some of these markings show 5 to 10 per cent gains for Roosevelt; other rechecks remain on Dewey's side.

While the recheck straws are not numerous or definite enough to prove a pro-Roosevelt switch, they may indicate that among some voters opinion has been affected by recent developments. All of them were gathered after the President's speech in Soldiers' field last Saturday night. The late straws will be included in tables tabulated tomorrow.

Lyons Support Shown.

For senator, the present standings, compared with the 1940 vote in the canvassed areas for Sen. Brooks and former Sen. James M. Slattery, are:

	1944 Straws. [Per Cent]		1940 Vote. [Per Cent]
	Lyons.	Lucas.	Brooks.	Slattery.
Chicago	43	57	44	56
Cook county towns	61	39	60	40
Downstate	59	41	52	48

	1944 Straws. [Per Cent]		1940 Vote. [Per Cent]
	Green.	Courtney.	Green.	Hershey.
Chicago	45	55	49	51
Cook county towns	63	37	66	34
Downstate	61	39	52	48

Standings for state's attorney, compared with the 1940 vote for Courtney and the late Judge Oscar Nelson, are:

	1944 Straws. [Per Cent]		1940 Vote. [Per Cent]
	Dempsey.	Tuohy.	Nelson.	Courtney.
Chicago	47	53	34	66
Cook county towns	63	37	48	52

Gov. Green's straws point to his reëlection with a plurality exceeding the 256,945 given him in 1940. Dewey's standings in the latest Presidential tabulation, which was printed in THE TRIBUNE yesterday, are: Chicago, 42.8 per cent; Cook county towns, 61.8; down state, 58.6.

Lyons maintains his downstate standing, 59 per cent, even tho the straws added today come from 22 communities that, altogether, gave the Democratic senatorial candidate 54 per cent of their votes four years ago. His indicated support there, 57 per cent, is 11 per cent stronger than that given Sen. Brooks election day, 1940.

Gaining Over Lucas.

Outside Cook county, Lyons is gathering straws at an increasing rate over an opponent who is a downstate resident. Sen. Lucas also has boasted of Republican clubs organized for him in numerous localities, and he has made special appeals to farmers and organized labor as being the friend of both on his record in the senate.

Lyons has campaigned on an appeal of Americanism in support of the national party platform, and the straws indicate his increasing effectiveness. In four tabulations, counting today's, he has stood, successively, 42, 43, 43, and 43 per cent in Chicago; 61, 64, 64, and 61 per cent in the Cook county towns and 57, 57, 59, and 59 per cent downstate.

Cicero Factor Cited.

Both Lyons and Green are in less favorable positions in the country towns today because the added straws include 721 from Democratic Cicero. Even when mixed with test ballots from the Republican communities of Maywood, Winnetka, and Evanston, the day's batch is out of proportion. Further returns may easily restore the previous higher percentage given the Republican candidates in the county outside Chicago.

Lucas' strength in Chicago, where the Kelly machine has promoted him as indispensable to the President, is 1 per cent off from his first day's showing. His indication then was 58 per cent, which was President Roosevelt's share of the city's 1940 vote. The President's straws have not yet reached that height, but, with 57.2 per cent, he is now doing better than Lucas.

More returns in THE TRIBUNE'S Presidential poll will be printed tomorrow.

POLL INDICATES YANKS HOLD KEY TO N.Y. RESULT

New York, Nov. 2 [Special].—The final results of the original and complete canvass in the New York Daily News Presidential poll of New York state—a repoll is already underway to check the first poll — show Thomas E. Dewey with a slim and undecisive 50.8 per cent lead over Franklin D. Roosevelt's 49.2 per cent among civilian voters.

This virtual tie, from a statistical standpoint, clearly indicates that the fate of New York state's crucial 47 electoral votes will be decided Tuesday by the war ballots cast by New Yorkers in the armed services. This vote is unknown and unsampled.

Final figures of the original canvas:

State-Wide Results.

Dewey, 31,564 or..... 50.8 per cent
F. D. R., 30,522 or.....49.2 per cent

1,042 Straw Edge.

Dewey's straw majority in the civilian vote is 1,042 straws, or 1.6 percentage points.

Compared to Roosevelt's 1940 actual vote, the President's poll percentage is 2.8 percentage points behind upstate, 2.4 percentage points behind in New York City, and shows a drop of 2.6 percentage points statewide.

The upstate and city figures:

Upstate Results.

Dewey, 16,509 or..... 60.9 per cent
F. D. R, 11,901 or..... 39.1 per cent

City Results.

F. D. R, 18,621 or..... 58.8 per cent
Dewey, 13,055 or..... 41.2 per cent

The total number of straws collected from civilian voters upstate and in New York City is within a minute fraction of being in proper proportion to the actual estimated upstate vote and the actual estimated city vote in the forthcoming election.

Pollers Retrace Steps.

The estimate is based on the assumption that in each area the same percentage of registrants who voted in 1940 will cast their ballots next Tuesday.

The total number of straws collected in the 21 day canvass is 62,086 or slightly more than 1 per cent of the total estimated two candidate civilian vote.

Approximately 8,009 additional straws will be taken in the repoll which began this morning. For three days the crews will retrace their canvass in impartially and scientifically selected key areas from Buffalo to the southernmost tip of Staten Island.

4 POLLS REPORT RACE TOO TIGHT TO PICK WINNER

F. D. R. Given Slight Edge by 3.

New York, Nov. 2 (AP).—Four nation-wide polls were agreed as of today that the race between President Roosevelt and Gov. Dewey was too close to warrant trying to pick the winner.

Three of the four opinion samplings gave the President a slight lead. The fourth, the Gallup poll, indicated that his Republican opponent had the edge in the electoral vote, altho the poll listed the popular vote as 51 per cent for Roosevelt as against 49 per cent for Dewey. All four were careful to point out the margins were not conclusive.

Final results of the Crossley poll give Roosevelt 52 per cent of the major party vote on the basis of late October polling in 23 pivotal states, adjusted by estimates of the fighting service vote.

Upset Easily Possible.

An analysis accompanying the Crossley poll add that the President's plurality "in several important states is so narrow that it is quite possible for Dewey to capture a majority of the electoral votes merely by minor changes, or increased Republican voting in these states."

A semi-final poll conducted for Fortune magazine by the Elmo Roper firm gives Roosevelt 53.5 per cent of the civilian vote.

Dr. George Gallup's American Institute of Public Opinion reports Dewey leading as of last week in 22 states with 255 electoral votes and Roosevelt ahead in 21 states with 206 electoral votes. [It takes 266 to win.] The remaining five states, with 70 electoral votes, are listed as "on the line."

In the fourth pool, a Newsweek magazine survey representing state-by-state estimates of 118 political writers, Roosevelt is found leading in 27 states with 249 electoral votes and Dewey in 20 states with 247 electoral votes. Newsweek regards Pennsylvania [35 electoral votes] as the state of decision.

Fortune does not break down its poll by states. Here is what the other three find in what they consider "pivotal" states [electoral votes in parenthesis]:

State—	Gallup.	Newsweek.	Crossley.
N. Y. [47]	D. 51%	D. Slightly	50-50
Pa. [35]	50-50	50-50	R. 51%
Mass. [16]	50-50	R. Slightly	50-50
N. J. [16]	50-50	D. Probably	50-50
Minn. [11]	D. 53%	R. Probably	50-50
Okla. [10]	50-50	R. Probably	D. 51%
Mo. [15]	D. 51%	D. Probably	R. 51%
Ore. [6]	50-50	D. Probably	50-50
W. Va. [8]	D. 51%	D.	50-50

D. Dewey. R. Roosevelt.

All three polls find Roosevelt leading in these 20 states, which have a total of 198 electoral votes: Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, California, Connecticut, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, Montana, Nevada, North Carolina, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Virginia and Washington.

Dewey is given the edge in these 12 states, whose combined electoral vote is 115: Colorado, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Michigan, Nebraska, North Dakota, Ohio, South Dakota, Vermont and Wisconsin.

NEW DEAL CLUB SEES NO NEWS IN $1,000 NAMES

The New Deal's One Thousand club, organized to help finance the fourth term campaign for President Roosevelt, is too busy with the election campaign to concern itself now with how many members have joined by kicking in $1,000 apiece, George D. Crowley, a member of the club, said yesterday at the organization's executive headquarters in the Stevens hotel.

"The decision on announcing the names of members," said Crowley, "will be up to the club's trustees."

Crowley, who is vice chairman of the division of finance of the Democratic National committee, said the One Thousand club might be comparable—in principle at least—to the International Rotary club.

O'CONNOR PREDICTS ELECTION OF DEWEY IN LANDSLIDE VOTE

Washington, D. C., Nov. 2 [Special].—Predicting the Dewey-Bricker ticket will win by a landslide of electoral votes, former Rep. John J. O'Connor of New York, executive committeeman chairman of the American Democratic national committee [Democrats for Dewey], declared 30 per cent of the Democratic vote in the country will be cast for the Republican standard bearer.

"Our reports convince us that Hillman and Browder will not be able to deliver the large promised vote to the New Deal," O'Connor said, "because, among other things, we are impressing upon the workers of the country that they are protected by the secrecy of the voting booth and that neither Hillman nor the New Deal Gestapo will ever know how they voted."

O'Connor insisted that reports from 35 of the committee's headquarters convince them that "not a single northern state at this time is in the bag for the New Dealers "and that it is entirely possible that "even Texas, Florida, and Virginia" may go for Dewey.

WALLACE MAY REPLACE HULL IF F. D. R. WINS

Secretary Reported Too Ill to Work.

it was reported he had done so for a physical checkup. As the stay lengthened Undersecretary Stettinius reported the checkup was proceeding satisfactorily, but said nothing about the progress of the patient.

Stettinius is said to cherish hopes of succeeding Hull. Another contender for the post is Welles, who hopes that with the retirement of Hull, he will be recalled. Friends of Hull reported the secretary would crawl to his office daily rather than see Welles occupy his chair.

An Outside Chance.

In the state department Stettinius and Welles are regarded as having only an outside chance. Diplomatic circles, too, accept the report that the post will go to Wallace.

After the Vice President was swapped in midstream for the Missouri senator, he was promised a high post in the administration. It was not made clear at the time what the post would be.

It is expected, in the event of a New Deal victory, that Wallace would remain as Vice President until Jan. 20, when he would be given the cabinet post. However, it is possible that Wallace might resign and fill the cabinet seat immediately on the retirement of Hull, should the latter decide to leave immediately after the election.

Urged by Liberals.

Should circumstances make it inadvisable for Wallace to resign his presiding post in the senate to head the state department, it is considered likely that Stettinius would be made secretary of state with the understanding that he yield the post on demand to Wallace.

Wallace's appointment as secretary of state has been urged by New Dealers, who insist he has the true world point of view.

Kalamazoo Students Want Mrs. Dewey in White House

Kalamazoo, Mich., Nov. 2 [Special].—Students of Kalamazoo college conducted a private poll on whether Mrs. Roosevelt should be returned to the White House or whether Mrs. Dewey should take her place. Mrs. Dewey was returned the winner by a 3 to 1 margin.

Two Ballot Irregularities Found in Four-Day Search

Ralph E. Manuel, investigator for the United States senate committee on campaign expenditures, said yesterday that four days of work have uncovered two instances of election fraud. He made a report to United States Atty. Woll. In one case a soldier discovered while home on leave that his vote had been cast by another. The second case was that of a man who circulated registration records supposed to remain in the registration place.

LUCAS COASTS THRU RACE ON 4TH TERM SLED

BY GUY GENTRY.

Committed to the New Deal program thru six years of allegiance in the senate, United States Sen. Lucas is seeking reëlection on the Democratic ticket on the basis that a fourth term is essential to winning the war and preserving the peace.

In his campaign, Lucas has directed more of his oratory against Gov. Dewey than against his Republican opponent, Richard J. Lyons, predicting in one speech that, if Dewey is elected President, "the wheels of progress in our great war effort would stand still."

Victor Thru Kelly Efforts.

Lucas comes before the Illinois voters for the first time since 1938, and is confronted with a marked swing of sentiment toward the Republican party. In 1938, he won by 95,000 votes over the same opponent he faces this year. He lost downstate Illinois by 108,000 and the country towns of Cook county by 51,000, but was saved when the Kelly machine rolled up a 255,000 majority for him in Chicago. Lyons' supporters claimed their candidate was actually elected.

Sen. Lucas, author of the bob-tailed soldier vote bill, has assailed Gov. Green for his failure to certify the federal ballot in Illinois, charging that many soldiers and sailors are deprived of their vote despite the efficient way in which absentee voting by Illinois service men is working in the present election.

Scott Wike Lucas has maintained his residence for the 52 years of his lifetime within a few miles of his birthplace in Cass county. His home now is in Havana, a small Mason county town on the Illinois river in the 20th congressional district, which Lucas represented in Washington for two terms.

Former College Athlete.

Standing 6 feet 2 inches and with his hair turning gray, he still possesses a lithe figure almost as trim as in his college days, when he was a three letter man at Illinois Wesleyan university. He later played with the Three-Eye Baseball league in the early days of his law career.

Lucas was admitted to the bar in 1914 and began practice in Havana. He enlisted in the army in World War I, and was discharged as a second lieutenant, returning to Havana, where he was state's attorney from 1920 to 1925. He quit that office to become Illinois commander of the American Legion, later serving as national judge advocate.

Given Horner's Backing.

Teaming with Michael Igoe in 1932, Lucas sought the senatorial nomination, but was defeated by Sen. Dieterich. He was appointed chairman of the state tax commission, a position he held until he was elected 20th district representative after the death of Speaker Henry T. Rainey in 1934. In 1938, he was given the late Gov. Horner's backing for the senate and was elected.

In the primary campaign that year, Lucas made some speeches that later arose to plague him. Facing opposition of the Kelly-Nash organization, he charged that boss rule threatened the sanctity of the ballot and called on Cook county Democrats to disavow the Kelly-Nash leadership. The support of that same leadership was welcomed in the fall, but his primary speeches provided campaign material against him.

Convention Blunder in 1940.

Other words that later plagued Lucas were spoken by him before the Democratic national convention in 1940; when he stepped to the microphone to withdraw his name as a Vice Presidential candidate in favor of Henry Wallace, he began, "If this had been a free and open convention. . . ."

His name was presented again to the 1944 convention as a Vice Presidential candidate, but this time Mayor Kelly did all the talking.

Lucas was married in 1923 to Edith Biggs of Havana. They have a son, Scott Jr.

GREEN, BARRETT, LYONS PREDICT G.O.P. VICTORY

Three Illinois Republican leaders—Gov. Green, Atty. Gen. Barrett, and Richard J. Lyons, nominee for senator—last night predicted nation-wide victory for the G. O. P. and warned voters to be on the watch for election fraud tricks and intimidation engineered by "panic stricken New Deal bosses."

Gov. Green, in a talk before 25th ward workers at 2431 Roosevelt rd., declared that efforts already have been made to frighten Republican voters from the polls. He cited two examples of intimidation recently reported in which a family was threatened for refusal to remove a Dewey picture and a Democratic election worker was discharged because she demanded compliance with election laws.

Illinois Saves Secret Ballot.

"We must guard against the efforts of the machine to frighten Republican voters away from the polls," the governor said. Under our secret ballot, which we have preserved in Illinois, despite the efforts of the New Dealers to abolish it for our soldiers, every man and woman may vote according to his or her conscience. We know that thousands of loyal union men will ignore the orders of the radical bloc and vote for America."

The New Deal campaign orators, under orders of panic stricken bosses in New York, are tossing reckless promise on reckless promise in an effort to save the party "from almost certain defeat," Atty. Gen. Barrett, nominee for reëlection, said in a speech over station W-G-N.

"However, if there is one perfect thing about the New Deal it is its record for nonperformance of its promises," Barrett added.

Lyons Charges Straddling.

Lyons taunted the New Deal for its attempts to "sit on both sides of the fence" at the same time, in a speech at 44th ward Republican headquarters, 2313 Lincoln av.

"The President recently announced that he had become a convert to the system of free enterprise," Lyons declared, "yet his entire record is one of opposition to the system. The fourth term candidate promises 60 million jobs, but he spent 40 billion dollars in a futile attempt to solve unemployment.

"Mr. Roosevelt, who assured the people that he was too busy to campaign in the usual sense, is now adding speech after speech, to his political schedule in a frantic effort to offset the nation-wide sweep to Tom Dewey."

Charges Blows at Constitution.

Speaking before a huge crowd at a meeting in 43d ward Republican headquarters at 758 North av., Rep. Day, seeking reëlection as congressman at large, asserted that since 1932 President Roosevelt has tried to undermine the Constitution. Day said that Roosevelt assumed his first election to be a mandate which freed him from the normal checks and balances of government.

Another speaker, Arnold P. Benson, candidate for secretary of state, declared that the record of the Green administration justified the election of the entire state ticket.

Nonpartisan Group Tells Why It Backs Mulcahy

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

A nonpartisan organization of 150 business and professional men yesterday cited a number of reasons for their support of Sheriff Mulcahy, Democratic nominee for the office he has held for the last year by appointment.

In asking votes for Mulcahy, the committee cited his record as first director of the metropolitan office of price administration, as an alderman, assistant corporation counsel, assistant attorney general, and president of the board of local improvements of Chicago.

"Gave Proof of This."

"He has the imagination and force that are required in a great executive officer," the committee stated, "and he gave proof of this when he became the first director of the metropolitan OPA. In this uncharted field he provided an administration singularly free of the conflict and confusion so evident in many other big cities.

"Not a word of scandal was ever spoken in connection with the OPA in Chicago while he had supervision."

Names of Group Given.

Regarding Mulcahy's service as sheriff, the committee said the office never had been conducted so efficiently and never had won the commendations that lawyers and business men have given Mulcahy.

Members of the committee include W. A. Patterson, president of the United Air Lines, chairman; S. T. Kiddo, vice president of Fairbanks Morse & Co., treasurer, and Martin Ross, professor in the school of commerce, Northwestern university, secretary. Prominent medical men in the group are Drs. E. W. Fischman, James E. Fitzgerald, Frederick Tice, Karl A. Meyer, George M. Landau, Aaron Arkin, and Marshall Davidson.

The committee's statement described Mulcahy as a trained and seasoned lawyer and executive whose honesty and integrity are so far above reproach that he is "roundly feared by every criminal element in our community." The group added:

Eager to Carry On.

"We of the nonpartisan business and professional men's committee, of varying political faiths, feel it would be calamitous if such efficiency and integrity in office be not supported by an overwhelming vote in the coming election."

Sheriff Mulcahy told the committee members he is eager to carry on the work he has started. He praised Chief John McGinnis, head of the county highway police department, for his part in helping to drive criminals out of strongholds in Cook county territory.

WALSH CANCELS RADIO ADDRESS FOR ROOSEVELT

Boston, Mass., Nov. 2 (AP).—Radio station WBZ said today that former United States Rep. Joseph B. Casey had been substituted for Sen. Walsh [D., Mass.], who was scheduled to make an address for his party's national and state tickets over its facilities at 6:15 p. m. [eastern war time] tonight.

Earlier Sen. Walsh said he had accepted a personal invitation from President Roosevelt to meet the chief executive in Worcester Saturday.

There had been some doubt in political circles as to whether Walsh would appear with the President after the senator's recent controversy with the party's vice Presidential candidate, Harry S. Truman. Truman was quoted as saying that the party hoped to "reform" Walsh's position as an "isolationist."

GREEN URGES VOTES FOR BANK ACT AMENDMENT

Gov. Green yesterday urged Illinois citizens to vote "yes" on the proposed amendments to the state banking law. This proposition will be one of two appearing on the large ballot with national, state, and county candidates.

"These amendments change the provisions of the law fixing the limit on the amount of a loan any bank may make to an individual, partnership, or corporation," Green said. "The new provision limits the amount of such a loan to 30 per cent of the bank's capital actually paid in and to 25 per cent of the bank's deposits. They provide, however, that the purchases of marketable securities shall not be construed as money borrowed within the meaning of this act."

LUCAS ASSAILS G. O. P. TACTICS OVER G.I. BILL

Sen. Lucas [D., Ill.] seeking reelection, charged Illinois Republican leaders with using the G. I. bill of rights as a political football in an address delivered last night at the Democratic night meeting of the Post Commanders club of the American Legion in the Morrison hotel.

"If you would read some of their propaganda," Lucas said, "you would think that the G. I. bill of right originated and was passed under the leadership of the governor of Illinois."

Lucas praised the Legion. He said: "In passing the G. I. bill of rights we acted on the Legion's suggestions for hospitalization, insurance, disability, compensation, guardianship, and other features.

Job Theme Sounded.

"Our responsibility is to give assurance to our veterans they will return to civilian life as soon as possible, under an economy which will give them jobs.

"The American Legion has always been conscious of the need for security for our nation and we Legionnaires also affrm our confidence in the military solidarity of our allies."

Defending his sponsorship of the bob-tailed ballot for service men and women, Lucas declared that "if Uncle Sam under the Constitution can take an Illinois boy, put him in a foxhole in Guadalcanal with a bayonet in his hands, then Uncle Sam can also put a ballot in his hands. But the state's rights advocates said they could do it better."

Sen. Bailey Backs Lucas.

Lucas also spoke last night at a 29th ward meeting at 3350 W. Jackson blvd.

Sen. Josiah W. Bailey of North Carolina took time out from his duties as a member of the United States delegation to the international civil air conference to urge Illinois voters to return his Democratic colleague to the senate.

"He has attained such stature in six years it justifies me in saying a further term would add to his demonstrated usefulness to the people of Illinois," Bailey declared.

COAT STOLEN FROM HOME.

Mrs. Nora Kirby yesterday reported the theft of a fur trimmed coat from her home at 6507 Ellis av.

Dares Kelly Machine to Bare Sources.

John T. Dempsey, Republican candidate for state's attorney, yesterday offered to share the cost of a thoro investigation of the sources of revenue of the Kelly Democratic machine. He made his offer in a letter to the City club which had invited Dempsey and his rival, William J. Tuohy, to open their books on campaign expenditures.

Dempsey said that on receipt of the City club letter he immediately called William N. Haight, president, to meet him as soon as possible. Soon afterward Haight came with two other members, Paul Darrow and Hans Schenk. After conferring with them Dempsey wrote to the club.

Subject of Suspicion.

"You gentlemen know, of course, that my opponent is the Kelly machine candidate," Dempsey wrote. "The sources of that machine's revenue have always been the subject of a great deal of suspicion.

"Mayor Kelly's personal candidate for state's attorney said that he would be willing to submit a 'list of his contributors.' He undoubtedly thought that your organization was gullible enough to accept some phony lists of contributions and expenses that he himself might prepare.

Favors Exhaustive Inquiry.

"I congratulate you upon the complete type of investigation you believe necessary to make and that you are willing to sponsor. Nothing will be more beneficial to this community than an exhaustive inquiry of the kind you propose."

Dempsey said that the City club representatives agreed with him that it would "hardly scratch the surface" to have the candidates submit lists showing amounts spent on various forms of advertising, and purported contributors. Investigation should include all amounts expended on each candidate by each political organization and all members, from the beginning of the campaign thru election day, he said, adding: "I welcome such an inquiry."

DEMPSEY HURTS CHICAGO'S NAME, TUOHY CHARGES

William J. Tuohy, Democratic nominee for state's attorney, yesterday attacked the political record of his Republican rival, John T. Dempsey, and charged him with being "a political salesman who defames Chicago."

Dempsey charged recently that the Kelly Democratic machine would adopt smear methods in the closing days of the campaign in a desperate effort to defeat him.

VOTE OF MINERS MAY BE DECISIVE IN KENTUCKY

Soldiers' Ballots Also Vital Factor in Result.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 2.—The soldiers' vote and the coal miners' vote may determine elections results in Kentucky next Tuesday. This border state, traditionally Democratic, is listed in the doubtful column tho leaning to President Roosevelt, and is the scene of one of the hardest fought political contests in its recent history.

In rural Kentucky communism, and the influence of Sidney Hillman's Communist dominated CIO-PAC within the Democratic national party, has in the final week become a leading issue. Republicans are hammering on it in campaign literature and over the air.

Closer Race Expected.

Republicans look for a close race on President and say Kentucky may provide some surprises on Tuesday. Democrats expect a much closer race than in 1940. Both sides have intensive organizations in the counties this time.

The Republicans figure on a majority of around 10,000 for Dewey and Bricker. The Democrats estimate Roosevelt will carry the state by 30,000 to 50,000 as compared with his 146,000 majority of 1940. Both sides look for a total vote of around 750,000, as against 967,000 four years ago. These figures are all said to be based on actual canvasser in all the counties.

From surface indications, Dewey is favored by a larger proportion of the labor vote—the AFL members, the railway brotherhoods, and the coal miners—than was Wendell Willkie in 1940. Polls taken by Republicans in 10 Louisville plants gave Dewey a slight edge.

60 to 70 Pct. for Dewey.

Coal miners in the eastern and western Kentucky fields are figured by Republicans to be 60 to 70 per cent for Dewey. Willkie four years ago got slim pickings there. It is figured that they cast in excess of 25,000 votes, and in a close race might be the determining factor, along with the soldier vote. The 9th district in southeast Kentucky, a mining district, is expected by Republicans to go for Dewey by 35,000. It went Republican by 27,000 votes in last year's state elections.

Jefferson county [Louisville] is claimed by the Republicans, who carried it by 3,600 for governor last year and elected a Republican board of aldermen in the city. The Democrats exhibit little optimism over this area on national candidates.

Last November the state elected a Republican governor, Simeon S. Willis, and other state officials except one. Republican county chairmen in all sections declare the anti-New Deal swing is more in evidence than ever.

Twice in the last 20 years Kentucky has voted for a Republican President—Coolidge in 1924 and Hoover in 1928—while Harding in the 1920 landslide lost it by 4,017 votes.

Republicans find encouragement in the registration, saying that in strong Democratic districts, they received a larger proportion of new names on the books than did the Democrats. In Democratic western Kentucky, Democrats are said to be making as many contributions to the G. O. P. campaign fund as are Republicans.

On Ordinary Form.

Counter-claims by Democrats are that on ordinary form the state has 100,000 more Democrats than Republicans. The contest is such, however, that they figure Roosevelt may get 53.5 per cent of the total vote, where in 1940 he had 57.6 per cent.

The soldier vote is expected to be 40,000 to 50,000. Over the trend of this, there is great dispute. Republicans say surface indications are Dewey will more than break even. Democrats declare the heaviest proportionate soldier vote has been in Democratic districts and that it will run 60 per cent Roosevelt.

Sen. Barkley, who is opposed for reelection by James Park, commonwealth attorney of Lexington, appears to be up against the hardest fight of his career.

Republicans are not underestimating Barkley, who is an adept in political wiles, but they figure he may be beaten.

Records Show Hillman Hailed as 'Comrade' on Moscow Visit

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 2.—Sidney Hillman, head of the CIO political action committee, who challenged any one, during an appearance here Monday, to link him with communist activities, was addressed as Comrade Hillman by the Official Russian press during his visit to Moscow in 1922. This was disclosed tonight by examination of the Congressional Record, official publication of congress.

On June 21, 1940, Rep. Cox [D., Ga.] introduced into the record a quotation from the Oct. 6, 1922, edition of Pravda, official organ of the Communist party in Moscow, which contained an interview with Hillman. The quotation follows:

"Comrade Hillman expressed his confidence that the Russian-American industrial corporation is but the first step toward a really practical help of the international proletariat to soviet Russia, and this corporation will play a great economic and political role in the future."

In Stock Selling Scheme.

Hillman returned to his native Russia in 1922 as president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America to assist the Russian government in setting up garment manufacturing plants. He was made president of the Russian-American Industrial corporation and sought to sell American workers stock in the corporation which was to build six clothing plants in Russia.

Nicolai Lenin, founder of Russian communism, whom Hillman saw in the Kremlin, wired Communists in America to "work with Hillman" 22 years before President Roosevelt ordered Democratic National Chairman Hannegan to "clear everything with Sidney."

"More Dangerous than Browder."

In his remarks in the Congressional Record four years ago, Rep. Cox said:

"The organization of the youth of the country under Sidney Hillman means communism in the years to come. He is more dangerous than Earl Browder and a thousand times more dangerous than 10,000 Harry Bridges."

Cox said that in his report of his European tour Hillman told the 1922 clothing workers convention:

"In Rome I was doubly welcome: The secretary of the metal workers' union gave me a letter, the only key to open the gates of the factory. With my Italian comrades, I landed in front of the factory which looked attractive because of the fine 'Red' flag which adorned the building and the 'Red' sentinel who was keeping watch. I stayed for lunch with members of the factory council. The council then took me thru the factory. The first thing that attracted my attention was a series of inscriptions on the wall, including the soviet emblem."

Cox did not charge Hillman is a Communist, but stated that Hillman has kept in touch with revolutionary groups in this country and abroad, and has been a sponsor and executive board member of numerous left wing organizations. Cox said Hillman's methods were typical of the "boring from within" technique of Communists.

BREWSTER HAILS DEWEY AS MAN COUNTRY NEEDS

Gov. Dewey was hailed as "the man the country needs" in a talk last night by Sen. Brewster [R., Me.] before 400 cheering students and faculty members of Northwestern university in Fisk hall, Evanston campus. Prof. Ernest Hahn presided.

Sen. Brewster ripped into President Roosevelt's seven year peace time unemployment record. Eleven other nations recovered industrially before the United States, he said. The Maine senator also charged that war production was delayed 18 months by the administration's failure to center authority in one head. Gov. Dewey, Brewster said, will end government confusion, and restore the true American way of life.

$45 Worth of Cigarets, Cigars, and Candy Stolen

Edward Henbeger, 215 W. Chicago av., told police yesterday that $45 worth of cigarets, cigars, and candy were stolen from his car while it was parked in the 400 block on N. Orleans st.

RUSSIANS SEIZE TOWN 23 MILES FROM BUDAPEST

LONDON, Nov. 3 [Friday]—(AP).—Russian troops fought their way to within 23 miles south of the Hungarian capital of Budapest yesterday, rolling back the enemy on a 60 mile front in a drive aimed at knocking out the last big axis satellite, Moscow announced last night.

Northeast of Budapest other soviet forces cleared the enemy from a 65 mile section of the east bank of the middle Tisza river on a front between Csap, on the Czechoslovak border, down to Polgar, 93 miles from Budapest, the Moscow bulletin said.

The flash of the battle on the plains outside Hungary's first city was visible by night in Budapest.

German and other European broadcasts last night and early today strengthened a belief that Russian troops might smash into Budapest or invest the city over the week-end. DNB, German news agency, said four strong soviet armored columns were converging on the capital.

Nazis Hurl In Fresh Troops.

On the west flank along the Danube, the Russian bulletin said, the Reds took Domsod, rail station 23 miles south of Budapest.

Moscow said the Germans, desperately trying to stop the streamlined drive, were "flinging in fresh forces straight from the march."

A soviet bulletin announced seizure of 60 more towns and villages and the capture on Wednesday of 2,000 prisoners, including Col. Gen. Janus Voeroes, former Hungarian chief of staff.

Moscow made a brief reference to the German East Prussia front, saying 200 Germans were killed in repulsing a Nazi counter-attack south of Goldap.

The Russians in a supplemental military bulletin broadcast by the Moscow radio charged the Germans with committing "frightful atrocities" in the Norwegian port of Kirkenes and destroying the town before being driven out.

GERMAN WAR BULLETIN.

Berlin's broadcast war summary yesterday said:

"Within the last few weeks the troops and command have foiled the offensive which the soviets directed against East Prussia from the southeast. To the east of Libau [Liepaja] and in the Auce area all enemy break-thru attempts were thwarted again yesterday.

"Four thousand three hundred twenty-nine enemy tanks were knocked out on the east front in October by army troops and 367 more by luftwaffe formations."

Engineers Win $27,440 Judgment Against Joliet

A jury in the Will county Circuit court in Joliet yesterday awarded a judgment of $27,440 to De Leuw Cather & Co., 20 N. Wacker dr., consulting engineers, against the city of Joliet. The award was for work done in 1933 on an extensive water project which the city allegedly failed to finish.

6 YANKS MARCH 31 NAZI CAPTIVES THRU OWN ARMY

Patrol Captures Foe Beyond Rhine.

ON THE BRITISH FRONT IN HOLLAND, Nov. 2 (AP).—Six American parachute troopers crossed the lower Rhine, captured 31 German soldiers, and coolly marched them back thru enemy held territory early today.

They reached an apparently deserted house at 4:15 a. m., found two German soldiers asleep, and took them prisoner. Fifteen minutes later they wirelessed a report on their mission to the regimental command post across the Rhine.

Four Searchers Captured.

The next day four more German soldiers were taken when they poked their noses into this American "outpost" to see what had happened to their two captured comrades.

Just before dusk the patrol left one man to guard the prisoners and went off to set a vehicles trap which within a few minutes snared an army truck, an amphibious jeep, and a motorcycle along with 16 more prisoners—most of them SS [Elite guard] troops.

With the truck jammed with fuming prisoners, the patrol went merrily down the road until the vehicle bogged in the mud. They got out to walk and a German SS captain tried to escape in the darkness. He was sent sprawling by a former football player's tackle, and came up muddied and cowed.

March Past Sentries.

Nearing the river the Americans lined up their captives two abreast and marched them thru the blacked-out streets of the town without being challenged by German sentries, who took the party for six American prisoners under strong Nazi guard.

At the river's edge the six Americans silently charged a series of German slit trenches, capturing nine more prisoners for a total bag of 31. Outnumbered five to one, the Americans made several round trips to ferry the prisoners across the Rhine.

The patrol was led by Lt. Hugo Sims, Raleigh, N. C. Others were Sgt. Peter P. Frank, New York; Corp. William R. Cranfield, Selma, Okla.; Pvt. Fred J. Becker, Atlantic, Ia.; Pvt. Robert O. Nicolai, Midlothian, Ill., and Pvt. Roland J. Wilbur, Lansing, Mich.

British Navy's New Plane Helps Attack the Tirpitz

LONDON, Nov. 2 (AP).—The British navy's newest aircraft, the Firefly, scored its first successes in a recent attack on the German battleship Tirpitz, it was disclosed today. While naval bombers were attacking the battleship, the Fireflies, folding wing fighter-reconnaissance monoplanes, engaged German aircraft attempting to break up the attack. Several German planes were shot down.

PRIESTS CHARGE U. S. SUPPORT OF REDS IN POLAND

Springfield, Mass., Nov. 2 [Special].—A group of 32 Polish Roman Catholic priests in the Springfield diocese tonight issued a statement protesting British and American efforts to place the "Moscow controled Polish liberation committee" on equal footing with the legal Polish government. The group also deplored what it termed the use of pressure tactics by American and British representatives figuring in the Russian-Polish dispute.

The priests rebuked Rep. McCormack [D., Mass.], majority leader of the house of representatives, for his assertion that Gov. Dewey had raised the Polish question in a bid for votes. They said the "question is an international issue of highest gravity and the test case for future peace."

Secret Diplomacy.

Calling on Great Britain to make good on its treaty obligations to Poland and "not to hide behind the Polish Quislings in order to free Britain from her word given to Poland," the statement said the American government should bear part of the blame for the policy of pressure and secret diplomacy.

"Our own government has equal moral obligations to Poland," the priests said. "The pressure of Mr. Averell Harriman [United States ambassador to Russia] at Moscow [when Prime Minister Churchill and Dictator Stalin met] clearly implied our government's approval of British policy, which undoubtedly was signed and sealed at Quebec [when President Roosevelt and Churchill conferred].

"The American government is in a far better position than Britain to urge our Russian allies to abide by the principles of the Atlantic Charter. We should not shirk our responsibilities."

The statement said this point of view cannot be strange to Rep. McCormack because it was presented to him last April in Washington by a delegation of Americans of Polish descent which also discussed the Polish question with Rep. Martin [R., Mass.], house minority leader.

Represents Only Communists.

The priests asserted that altho the Polish liberation committee represents only the Communists in Poland—2 per cent of the population—Prime Minister Churchill, Anthony Eden, British foreign minster, and Ambassador Harriman forced the legal Polish government to "sit side by side at the conference table with those people who are branded by the entire Polish nation and by all Americans of Polish descent as traitors."

"As a result of this secret diplomacy, especially thru the activities of the British government, the Moscow committee of liberation had the audacity to appoint Mr. Jan Wilanowski as their representative in London, which is the temporary seat of the legal Polish government," the statement said. "To this day, however, this act of provocation has met no positive opposition from the British government."

ABSENTEE VOTES RETURNED RISE TO 108,000 TOTAL

Approximately 108,000 absentee ballots, most of them from voters in military service, have been received for Cook county, it was announced yesterday by the Chicago election board and County Clerk Flynn. There have been 168,000 ballots mailed out.

In addition, 5,624 civilians and 2,681 service men had cast their ballots in person in the Chicago election board office because they will be absent Nov. 7. Tomorrow noon is the deadline for absentee voting in person. Yesterday was the last day for applications for mail absentee ballots.

County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki said yesterday that only persons still in service will be able to vote absentee ballots from government hospitals in Cook county. He recently held that these hospitals can be considered government reservations, hence technically outside of Cook county. But veterans of World War I, in Hines Memorial hospital, near Maywood, may not vote absentee ballots here because they have been discharged from service, Judge Jarecki said.

1ST ARMY OPENS OFFENSIVE IN GERMAN FOREST

Two Columns Gain 1,500 to 4,000 Yards.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE U. S. 1ST ARMY IN THE HURTGEN FOREST, Germany, Nov. 2.—The thunder of American artillery this morning broke a lull of more than a week along this front. It signaled the start of a two pronged attack toward the eastern limits of this heavily wooded region.

The initial drive overran Germeter and carried the doughboys into the town of Vossenack for a total advance of about 4,000 yards east of the jump-off point. Vossenack is 12 miles southeast of Aachen. Another column drove northeast to the edge of the stronghold of Hurtgen, gaining more than 1,500 yards. Twenty-eight miles beyond lies Cologne and the Rhine. In this area the Germans resisted stubbornly and our advance elements encountered heavy mortor and artillery fire. The enemy positions were well dug in with a scattering of pillboxes protected by barbed wire and mine fields.

By nightfall 300 prisoners had been taken and the doughboys were still pushing ahead.

Trees Shredded and Torn.

The setting for this battle probably is as picturesque as for any in this war but over the wooded, broken terrain the fighting is as deadly as the country is beautiful. Hills and valleys are covered with firs, pines, and silver birches for miles, packed so tightly that daylight doesn't seem able to reach the ground. The roads winding thru the hills are little better than paths, rutted and muddy from recent heavy rains.

Along the way today trees were shredded and torn and in some places huge patches of the forest had been splintered and ripped apart by artillery—chiefly American artillery. German guns are trained on the same area now and they are adding further destruction.

The doughboys driving thru the woods fought from behind trees and along stream beds, taking cover behind rocks and logs in individual rifle pits or crawling ahead to silence Nazi machine gun posts.

"It's like Indian fighting," said Lt. Joseph W. Morgan of Somonauk, Ill., "or what they are having all the time in the Pacific."

MOP UP ON WALCHEREN

LONDON, Nov. 2 (AP).—British troops today cleared Vlissingen [Flushing] of all except snipers and more reenforcements poured onto flooded Walcheren Island for the final mop-up of Antwerp's seaward approaches.

Assault troops, fanning out over the flooded island, seized many big gun positions on the dunes northeast of Westkapelle. Air attacks and flooding have silenced most of the batteries of the interior, front dispatches said. Westkapelle and a 3 mile coastal strip were believed to be in allied hands.

The Germans were savagely defending Middelburg, their main base near the center of the island, pouring in such heavy fire that Canadians were forced from their slender bridgehead near the causeway leading to South Beveland Island to the east.

Collapse South of Scheldt.

While the final hour neared for the 7,000 to 10,000 Germans holding out on Walcheren Island, enemy defenses across the Scheldt estuary to the south collapsed.

The Germans' last three strongholds, the Belgian seaside towns of Knocke and Heyst and the Dutch frontier village of Sluis, five miles east, fell in swift succession, and 1,700 more prisoners swelled the Canadian total of captives in the Scheldt pocket to 11,700.

Fighting raged to the east along the southern banks of the Maas, where counter-attacks drove the Americans and Poles from two bridgeheads across the Mark river, five miles south of the Maas.

In France, the German war bulletin asserted, the United States 3d army was attacking on a broad front between Metz and Nancy and gained ground.

A field dispatch mentioned only that the 3d had driven the last German from the Seille river bend, 13 miles northeast of Nancy, to put an end to further infiltration attacks.

On the 7th army front east of Luneville, in a sector three miles north of Baccarat, the Americans captured three more villages, Fremenil, Ogeviller, and Pettonville, on the road to Schirmeck pass.

Northeast of Rambervillers the 7th pushed ahead in the forest of St. Barb for limited new gains toward Saales pass.

SHIP AND SHORE GUN DUEL MARKS BRITISH LANDING

Light Fleet Battered Off Walcheren.

BY W. R. HIGGINBOTHAM.
[Representing the Combined U. S. Press.]

ABOARD A HDQ. SHIP IN NORTH SEA, Nov. 2 (AP).—With her hold plugged and her deck dented, this vessel was led back to port from Walcheren Island today by a straggling convoy of battered ships which survived what probably was the greatest short range ship and shore gun duel of this war.

They were not great warships, but small, thin hulled amphibious support vessels, bristling with guns. They went against fixed and powerful shore batteries with a frontal assault and stayed to die shooting or come out triumphant.

Security prevents detailing the losses of these vessels, which engaged at least nine German guns ranging from 88 to 290 millimeters.

Attack Fixed Positions.

British sailors who survived Dieppe and Normandy never saw a battle like this. The vessels included various types of gunboats, rocket launching ships, and a number of miscellaneous craft. Their mission was to engage and knock out, if possible, fixed German gun emplacements lining dikes and high ground near Westkapelle on the western edge of Walcheren Island.

They closed in, then fanned out with all guns roaring yesterday morning as troop laden craft came up from behind to discharge their loads ashore. The Germans waited amid an ever increasing rain of gunfire from the warships farther back. Then, when the rows of ships reached a point about 1,000 yards from shore, German guns began functioning.

One Receives Direct Hit.

Suddenly fire belched aboard one of the vessels and she swung sharply in the water. Another received a square hit. Another pushed in, all guns roaring, and then turned out again with only a single officer on her bridge and holes thru her superstructure. Another gunboat went in to shore and was hit.

This headquarters ship alone was the objective of at least four direct attempts to blow her out of the water. One attempt failed by a lucky turn of the vessel; another did slight damage without causing casualties, and two others chased her twisting and turning line thru the rolling sea.

The fight lasted at least four hours, while the vessel's shells bounced off the thick German gun casements without effect. Finally, Commandos went ashore and got to the German guns, cutting them open with flame throwers and grenades.

Out of combat came the small ships. They suffered losses, but had a perfect record of courage.

He was one of those who did.

Rome Orders Mussolini's Property Confiscated

ROME, Nov. 2 (AP).—The personal property and real estate of Benito Mussolini and his family were ordered confiscated by a Rome court today at the request of the customs superintendent's office. Rome newspapers said Mussolini had transferred most of his goods to Brazil by planes of an air line operated by his son.

ANTWERP READY SOON TO HANDLE ALLIED SUPPLY

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

ANTWERP, Belgium, Nov. 2.—The port of Antwerp will be ready to handle the thousands of tons of materials and the men for the allied armies ranged along the German frontier from Switzerland to the North sea, soon after mopping up operations and mine sweeping along the River Schelde are completed.

Harbor installations were taken over from the enemy in astonishingly good condition. Apart from a few mobile cranes that were toppled into the basins, demolition on some lock gates, and negligible damage to sheds, the port was found in working order.

A joint British-American board will administer the port. The American area will include modern deep water basins able to handle Liberty ships. The British have docks designed for smaller coastal vessels. Antwerp is sheltered inland where winter storms have no effect. The greatest railroad yard on the continent lies within sight of the quayside.

DOCTOR SEIZED IN FRANCE AS SLAYER OF 20

BY ROBERT SAGE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, France, Nov. 2.—Dr. Marcel Petiot, suspected of having killed at least 20 persons in his house near the Arc de Triomphe, was arrested this morning at a subway station. He denied the accusation. Petiot disappeared during the German occupation after charred bodies were found in his cellar. Investigation was said to have indicated he had promised alleged victims to get them across the Spanish frontier and thus lured them in his house with their money and valuables. Other victims are alleged to have met their death in his office near the Opera thru poison injections. He had been hunted for a year.

REDS IN BREAK WITH DE GAULLE OVER ARMS BAN

French Group Rejects Government Edict.

(By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.)

PARIS, Nov. 2.—The open break between the Communists and Gen. Charles de Gaulle, which long has seemed inevitable, came today when the political bureau of the Communist party said it refused to "associate itself in any way" with the government's decision to disarm and dissolve the so-called patriotic militia.

The bureau called upon "all Communists in whatever post they are" to act in accordance with the bureau's refusal.

Make Decision Today.

It is not clear yet what this will mean. Logically it would presage the resignation from the government of the two Communist ministers—Francois Billoux, minister of public health, and Charles Tillon, air minister—and a complete political breach between the government and party. But the chief of the party said the Communist ministers would make known their attitude at the cabinet meeting tomorrow.

The bureau took its decision after hearing statements by the two Communist ministers. The appeal to Communists to back up the bureau in refusing to accept the government's policy toward the militia might be interpreted by some to mean they should refuse to be disarmed.

However, the bureau's declaration, while having all the air of forthright rebellion against De Gaulle's authority, did not specify what either the communist ministers of communist militia men were to do beyond doing "everything to enlarge and consolidate the union of the French resistance." The bureau accused the government of treating the union with "disdain and distrust."

Hence it appeared that the party's opposition to the De Gaulle regime was clear but its action toward that regime remained to be defined both within the cabinet and in the ranks of the militia.

The view in government circles was that Communists were trying to test the strength of the government. These circles said reports from the country had indicated general satisfaction with the government's measure to disarm the militia.

JAPANESE BOAT SUNK ATTACKING PELELIU BEACH

PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Pearl Harbor, Nov. 2 (AP).—A Japanese torpedo boat was sunk while attempting to attack a Peleliu beach in the Palau Islands while cargo was being unloaded Oct. 26, Adm. Nimitz announced today.

The enemy craft apparently launched a torpedo at a cargo vessel but it did no damage. The P-T boat's machine gun fire caused some American personnel casualties.

[Japanese radio broadcasts have asserted that a heavy counter-attack was launched against the American position in the Palau Islands.]

Adm. Nimitz' bulletin also announced attacks by American planes on shipping, air fields, and installations at Koror Island in the northern Palaus, Babelthuap, Yap, Iwo Jima, and Pagan Islands.

pressed Carigara from the east, and the day before the entry had met stiff artillery and mortar fire.

The enemy's coastal flight was so precipitate that a correspondent with the 24th said advance patrols already had penetrated Capoocan, 3½ miles west of Carigara, and found it unoccupied. The only escape road to Ormoc turns south at Pinamopoan, four miles beyond Capoocan.

Estimated Japanese battle casualties on Leyte exceeded 30,000, including 12,000 counted dead.

American bombers sank a 7,000 ton tanker and a 1,000 ton freighter and slashed at targets from Cebu, in the central Philippines, to the Solomons, Gen. MacArthur said in a supplement to his main bulletin.

BLOODY BATTLE WON

BY FRED HAMPSON.

WITH 24TH DIVISION AT CARIGARA, Nov. 2 (AP).—Carigara was paid for in American blood. The casualties were not heavy, but neither were they light. I walked over many a bloody smear on the road to Carigara today—red evidence of the evacuation of Japanese dead and wounded in this strategic Leyte area.

The Japanese was routed from his dugouts, stalked over the hills and slaughtered at the edge of roads. Brig. Gen. Kenneth Cramer, deputy 24th division commander, said: "We must have broken their backs in the Jaro fight. It was a bloody go and I thank God we didn't have to fight like that all the way."

[The division took the village of Jaro, nine miles southeast of Carigara, several days ago after a particularly vicious engagement.]

Tough Going All the Way.

The battle for Leyte valley began 12 days ago amidst artillery, mortar, and machine gun fire on the Palo beach.

Japanese road blocks were encountered every few miles; and the division had to fight its way across streams where the retreating Japanese had blasted the bridges.

Even yesterday, final enemy efforts to hold the town slowed the advance to a walk and for a while stopped it entirely with anti-tank guns and heavier artillery commanding a vital section of the highway. This block was removed only when the infantrymen clawed their way thru the jungles and took the Japanese last-ditch crews on the flank.

CHICAGO SOLDIER HANGED FOR KILLING SERGEANT IN FRANCE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Paris, Nov. 2.—The judge advocate's office was sparing today of news concerning yesterday's hanging of Pvt. Paul W. Kluxdal, Chicago, for the "killing of 1st Sgt. Paul M. Robinson, Birmingham, Ala."

Kluxdal, 37, was married and his wife is working in Washington, D. C. He attended the University of Wisconsin but did not graduate. In civilian life he was in the building trade in Chicago. He entered the army on March 17, 1942, was a member of a field artillery battalion, and assigned to duty as a radio operator.

The crime occurred in "western France." The only circumstance permissible to be mentioned in regard to the murder was that an altercation occurred in which Kluxdal killed the sergeant with a carbine.

[Pvt. Kluxdal is not known at 6143 Ellis av., a rooming house which the army report gave as Kluxdal's address. The landlady said that he had never lived there.]

Here's the recipe below! We call it a $2,000,000 "dream of a drink"—because that's what Fleischmann invested in grains, skill and research before we released one golden bottle of this rich, luxurious, straight bourbon whiskey. We make it in limited amounts. We have to—it's so smooth and delicious!

FIRST, GET FLEISCHMANN'S BOND

THEN DO THIS!

1. In a mixing glass containing ice cubes put one dash of Angostura bitters.
2. Add ¾ oz. of sweet vermouth and 1½ oz. of delicious Fleischmann's BOND.
3. Stir. Strain into chilled 4-oz. glass. Garnish with Maraschino cherry. Then close your eyes—and drink!

YANKS ARE REAL BIG BROTHERS TO LEYTE'S NATIVES

BY HAROLD SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE U. S. 7TH INFANTRY DIVISION, on Leyte Island, P. I., Oct. 27 [Delayed]. — Stacked up against the small statured Filipinos, big, bluff Johnny Doughboy reminds you of a Gulliver among the Lilliputians except that the relationship is more amicable. The path the American soldier has hewn to this outpost is fringed with the new friends he has made, but nothing of his good neighbor past in this war compares with his missionary accomplishments on teeming Leyte where his little brown brothers outnumber him 100 to 1.

Islanders Leave Hideout.

We were told on the way out here that the Filipino would regard each of us as the personal representative of the greatest nation on earth and it is patent that our informant was right. It is common for a civilian, upon meeting the man in uniform, to snap stiffly to attention, snatch off his sloppy straw hat, and deliver a better salute than many officers essay.

When word got around that we were here, the islanders began to stream in by the thousands from their hideouts in the mountains where most of them had gone to escape forced labor under the Japs. The natives are ragged and thin and looking for food and clothing. We are giving them all the food and medical care our facilities will allow but we have to tell them that clothing must wait, that for the present our big job is killing Japs.

Jap Money Is Souvenir.

To these people, stripped to destitution by the Japs long ago, any garment is acceptable. No shoes are too decrepit. Most of them have small rolls of Jap occupation money which they found useless. Now it is potent with the doughboys who are willing to swap their extra shirts and trousers and underwear for the Nip pesos and centavos which have a high souvenir value.

The Filipinos are not obtrusive and they obey directions with good will but their numbers are so great that they are bound to get in the way. Pass one a can of rations and instantly, from nowhere, a line of hopeful faces springs up. The children have caught on to the fact that the dogface is a pushover for candy handouts and the soldier who breaks out a package becomes an island surrounded by outstretched hands.

Like Philipino Girls.

Honest reporting dictates the observation that the American-Filipino influence is not all one sided. The women folk here may not have heard of 5th avenue and their meager clothes do not emphasize their undeniable feminine charms, but they draw many a sidelong glance from the G. I.'s and the percentage of fresh shaves every morning is significantly high. To paraphrase Kipling: "A good cigar is only a smoke but a woman is a woman, by golly."

WOMAN LEADS FILIPINOS

LEYTE, P. I., Oct. 26 [Delayed]—(AP).—A prim former school teacher, so far as known here the only woman to fight 2½ years with Filipino guerrillas, told today how she commanded 110 natives who killed 200 Japanese with shotguns made from sections of gas pipe.

"That was when they called me Capt. Nieves Fernandez," she said. "Now I'm just Miss Fernandez."

Paler than most native women of this section [her first name, Nieves, is the Spanish word for snows], Miss Fernandez was without shoes and was attired in a plain black frock as she conferred with American officers. She is 38 years old "at present."

Japs Are "Persuasive."

After teaching school at Tacloban, the Leyte capital recently occupied by American forces invading the Japanese held Philippines, Miss Fernandez said she developed a wholesale business of her own.

"But when the Japs came," she related, "no one could keep anything. They took everything they wanted.

"They had ways of persuading, like giving you scalding hot baths and freezing cold baths alternately, with never a rest, never any food, never any water except the soapy water in the baths."

Make Gas Pipe Rifles.

Working with guerrillas south of Tacloban, Miss Fernandez rounded up native men to resist the Japanese. These men, she said, had three American rifles. The rest they made themselves out of gas pipe. They loaded them with gunpowder and old nails.

They also made grenades and sometimes they got hold of Japanese weapons.

United States intelligence officers said the Japanese offered 10,000 pesos for her head. She was wounded once. There is a bullet scar on her right forearm.

How Japs Attacked Warship; Told by Writer Slain by Bomb

[Asahel Bush, Associated Press war correspondent, was killed by a Japanese bomb Oct. 25. Here is one of the last stories he wrote. The date was not given.]

IN LEYTE GULF (AP).—As peacefully as it departed last night, daylight returned today to this secluded inlet on Leyte's north coast, but within two hours a pair of Japanese Zeros came over and with them brought excitement, death, and destruction.

It was 7:45 a. m., and I was eating hot cakes and bully beef on deck with Seaman John Groh of Youngstown, O., when the Zeros appeared. They came in strafing at a time when a third of the crew was below decks.

But we were lucky. We were lying close in under a hill and the Japanese could get in only a few bursts before they passed us. Only the running light on our port yardarm was clipped.

Gunboat Attacked.

Trouble was reserved, however, for a gunboat lying close by but to seaward—a spot which we had left only a few minutes before to take our liberty party to the beach. The Japanese picked her for their prime target. They bombed her and scored with what official reports like to call "a near miss," the explosive falling about 50 feet off her starboard bow.

Near misses can have a deadly effect. Instead of the fragments going outward from the ship, as they do in a direct hit, they spray in toward the vessel.

That is what happened to the gunboat. Her port side was honeycombed with shrapnel and her mast was nearly cut thru, her engine room was set afire, a number of her gunners were killed, and many were wounded.

Helps Carry Out Dead.

Our rocket ship immediately pulled alongside to help put out the fires with our pumps. I helped lift the broken bodies of the dead into wire litters and place them in a landing barge to be taken ashore.

After the initial attack there were long minutes of concern lest the Japanese return or new ones follow.

But in time the United States navy fighters appeared and tension slacked. Then it was found that the gunboat, altho severely riddled, was not disabled.

Her green paint blending against the forested background, she pulled into the lee of the hill to lay by, pending her return down San Juanico strait to a repair ship.

GEN. STILWELL CALLED GOAT OF F. D. R. MEDDLING

Chiang Finally 'Blew Up,' Says Rep. Judd.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 2 [Special].—President Roosevelt's claim to the role of master diplomat was challenged today by Rep. Judd [R., Minn.] in connection with the removal of Gen. Joseph Stilwell as American commander in the far east.

"Stillwell didn't make the mistake," declared the congressman, who is an expert on Chinese affairs. "He was merely the goat of personal government in Washington. We had to back down from an impossible position into which we never should have put ourselves."

Judd was in Chungking in September when the situation came to a head. His knowledge of it, he said, was gained from the highest Chinese sources in Chungking. He was a medical missionary in China from 1925 to 1931 and from 1934 to 1938 and is recognized as a skilled analyst of Chinese problems.

White House Ultimatum.

The Minnesotan declared bluntly that the ultimatum of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek in demanding the American commander's withdrawal was the result of an ultimatum presented by Stilwell as the agent of the White House.

He observed that the stories of returned correspondents and from Washington purporting to tell the "inside" Stilwell story, "are true as far as they go but their sources of information skilfully omit the thing that precipitated the action"—the ultimatum from the White House.

Ability Recognized.

"The situation has been brewing for months," Judd said. "There had been, as President Roosevelt said, a personality clash between Stilwell and many Chinese leaders, including Chiang, but it was not insurmountable.

"All Chinese, as well as Americans, recognize Stilwell as a great personal soldier and a great leader of troops in the field. But what eastern Asia has needed desperately was not so much a soldier who knows all the jungle trails of Burma, as a general who could do what Eisenhower has done so superbly in Europe—get all to work together.

"The President had sent Gen. Hurley [Maj. Gen. Patrick Hurley] into this situation, to try to restore good relations and increase military efficiency. Hurley proved very successful in getting prompt agreement with Chiang on most of the major difficulties in Asia, including agreement on an American as over-all commander in China. Chiang was even willing to appoint Stilwell as that commander.

Agreement Upset.

"Why, then, did Chiang change his mind? Because, within a few hours after he had reached a tentative agreement with Hurley as the President's representative, Stilwell entered Chiang's office with fresh orders direct from Washington, ignoring and by-passing Hurley.

"Stilwell brought an ultimatum demanding that Chiang appoint Stilwell, who was Chiang's own chief of staff, as over-all commander in China with military authority even over Chiang himself.

"Chiang blew up. He had reached an agreement in good faith with the officially accredited representative of the President of the United States, and here came a subordinate demanding to be put above Chiang in Chiang's own country.

Acceptance Impossible.

"No head of any self-respecting government could accept such an ultimatum. If Chiang had done so his people would have driven him from power—and none has suggested or can suggest any other man who could lead China.

"The ultimatum threatened that unless this was done, the United States would be unable to continue to support the Chinese militarily. Chiang said in substance: 'Then the United States will have to withdraw its support.' This put President Roosevelt in a position of having either to withdraw the United States from the war against Japan on Chinese soil; order American troops to invade China, or withdraw Stilwell. Naturally he did the only thing he could do—he withdrew Stilwell.

Coöperation Demanded.

"In the midst of this delicate situation, Ambassador Gauss had come in with the strongest demands from the American state department that Chiang 'coöperate' with the Chinese Communists. Chiang could do this only on their terms. We fought a four year civil war in the United States rather than 'cooperate' with a rebel government. There could be no unity in China with two governments.

"Here, then, were three sets of uncoördinated demands from three United States channels, all official and all dealing with the same general subject."

STEP UP CHINESE ARMS OUTPUT, NELSON ORDERED

Washington, D. C., Nov. 2 (AP).—An American mission under Donald M. Nelson was ordered to China today to undertake a vast reorganization of that country's war industries.

Nelson was asked to proceed at "the earliest possible date," the White House announced after a long conference between President Roosevelt and the former war production board chairman. He is expected to leave some time next week.

The special talents of those to accompany him indicated that particular emphasis will be laid on stepping up output of explosives and steel—the chief components of aerial bombs, which are among the simplest to manufacture of all modern war weapons.

Lack of Petroleum.

The fact that the mission includes a distillation engineer led to speculation, too, that one task will be to produce an alcohol base truck fuel since China has no petroleum. Accompanying Nelson will be:

Howard Coonley, as chief deputy. Presently a war production board official, Coonley is a former president of the National Manufacturers' association with experience in industrial engineering and various types of manufacturing.

Eugene M. Stallings, a technical expert on alcohol production. Alcohol is the base for many explosives. A distillation engineer, Stallings has been a WPB consultant at Louisville.

Strengthening War Effort.

The White House said Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek had urged that Nelson return. Nelson went to China this summer to discuss with the Chinese leader the project he now is undertaking.

"As the President's personal representative," the announcement said, "Mr. Nelson will continue his work with the generalissimo on measures aimed at strengthening the Chinese war effort, and notably in organizing a war production board to increase the output of China's war industries."

STILWELL CITES DISCOURAGING CHINA SITUATION

CHUNGKING, China, Nov. 2 (AP).—Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell in an official farewell message to Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault today commended the commander of the United States 14th air force for "great success under discouraging conditions" and said he had "cut down the Japanese air arm in China to the vanishing point."

The message as received here said in part: "I have followed your fortunes closely and take great pride in your achievements. . . . You have carried the ball with great success under discouraging conditions. You have cut the Japanese air arm in China to the vanishing point. You have hurt him in the sea and on the ground. You have gained the respect and admiration of the Chinese. . . ."

Hunt for Four Hoodlums Ordered After Shooting

Four well known hoodlums, Edward Piech, Anthony De Lordo, James Fawcett, and James Redden, yesterday were sought for questioning by police on orders of Chief of Detectives Walter Storms in connection with the shooting Tuesday night of Robert Bock, 36, of 7758 Kingston av., brother-in-law of the late Danny Stanton. Bock, who was not seriously injured, insisted he did not know his assailants, nor why he was assaulted. He was released on a writ of habeas corpus Wednesday.

RECALL OF STILWELL 'CORRECT THING,' SAYS CHINESE SPOKESMAN

New York, Nov. 2 (AP).—President Roosevelt's removal of Gen. Stilwell as commander of the China-Burma-India theater was "the only correct thing possible in the circumstances," Dr. C. L. Hsia, director of the Chinese news service, said in a statement tonight. The statement by Dr. Hsia, chief representative of the Chinese ministry of information in the United States, was the first discussion by an official Chinese source of Stilwell's recall. His statement said in part:

"Even if the Chinese government had agreed in principle to the appointment of an American commander in chief, it seems reasonable to assume that the Chinese government should have something to say about the selection of a general.

"The Chungking government has been making every effort to solve the issue of Chinese Communists. If it is true that Gen. Stilwell demanded that the Chinese Communists be fully armed he may not have fully realized the possible consequences of such a step. . . .

"As to reform within the Chinese government, good counsel is welcome. There is always, of course, room for reform and the Chinese government has been making continuous effort in that direction. But such reform should not be made a condition of war time coöperation between the two countries."

JAPS ATTEMPT TO RING KWEILIN IN CHINA BATTLE

CHUNGKING, China, Nov. 2 (AP).—Stalled after four unsuccessful frontal attacks on Kweilin, the Japanese have sent a column sweeping around 12 miles to the south in an attempt to envelop this Kwangsi province gateway city, the Chinese high command announced tonight. The Japanese stormed the northwestern suburbs and fighting raged in the north railway station, but the enemy was driven back after pulling up to the south railway station. Hard fighting was in progress in an attempt to check the encircling column.

Some 50 miles to the southeast the Japanese laid siege to the communications center of Pinglo, from where they could threaten the city of Liuchow, 95 miles to the west.

The extended Japanese lines yielded 90 miles east northeast of Kweilin under pressure of a Chinese counter-attack that recaptured Ningyuan, the war bulletin said.

CHURCHILL AND EDEN PLAN VISIT TO PARIS SOON

LONDON, Nov. 2 (AP).—Prime Minister Churchill and Foreign Secretary Eden will visit Paris soon at the invitation of Gen. De Galle, the British foreign office announced tonight. The date will be arranged later.

Except for Churchill's inspection trips in Normandy, this will be the first time he has gone to France since the tragic days of 1940, when he flew to the headquarters of the French government and sought to persuade the French to remain in the fight.

Eden, now visiting the Italian front, is expected to return to Britain within a few days. He has been away since the last Moscow talks began. Before going to Italy he visited Cairo and Athens.

MAKING IT CLEAR ABOUT SIDNEY.

In his fireside chat on the eve of the 1938 election Mr. Roosevelt told the country: "Judge parties and candidates not merely by what they promise but by what they have done, by their records in office, by the kind of people they travel with, by the kind of people who finance and promote their campaigns. By their promoters ye shall know them."

In this campaign Mr. Roosevelt is financed and promoted by the members of the One Thousand club, the slot machine Democrats, and Sidney Hillman, with his PAC staffed by Communists. Sidney is the kingpin, to a greater extent even than most voters recognize.

Hillman, like Roosevelt, would like to disavow his Red connections. He tells how he fought Communists. He did, when they tried to muscle into his own union. That he considers his own perquisite, and he has no mind to clear it with Joe Stalin. But for more than two decades Hillman has worked with the Communists. He conferred with Lenin, who instructed American Communists to clear things with Sidney. He allied himself with them in seizing the American Labor party, the present keystone of his and their political power. He thinks they are his tools and they think he is their stooge.

The fourth term is essential to Hillman and the Communists. Roosevelt isn't. He's just the Kerensky. They can afford to be callous to the fact that the campaign has betrayed his shaken health and that, if reelected, he would reënter the White House with poorer prospects of living out his term than any President has had during the last century. If he breaks down in office the subsequent paralysis of administration and national confusion will advance their plans, and, if he dies, Harry Truman will clear with Sidney.

Hillman and the Communists who dominate the PAC can afford to be indifferent to Mr. Roosevelt because the moment the self-seekers of the palace guard fired up his conviction that he was the indispensable man he became Sidney's political prisoner. The PAC is the fourth term campaign organization.

The regular Democratic machine has gone to pot. Chairman Hannegan and his followers let themselves be caught in the most brazen peddling of political favors, thru the One Thousand club, in the history of the nation. Harry Truman is running around the country embracing Ku Kluxers publicly. Mayor Kelly, as his fervor increases, demonstrates nightly that he is, indeed, nutty over Roosevelt. The rest of the slot machine Democrats are in a similar condition of bewilderment. They know they will have to steal a lot of votes next Tuesday, but they also know that all they steal won't be enough unless the PAC puts over its campaign.

The PAC has the real bank roll and it has the organization, stiffened by the fanaticism of the Communists. Hillman and the Communists are attempting to subject the American working man to the same totalitarian discipline that prevails in Russia. Their plan, which with the aid of New Deal labor agencies they have already succeeded in fastening on millions of American workmen, is simple. If a man works he must belong to their union. If he belongs to the union he must support the candidate that the bosses of the union tell him to support. He must contribute to that candidate's campaign fund. He must promise, at least, to vote for him. If he is a political dissenter he is thrown out of the union. If he is thrown out of the union he is thrown out of a job and he finds both the public employment facilities and the public relief rolls in the hands of the same bosses whom he defied. The circle is complete. That is the method. The goal is to impose the same restraint, the same kind of slavery, on every American citizen.

The Communists have found in the last 20 years that they cannot hope to win the control of this country by a frank appeal to the voters. The PAC is their underground. They don't want the 60 million post-war jobs that Mr. Roosevelt promises in such grandiose fashion. To attain their end the jobs must dwindle to 30 million, to 20 million, to 10 million. The economic machinery of America must stop. The people must be reduced to the state of despair in which they will allow the government to take over everything. When the government takes over the Communist will be waiting inside it.

To bring that tragedy about it is essential that a vain, weak, and ailing man be kept in the White House and that an unscrupulous nonentity, the product and the errand boy of gangster politics, be designated as his successor.

THE AIR CONFERENCE.

After the UNRRA conference, which proposed to impoverish Americans for the benefit of world-wide mendicancy; the Bretton Woods proposal of financial arrangements most destructive to our economy, and the Dumbarton Oaks plan to breach the sovereignty of the Republic, this apprehension cannot be avoided.

Fortunately, the conferees this time have come out from under the trees. Fair promises have been made of adequate publicity of the proceedings. It remains to be seen, of course, how well these promises are to be kept. The American people naturally will be more ready to accept agreements made before their eyes than agreements made behind their backs. In any event, nothing done at the conference will be binding without the senate's ratification.

The conference has one task before it which is almost wholly noncontroversial and on which there seems to be a general agreement. That is the bringing up to date of the pioneer work done at Paris in 1919 to standardize operating procedure of planes and airports in international traffic. On technical matters all seem willing to coöperate, as they should be. If the conference did not achieve anything beyond this field, it still would have been a worthwhile gathering.

The harder problems lie in the economic and commercial fields. In this area, which is the really important one, the principal contenders are the United States and the British empire. Russia has again shown itself to be the leading isolationist power. Its delegates turned around at Winnipeg and went back to Moscow.

The American position, in general, is in favor of the freest possible competition. The British position, as reflected by the white paper and the opening statement of the head of the British delegation, seems to reflect the English faith in cartels, which Americans abhor. His suggestion that the existing 50-50 division of business be continued will seem equitable only until the fact emerges, as between the United States and Great Britain, that this country will probably originate about 80 per cent of the passengers and the air freight or express.

We know how skilful, plausible, and, from our viewpoint, grasping the British delegates to international conferences such as this always are. We need not fear their diplomatic finesse, however, if the spokesmen of this country prove themselves to be Americans who love their country as much as the empire representatives love theirs.

THE TRUTH ABOUT CHINA.

Brooks Atkinson, the Chungking correspondent of the New York Times, and Preston Grover, the New Delhi correspondent of the Associated Press, have reported the circumstances leading to the recall of Gen. Stilwell. The two articles—the one published on Tuesday and the other on Wednesday of this week—provide all the answer that can be required to the political speech made a few days ago by War Mobilization Director Byrnes. Mr. Byrnes claimed for Mr. Roosevelt a unique ability to win coöperative action from Churchill, Stalin, and Chiang. The two experienced reporters tell a wholly different story.

Mr. Roosevelt sent two emissaries, Gen. Hurley and Donald Nelson, to Chiang to bring him into line. What was desired particularly was the preparation of a Chinese army under Stilwell to coöperate at the proper time with an American landing force on the China coast. The two correspondents are agreed that Chiang not only refused the request but sent Stilwell packing as a demonstration of independence of Mr. Roosevelt's leadership.

Mr. Grover adds another detail which bears upon Mr. Roosevelt's vaunted skill in the management of foreign affairs. The Associated Press man says that Hurley and Nelson seemed to have succeeded in bringing Chiang into line only to have their work undone by reports reaching Chiang from his agent in Washington, saying that Chiang was not to take Hurley's and Nelson's demands too seriously. Chiang's man received this advice, so Mr. Grover has reason to believe, from Harry Hopkins himself. If this story is true, it goes far to explain why Mr. Roosevelt's diplomacy failed. If it is not true, the failure remains to be explained in detail, but the dismissal of Stilwell still stands as proof that Mr. Roosevelt can't handle Chiang.

Mr. Atkinson says that Chiang is using from 300,000 to 500,000 of his soldiers to blockade the Chinese Communists, whom he fears about as much as he does the Japs. Perhaps Chiang's fears are not altogether unreasonable. If Japan has coveted Chinese territory for generations, so, too, has Russia. At any rate, the man to solve this problem is, obviously, Mr. Roosevelt's friend, Mr. Stalin. If Stalin were to call off the Chinese Communists and order them to coöperate with Chiang, as he ordered the French Communists to coöperate with De Gaulle, the two Chinese armies might unite against Japan, instead of wasting their energies in civil war. Evidently Mr. Roosevelt's influence over Stalin is something less than Mr. Byrnes imagines, and this is the more remarkable because of Stalin's dependence upon us for lend-lease.

The correspondents do not add, but others have, that there is distrust of Britain in China because of the belief that after the war Britain is going to demand the return of her former holdings in Hong Kong and elsewhere. If Mr. Roosevelt's power to persuade his warm friend, Churchill, were as great as the New Dealers pretend, another obstacle to Chinese coöperation would long ago have been removed.

Mr. Atkinson's story is illuminating in another direction. Mr. Roosevelt likes to speak of his democratic allies in the war against the dictators. Mr. Churchill has just demanded of parliament the suspension of elections for another year. Mr. Stalin doesn't bother about elections; when he has them, only one party presents candidates, and it's his party. Mr. Atkinson and Mr. Grover add to these familiar facts that Chiang is a despot who maintains his power by means of concentration camps and kindred forms of violent repression. The same story comes from London in a dispatch from another AP correspondent, Thoburn Wiant, who has spent two years on the Burma-India-China front.

America is in this war to the finish and we are in it with our allies to the finish, but it is a wicked deception to pretend that all or most of our allies are democratic in any conceivable sense. Britain may once again become a free country when the war is ended. There is no chance that Russia or China will be democracies in the foreseeable future. Nevertheless, it is to powers so organized and so led that Mr. Roosevelt proposes to turn over in large measure the management of America's foreign relations after the war. He can make that proposal only because he has falsely declared these allies to be democracies. Mr. Wiant says that numerous American observers have reported the true Chinese picture to Mr. Roosevelt. Censorship withheld this information from the American people because the truth would have mocked Mr. Roosevelt's pious phrases.

AMONG THE ELZEVIRS.

Leyden, a city in Holland not yet liberated, has many traditions, but to bibliophiles it has a special charm as the source of the Elzevirs. These are chunky little books bound in vellum browned with age that have been the joy of scholars and typographers for three centuries. They have been carried in the pockets of theologians, poets, soldiers, and philosophers who figured in the pageant of the 17th century, and now they are cherished as masterpieces of the art of printing.

* * *

When Vincent Starrett came into the office the other day we asked him half way across the room, "What have I got in my hand?" In the blink of an eye he answered, "An Elzevir." That's how famous they are; any old bookhound can spot them at long range. This, however, was the first of our close acquaintance, and it came to us as a gift from another Elzevir expert, Ralph Fletcher Seymour, who rescued it from his attic.

* * *

Our Elzevir is a dictionary of the Greek New Testament with definitions in Latin, printed in 1634. It contains some careless scrawlings of names by its early owners, especially several Ingrams, and the bookplate of George Appleton Lawrence, which is 19th century work.

* * *

Whenever you run across an Elzevir you will find that the inner faces of the vellum covers have been cut out, exposing the stiffening. This is because early printers had a habit of using older manuscript vellums—throw-away material in their shops—for stuffing inside the covers, and these insertions have often been of high interest to scholars. A strip of such material has been removed from the spine of our Elzevir; it was apparently from a Dutch manuscript, and it has left an imprint in reverse on the stitching.

* * *

The Elzevir family published 1,608 works. The University of Chicago library has about 100 examples. Incidentally, many Elzevir forgeries have floated around in the rare book trade.

GRAY INTERLUDE.

This gentle interim between the riot
Of autumn's brightest days and winter's dawn
Is like a sigh, an interlude of quiet,
A breath of awe that burnished hours are gone.
The last leaves spiral earthward where the frost
Crystals the forest's bright mosaic floor;
Tall poplars hold the wind, the sun is lost,
In snug, brown burrows fox and woodchuck sleep;
The sky has lost the pattern of high wings.
Silence is something grave, and great, and deep,
A new and inner eloquence that brings
Knowledge of quiet syllables of snow

Coming Events Cast Their Shadows.

Late evening and early morning were at the hour of merger. Aloysius McSwiggle, bachelor about town and forever working at it, cautiously let himself in the front door of his married sister's home and tiptoed upstairs to the room she dutifully permitted him to occupy [for a few hours each night]. Undressing as quietly as he could in his stimulated condition, he snapped off the light switch and dived headfirst for the bed.

Grasping the sides of the tossing and weaving couch, he tried to still his jumpy nerves by staring at the ceiling. But here strange shadows gathered in the eerie reflected light from the street lamp and before his tortured eyes assumed the form of grotesque animals. Not only pink elephants, but giraffes, camels, kangaroos, and boa constrictors paraded, danced, and disported themselves across the calcimined surface.

McSwiggle shivered fearfully and pulled the covers over his head to shut out the weird scene. This had happened once before, and he had sworn by all the plaster saints that he would sign the pledge if it happened again. He would see Father O'Connor on the morrow.

The following morning McSwiggle's sister was preparing breakfast for the family when her 5 year old daughter asked, "Mummy, where's Uncle 'Loysius?"

"I wouldn't know," she replied. "He dashed out of here this morning like a creature obsessed. And that, I can assure you, is something that never happened before."

"Well, mummy, before he comes back I wish you'd change the curtains in his room. It's the second time you've given him my pink curtains with the animal border." Hig.

What joy to be new-cast!
Straightway to vanish, then, sublime,
Rise shimmering and tall.
Emerge as from a chrysalis,
Magnificent at last—

Or a maple in the fall!

Mrs. A. H. writes: "I have been told that the pensions due wives of service men killed in action are paid only from the date on which a formal application is filed with the veterans' administration and not from the date of death. Is that true?"

No. If the claim is filed within one year after the date of death, generally speaking, the law authorizing the payment of the death pension or compensation provides that these benefits may be paid starting the day after the death. If not, payments may not be made for any period prior to the filing of the claim. However, an informal application, if followed by a formal claim, may serve to fix the starting date of an award. There are exceptions to this rule with regard to veterans of other wars.

VICIOUS BACTERIA WITHIN THE COLON.

THE intestinal tract is never free from bacteria. With most of us, the flora of this region will consist of relatively harmless inhabitants. In other words, they will not prove irritating to the delicate mucous lining of the bowel. Furthermore, the toxins they produce will be neutralized readily.

But now and then vicious interlopers will find their way into the colon, establish "beachheads," and settle down for a long stay. A few years ago considerable fuss was made over the discovery that streptococci, one of our most dangerous germs, could and did flourish within this area under certain conditions. The name "enterococcus" was given to the invader because it is a true streptococcus, altho it assumes peculiar forms of growth.

The question then arose, how much damage could these outlaws do? Careful stool cultures on patients who complained of various types of abdominal discomfort or urinary tract disturbances revealed the presence of these microbes. It was shown also that they had a tendency to wander about, probably thru the blood stream.

In consequence, they have been detected within the nasal passages, the throat, in pus from the middle ear, and in other localities. They may exert a deleterious effect upon the blood vessels and any episode of chills and fever, not explained in some other fashion, may be traced to the fact that colonies have planted themselves within the alimentary tube.

It is not difficult for the physician to make a correct diagnosis because the discharges are relatively easy to analyze. If these varieties are recognized, the thing we want to know is how they can be eradicated—and sulfathiazole is strikingly effective.

If trouble occurs within the urinary tract, for example, about all that is necessary is to render the urine highly acid with calcium mandelate. This may be enough to bring on their destruction. If not, sulfathiazole may be used at intervals. As one of the precautions, we must give large doses of alkalies along with the sulfa remedy. The plan, of course, would neutralize the mandelic acid and hence cannot be employed at the same time. After two or three weeks of sterile urine, however, the most helpful sulfonamide can then be administered, with favorable results. Thus far, attempts to combat these "varmints" with penicillin have not met with success.

There is reason to believe that an irritable colon, which may follow some indiscretion in diet, provides an ideal environment for the growth of the enterococcus. After a time, unless these organisms are eliminated, the sufferer may present a chronic disorder, accompanied by destructive lesions. This is always a possibility, should ulcerative colitis be exhibited. We cannot emphasize too strongly prompt attention to the symptom, diarrhea, should it fail to abate within two or three days.

Front Views & Profiles

By MARCIA WINN

He Ought to See It Now.

The Rev. Sydney Smith is probably the least remembered and quoted of England's brilliant men of letters. Political essayist, minister, founder of the Edinburgh Review, he died a century ago. A grubby volume of his works, "Sydney Smith's Wit and Wisdom," came this way the other day. Poring thru it, we came upon an article, "America," which he wrote in 1818.

On the whole, the Rev. Mr. Smith thought highly of America. He liked the fact that its government was cheap, that its officials received low salaries, and that bribery or influence were "entirely out of the question."

He thought it nice, too, that Americans had discarded the tailor and his auxiliary, the barber, in administering justice. "A judge administers justice," he wrote, "without a calorific wig and parti-colored gown, in a coat and pantaloons."

He deplored American literature, saying there was none. "They had a Franklin, indeed, and may afford to live half a century on his fame," he wrote. He cited, too, some pieces of pleasantry by Irving and then added: "Why should the Americans write books when a six weeks' passage brings them, in their own tongue, our sense, science, and genius in bales and hogsheads? Prairies, grist mills, steamboats are their natural object for centuries to come." When the Americans reached the Pacific ocean, he suggested, then they might turn to "epic poems, plays, and all the elegant gratifications of an ancient people who have tamed the wild earth."

He admitted that Commodore David Porter and Stephen Decatur were brave men, but he said it would be an unspeakable misfortune if they inflamed Americans [whom he refers to as Jonathon] into love of naval glory or love of war other than that founded upon a determination not to submit to serious insult or injury.

"We can inform Jonathon what are the inevitable consequences of being too fond of glory," he wrote. "Taxes upon every article which enters into the mouth or covers the back or is placed under the foot. Taxes upon everything which it is pleasant to see, hear, feel, smell, or taste. Taxes upon warmth, light, locomotion. Taxes on everything on earth and the waters under the earth, on everything that comes from abroad or is grown at home. Taxes on the raw material, taxes on every fresh value that is added by the industry of man. Taxes on the sauce which pampers man's appetite and the drug which restores him to health, on the ermine which decorates the judge and the rope which hangs the criminal, on the poor man's salt and the rich man's spice, on the brass nails of the coffin and the ribbon of the bride.

"At bed or board, couchant or levant, we must pay. The school boy whips his taxed top. The beardless youth manages his taxed horse with a taxed bridle on a taxed road. And the dying Englishman, pouring his medicine, which has paid 7 per cent, into a spoon which has paid 15 per cent, flings himself back upon his chintz bed, which has paid 22 per cent, and expires in the arms of an apothecary, who has paid a license of £100 for the privilege of putting him to death.

"His whole property is then immediately taxed from 2 to 10 per cent. Besides the probate, large fees are demanded for burying him in the chancel; his virtues are handed down to posterity on taxed marble, and he is then gathered to his fathers to be taxed no more."

In addition, quoth Mr. Smith, dealing with large sums of money will make a government avaricious and profuse. It will generate spies and informers, political tools, and a race of odious retainers. Collection of this vast revenue will throw prodigious patronage into the hands of the government and "invest it with so vast an influence and hold out such means and temptations to corruption as all the virtue and public spirit, even of republicans, will be unable to resist."

He liked America because he was certain such events would not come to pass.

TRUMAN AND THE KLAN.

Long Beach, Cal., Oct. 30.—Sen. Hugo Black, when nominated for the Supreme court by Mr. Roosevelt, was accused of having been a member of the Ku Klux Klan. The senate approved his nomination only after several senators had received supposedly reliable advice that the accusation was untrue. While the discussion was going on, both Mr. Roosevelt and Sen. Black maintained a discreet silence. However, after he was safely installed in his lifetime job, Justice Black was forced to admit the truth of the charge, but not until a reporter named Ray Sprigle had published documentary evidence which could not be denied.

Sen. Truman is now accused of having been a member of the Ku Klux Klan. This time the accusation is supported by the affidavits of several reputable citizens. Sen. Truman couldn't maintain silence, because he knows that millions of citizens will vote against any Ku Kluxer. So Sen. Truman has denied the report, but only verbally. It happens, however, that any one who makes a false affidavit is legally liable. Any court would accept the validity of several affidavits which were contradicted only by the verbal statement of the accused.

Sen. Truman can make a convincing reply only by issuing an affidavit denying the charges that he joined the Klan and spoke at Klan meetings. His verbal denial subjects him to no penalty if it is proven false, and, therefore, carries no weight whatever in the face of accusations supported by affidavits. Unless Mr. Truman issues such an affidavit before election day, the New Deal ticket can, and should, lose the votes of those who oppose the Ku Klux Klan doctrine of racial and religious intolerance and its record of lawless brutality.

THEY KNOW THEIR MAN.

Fontana, Wis., Oct. 28.—Mr. Roosevelt may have difficulty in recognizing a Communist when he sees one, but certainly the Communists have no difficulty in recognizing their man, nor did they even as early as 1932.

At that time, during Mr. Roosevelt's first election campaign, Carveth Wells, writer and explorer, was in Russia. Mr. Wells stated:

"In many places in Russia I saw large cartoons of Mr. Hoover entitled, 'The Fathead in the White House,' and beside them very flattering portraits of Mr. Roosevelt entitled, 'The next Communist President of the United States.'"

WALLACE IN WORLD WAR I.

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 28.—No one seems to care that Henry Wallace was a draft dodger in the first World war, that the record in the war department shows that he claimed exemption from the draft because he was employed in an essential agricultural industry and was essential to it. This industry was his father's farm paper and his part in it assistant to his father.

This was verified by a letter from the war department, in answer to an inquiry during the 1940 campaign. Now that it appears that it was Mr. Wallace's report which induced Mr. Roosevelt to recall one of our great generals from line of duty, it seems to me a little too much to stand without protest. Not content with starving the hero of the Burma campaign of supplies and men they are bringing him home.

Wallace was willing to serve his country as Vice President but not as private 1st class.

FINAL MORTGAGE PAYMENT.

Chicago, Oct. 31.—I am about to pay off the mortgage on our home. Please tell me what papers I should receive when final settlement is made. D. A.

If the papers are in the usual form of notes secured by a trust deed, the debtor should at the time of final payment receive from the holder the last coupon and principal note, the trust deed, the guaranty policy or other evidence of title, and fire insurance policies. He should take these papers, with the previous coupons which should be in his possession, to the trustee named in the trust deed and secure a release deed which the debtor should record. He should also have the trustee write on the mortgage riders on the insurance policies a notation that the trustee's interest has ceased, and should later clear this with the insurance companies. The question whether the debtor can handle such steps for himself depends on his experience and resourcefulness. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

DEFENSE CHIEF QUITS IN CANADA DRAFT DISPUTE

Ralston Protests Ban on Overseas Call-Up.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 2—Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King today announced the resignation of Col. J. L. Ralston, minister of defense, and appointment of Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton to the post. Gen. McNaughton until last December was commander of the Canadian army overseas.

Col. Ralston resigned in protest against the government, refusal to compel military conscripts to serve overseas.

Service Mostly Volunteer.

Service in Canada's army, navy, and air force is on a volunteer basis except for 70,000 men drafted for home defense or service in the western hemisphere.

[The Associated Press said that out of a total of almost 1,000,000 men in all of Canada's armed services, between 70,000 and 80,000 have declined to serve overseas. Around these men, it added, there has raged since the start of the war a controversy in which, in general, English speaking Canada has been ranged against French speaking Quebec.]

Col. Ralston recently returned from a visit to the Canadian army in Italy, Holland and Britain. The cabinet soon afterward began discussing his report concerning the use of draftees and the reinforcement of Canadian divisions of the Canadian 1st army in Holland and the Canadian divisions of the 8th army in Italy.

Hear Others May Quit.

There are rumors that Angus L. MacDonald, minister of naval services, and J. L. Ilsley, minister of finance, may also quit the cabinet.

In announcing the appointment of Gen. McNaughton, who retired a few weeks ago from the army after being on leave of absence, Prime Minister King said he had sought "the one man in that position who would bring the greatest measure of confidence to the forces overseas."

Gen. McNaughton said he had "undertaken the task in order to serve Canada and to insure that the army overseas received support in the fullest measure."

King said no general election would be called as a result of the cabinet change.

U. S. CASUALTIES IN ITALY 90,000; MUD HALTS DRIVE

Nazis Show No Sign of Pulling Out.

ROME, Nov. 2 (AP).—American troops alone have suffered at least 90,000 casualties in the 14 month old Italian campaign and there still is no sign the Germans are pulling out of the war torn country, Gen. Harold Alexander, allied ground commander, said today.

In acknowledging that the allied assault on the enemy's Gothic line had come to an almost complete halt in the mud of the Po valley mountains, Gen. Alexander said: "I can't tell how long it will take to drive them out, but it will be done."

Nazis Reinforce Army.

The Germans have continued to send reinforcements into Italy, despite their reverses on the eastern and western fronts, the allied commander disclosed. He admitted puzzlement at this enemy strategy, pointing out that Hitler already had suffered 194,000 casualties in Italy.

Gen. Alexander said that the original plan for attacking the Gothic line had to be altered because of the withdrawal of all French divisions and some American divisions for the invasion of southern France.

In their present defense of Bologna and the Po valley, the Nazis are taking full advantage of an excellent road network to supply their troops.

Front line dispatches today reported that Canadian troops of the British 8th army, sloshing thru country dotted with great expanses of flood water, were five miles from Ravenna, Adriatic coastal city.

Yanks Take Village.

Polish and Indian troops, pushing northward from captured Predappio—Mussolini's birthplace—toward the highway junction of Forli southeast of Bologna joined a bridgehead won by other 8th army forces across the Ronco river above Meldola. Fighting was reported at a corner of the airport two miles southeast of Forli.

Waterlogged and mudbound American 5th army troops kept the hilly front below Bologna fluid with probing patrols, resulting in several lashes. In one such engagement near Imola, Yank units drove the Nazis out of the village of Casetta.

REPORT GERMAN COMMANDER IN ITALY WOUNDED

BERN, Switzerland, Nov. 2 (AP).—Field Marshal Gen. Albert Kesselring, German commander in chief in Italy, was reported tonight to have been wounded in Italy during an attack similar to the one that eventually cost Field Marshal Rommel his life in France.

Marshal Kesselring.

Kesselring's automobile, according to information from Italy, overturned when it was machine gunned by an allied plane near Bologna. The extent of his injuries is not yet known here.

Kesselring, 58, was counted among the great victors in the German conquests of Poland, Belgium, and France, and had several narrow escapes in the last year and a half. Last July 25 the German news agency DNB reported he had been wounded slightly during front line operations in Italy. He narrowly escaped when allied airmen leveled his headquarters at Frascati, near Rome.

BRITISH AMBUSH NAZIS FLEEING FROM SALONIKA

ROME, Nov. 2 (AP).—British patrols harassing withdrawing German forces north of Salonika in Greece have ambushed one enemy column and inflicted 25 casualties, allied headquarters announced today. Capture of Salonika, 190 miles northwest of Athens and the most important port in the southern Balkans, also was announced.

The enemy's retreat corridor from the lower Balkans became further constricted, today's German high command bulletin disclosed, by withdrawal of Nazi forces from a 100 mile stretch of the Yugoslav Dalmatian coast, including the harbors of Split, Metkovic, and Dubrovnik [Ragusa].

[A broadcast bulletin from Marshal Tito's headquarters last night reported the capture of the Dalmatian port of Zara after a three day battle.]

PREACHER'S SON HELPS BAG MANY JAPANESE SHIPS

WITH 6TH RANGER BATTALION OFF LEYTE, Oct. 17 [Delayed]—(AP).—Gen. MacArthur's headquarters officially credits a preacher's son, Capt. Truman Heminway Jr., with helping to destroy scores of Japanese ships.

As American Rangers approached Dinagat Island today to pave the way for the landing of American invasion forces in the Philippines [the invasion started three days after this was written] Heminway related how he had fought the Japanese since Pearl Harbor.

Heminway, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Truman Heminway of Sherburne Center, Vt., fought with anti-Japanese guerrillas thruout the Philippines. For 18 months he operated a powerful, secret radio station, guiding American submarines, surface ships, and planes.

He was an aerial photographer at Clark field, near Manila, when the Japanese attacked. He fought with MacArthur on Bataan and escaped to join the guerrillas of Mindanao. His wife and infant daughter have been living at Dinagat Hills.

ITALIAN RELIEF TO JULY 1 LISTED AT 103 MILLION

Allies Reopen Schools and Feed Children.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 2 (AP).—The allied military commission in Italy reported tonight that by the end of this year 2,300,000 tons of food and other supplies, representing an expenditure of more than 200 million dollars, will have been furnished to war stricken civilians.

In a memorandum made public by the war department, Brig. Gen. William O'Dwyer, vice president in charge of the economic section of the allied commission, placed at $103,205,000 the value of supplies shipped by the allies to Italy up to July 1 of this year—in the first year of allied occupation. Including shipping, this represented a cost of 155 million dollars.

Gen. O'Dwyer said that in addition the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration had budgeted 50 million dollars for its separate operations in Italy, principally for welfare work among children and mothers and medical supplies.

Food Chief Article.

Food has made up the bulk of the relief shipments, accounting for $86,073,000 up to July 1. Other items included clothing, $8,095,000; medical and sanitary, $2,535,000; agricultural, $2,953,000, and coal, $2,500,000.

Gen. O'Dwyer's report said 3,000 miles of railroads in liberated Italy had been repaired by the allies, as well as 4,000 miles of main highways. He said 230 highway bridges had been reconstructed or were in the process of rebuilding, and 500 other bridges had been repaired or replaced.

Nazis Strip Country.

Discussing the economic situation in Italy, O'Dwyer said the currency in circulation jumped from 24 billion lire in 1939 to 235 billion lire on July 1 this year.

"The Germans have used these tremendous sums of currency to buy up and transport to Germany enormous quantities of goods and supplies, stripping the country and causing an inflation," his report said.

One phase of the relief program was the reopening last month of schools for between 4 million and 5 million children in liberated Italy.

Pupils Given Food.

Schools are being held in army camps, churches, teachers' apartments, and athletic buildings in cases where regular buildings were destroyed. Allied officials have arranged for each school child to receive a bowl of soup and a plate of vegetables daily, the report said.

Text books have been revised by a committee of Italian educators to eliminate fascist propaganda, Gen. O'Dwyer said.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

THE QUESTION.

What is your favorite of all the popular songs that have ever been written and why?

WHERE ASKED.

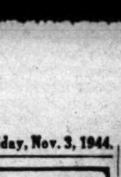
THE ANSWERS.

Alyce King, of King Sisters, Sherman Oaks, Cal.—I was engaged to a boy who had just been drafted. I made up a new ending to the song "Everything Happens to Me." It told the story that my fiance had been called away just before our wedding. One night when I was singing it he walked in and we were married before his furlough ended.



Luise King, of King Sisters, Encino, Cal.—We were in San Francisco singing with Alvino Rey and his orchestra at the time "April in Paris" was popular. Alvino and I used to go for long rides along the ocean and we'd always hear this song. It reminds me of the many happy times we had when he was courting me.

Donna King, of King Sisters, Sherman Oaks, Cal.—When I first started singing with my sisters I sang nothing but straight harmony. Finally they let me sing a solo. The song was "What's the Reason I'm Not Pleasing You?" The audience gave me an enthusiastic response. It was a thrill to know the applause was for me.

Yvonne King, of King Sisters, North Hollywood, Cal.—Donna and I used to borrow our big sisters' dresses to sing in small bands when we were in school. At that time "Moon Glow" was popular. I fell in love for the first time with a butcher's son who listened to me sing. After the show was over he'd drive me home in his father's meat truck.

Bob Chester, musician, Van Nuys, Cal.—"I Love You" is my first choice. When I was courting my wife we used to request it wherever we went and I'd sing it to her. When I hear it the song recalls all the happy times we had. In addition to the memories, I think the song itself is beautiful.

David Allyn, musician, New York City.—In the latter part of 1941 I was in New York near Syracuse. The surrounding countryside was dressed in autumn. About that time Henry Nemo wrote "'Tis Autumn." The song was so perfect for the scene that I'll never forget how it affected me when I heard it.

RESEARCH FIRM RECRUITS 1,000 YANKS FOR JOBS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 2.—The national advisory committee for aeronautics, engaged in research and laboratory work for the army and navy, disclosed today that it is meeting a serious need for skilled workers by recruiting returned overseas veterans and soldiers over 26. About 1,000 service men are being recruited.

Soldiers who volunteered for such work are placed on inactive service with the air corps enlisted reserve and are paid at the standard civil service rate paid civilian workers hired for similar jobs. They will be reassigned to active duty before their final discharge from the army, but they will remain with the NACA laboratories as long as their services are needed.

The announcement said some of the veterans will fill jobs now available at the NACA laboratories at Langley Field, Va., and at Cleveland, O., and others will be trained as replacements for civilians under 26 who will be called into active service.

A PARATROOPER QUITS ARMY AT RIPE OLD AGE, 14

McKeesport, Pa., Nov. 2 (AP).—Former Paratrooper Pvt. James Clark was home today, his army career ended at the age of 14. Gloomy at the prospect of returning to civilian life, Jim sighed:

"Gee whiz! And it all had to happen just as I was about to go overseas."

The youthful veteran was 13 last Dec. 4 when he heard his brother, Sgt. Robert Clark, had died of wounds suffered on Guadalcanal. He reported to his draft board that day and convinced it he was of induction age.

Even his buddies in paratroop training were unaware of the boy's real age until his grandmother wrote his commanding officer and Jim was mustered out.

DRUGGAN TRICKS TOLD BY EX-HEAD OF PACKING FIRM

How Terry Druggan, hoodlum and beer peddler during prohibition days, is alleged to have obtained control of the Midwest Packing company of Barrington was disclosed yesterday by office of price administration attorneys after Federal Judge John P. Barnes enjoined the company and four meat peddlers against black market dealings in choice grade beef.

Atty. Robert B. Johnstone of the OPA disclosed a statement in which Carl A. Zwarycz, former head of the packing company, related that Druggan gained his confidence and then elbowed Zwarycz and his wife out of control of the company.

Hijacking Threat Told.

In his affidavit, Zwarycz said Druggan first came to him in August, 1943, and said he had heard the company was having financial trouble. Druggan remarked, according to Zwarycz, that the latter was working too hard and offered him financial aid.

Zwarycz said in his affidavit that Druggan added: "Some fellows came to me and asked me if I thought there was a lot of beef in the coolers and said that some day they would hijack you."

Zwarycz said he was amazed at Druggan's hijack threat and associated it with "bodily injury." When Druggan offered financial aid, he agreed to let Druggan buy into the company. Zwarycz said he was convinced then that Druggan was sincere.

Druggan, according to Zwarycz' statement, demanded $30 a week as manager of the packing house. He eventually persuaded Zwarycz to sell stock to him and to two other men so that Zwarycz and his wife became minority stockholders.

Black Market Deals Told.

On May 18, Zwarycz asserted, he and his wife were voted out as president and secretary-treasurer of the company.

In the hearing before Judge Barnes, OPA attorneys accused the company of slaughtering hundreds of thousands of pounds of choice beef for the black market. The company was charged with dressing out choice beef which was reported to the OPA as of lower quality.

OPA attorneys said the company bought cattle at prices higher than those paid at the stock yards and then sold to distributors who passed the beef to stores and restaurants at prices above OPA regulations.

Strike by 17 Threatens to Shut Plant Hiring 100

If a strike by 17 wire drawers continues "a few more days" at the Republic Steel company plant at 79th st. and Stony Island av. the plant will have to be shut down, putting 100 other employes out of work, company officials said yesterday. The wire drawers, members of local 1033 of the CIO United Steel Workers of America, went on strike Tuesday in protest against a change in working hours which officials said was routine. The plant manufactures wire for war and civilian use.

BINGO SHUSHES CANDIDATES AT WOMEN'S RALLY

BY GLADYS PRIDDY.

Democratic candidates were invited yesterday to the Women's American-German Democratic organization bingo party in the Mural room of the Morrison hotel. Like good candidates, they came. But they certainly didn't get to say much.

Bingo began at 1 p. m. By the time the candidates began dropping in two hours later 2,000 women made it quite plain they had come to play bingo, and not to listen to a lot of politics. And anyhow, things weren't going well.

Winning Numbers Repeat.

The bingo machine blower wasn't working. Sometimes the same numbers popped up, which seemed to annoy the players. Many of them gray haired and definitely the motherly type, the ladies were trying for the $200 in cash and the 75 door prizes which included such strikes as blankets and nylon hose.

Evidently worrying over the bingo blower was enough. Patience nearly cracked when the candidates came in, led by Mrs. Elizabeth Vavrinek, chairman. On top of that, the public address system balked.

A repairman trotted in while candidates sat in such chairs as avid bingo players hadn't moved from the speakers' table. The seatless huddled behind the bingo board.

In due time, as the public speaking apparatus gained strength, more than a dozen state and county candidates were introduced, including the Municipal court judges. Michael Mulcahy, candidate for sheriff, tried a little speech, but the biggest hand went to those candidates who acknowledged their introductions with a wave.

Bingo Rivets All Attention.

Arriving a little late, Emily Taft Douglas, candidate for congresswoman at large, also spoke—but not long. Another late comer, William J. Tuohy, candidate for state's attorney, took his cue for brevity.

Somebody said that Sen. Lucas and State's Atty. Courtney were expected, but no one paid any attention. Instead they watched the man at the bingo apparatus.

3 PLANS URGED FOR WORLD RULE OF CIVIL FLYING

U. S. Proposes Minimum of Power for Agency.

BY FRANK HUGHES.

Twelve of the principal allied nations at the international civil aviation conference here stated yesterday their proposals as to how much power should be given to a post-war international aviation authority. Out of it came three definite lines of cleavage on the most troublesome and significant question which will come before the global convention of more than 50 countries.

There is the position on the right, represented by the United States, whose thesis was outlined by Adolf A. Berle, chairman of the American delegation, at the start of the plenary session which opened the convention's second day in the Stevens hotel.

The United States wants an international authority which would have power only to consult and advise on questions of economic and political nature. This means fields such as the allocation of air routes —who shall fly where—and the fixing of rates, regulation of competition, and decisions on frequency at flights.

Britain Takes Middle Ground.

There is the middle ground, which is the position of the United Kingdom and Canada, stated by Viscount Swinton for the former, and C. D. Howe, Canadian minister of reconstruction, for the latter. Both want a strong international authority, and Canada has asked for an international counterpart of the American civil aeronautics board, which allocates routes, has a voice in rate structure, and close supervision over almost everything affecting domestic air lines in this country.

Then there is the extreme left, a position outlined by Australia and New Zealand, whose chairmen declared they wanted international ownership and operation of any air line or air lines which are to fly the world air routes and all of the tight international supervision which that implies.

This position was stated by D. G. Sullivan, chairman of the New Zealand delegation, and A. S. Drakeford, Australian delegation leader.

Compromise Would Be U. S. Loss.

It was considered significant by some conference observers that British Empire nations occupy both the middle ground and the left position, both calling for strong international control of post-war world-wide flying. If there is to be any compromise between the three divergent positions, the logical movement would be toward the middle ground, they say, in which event the United States would be the loser.

Berle, who was named permanent chairman of the conference, announced the appointment of chairmen and vice chairmen of four important committees. He said that chairmanship of the powerful committee called the multilateral aviation convention and international aeronautical body, which will thresh out the question of the degree of power the ultimate covenant authority will have, had been offered to the United Kingdom.

U. S. States Nine Points.

Great Britain declined, he said, in favor of the Union of South Africa, part of the British empire, and the co-delegate of that nation, John Martin, was given the chairmanship. The vice chairmanship went to Louis Tamayo, chairman of the Colombian delegation.

Berle outlined the United States air policy in an address which covered nine major points to which he said this country is pledged:

1. "The rule that each country has a right to maintain sovereignty of the air which is over its lands and its territorial waters."

2. "Friendly nations in time of peace have the right to have intercourse each with the other and, in friendliness, should make this intercourse possible to others."

3. "In air commerce, there appears at present to be little place for tramp trade," but such questions "may well be left for later conferences."

4. The United States already has announced the international air routes upon which this nation wants to operate after the war, "disclaims any desire to intervene" in routes which do not affect the United States, and believes the same policy should be followed by other nations.

Favors Modernizing Navigation.

5. There should be an attempt to make "an air navigation agreement which shall modernize and make effective the rules of aerial navigation."

6. The international air authority shall have only "consultative functions" over economic and political matters, but added powers can be entrusted to the authority if a "reasonable period of experience shows it to be necessary."

7. The right of cabotage, which means the control of a country over its domestic air traffic, shall be protected.

8. America is prepared "to make available, on nondiscriminatory terms, civil air transport planes when they can be released from military work, to those countries which recognize, as do we, the right of friendly intercourse, and grant permission of friendly intercourse to others."

9. The United States has no intent to use devices such as subsidies to drive other planes out of the air and "would oppose any such policy if practiced by others."

Link Plan to Security League.

Drakeford, the Australian spokesman, said that both his country and New Zealand were pledged to an international air transport authority which "would own the aircraft and operate prescribed international routes on behalf of all nations; and that such an international air transport authority should be an organ of the world's security organization to be established."

Sullivan, speaking for New Zealand, echoed the idea that his country is looking for the kind of a post-war global security organization only rabid internationalists dream about.

He said international aviation will serve all nations and should therefore be owned and operated by all, "and finally if we are, as I hope and believe is the case, to entrust the prevention of war and the use of force against aggression to an international body, why should we hesitate to empower an international organization to own and operate air transport services on international trunk routes?"

Besides the United States, Great Britain, Canada, Australia, and New Zealand, other nations which stated their positions at the plenary session yesterday were India, Mexico, France, Poland, Brazil, Panama, and Norway. The session opened at 3 p. m., adjourned at dinner time, and took up again at 9 p. m. Today's program will be devoted to the organization meetings of the four major committees.

In addition to the multilateral convention body there are the technical standards and procedures committee, headed by M. P. L. Steenberghe, chairman of the Netherlands delegation, with Howe, the Canadian chief delegate, as vice chairman; the provisional air routes committee, Berle, chairman, and Max Hymans of France, vice chairman, and the committee in charge of interim council recommendations, Hahneman Guimaraes of Brazil, chairman, and Chang Kia-ngau of China, vice chairman.

Britain Stands on White Paper.

Viscount Swinton said that the British white paper issued Oct. 8 and calling for a world air authority which would have virtually complete political and economic control was the "objective contribution" of the United Kingdom in international aviation. Howe presented a draft of an international air convention drawn up by the Canadian government in Ottawa last month as his government's best offer, and said it paralleled the American CAB on an international scale.

The Brazilian and Panamanian chairmen came out in favor of the United States position for an authority with only "consultative functions," indicating hemisphere solidarity on this idea.

Most of the other speakers either were noncommittal or showed only slight favoritism for one of the three main positions.

TEXAS GOVERNOR TO STUDY FIRING OF SCHOOL HEAD

Dr. Homer P. Rainey.

Bearing placards and shouting "We Want Rainey!" the students elicited from the governor a promise to confer with faculty and ex-student committees "at their convenience" on the ousting of Rainey. Stevenson previously had said he would take no immediate action.

During the demonstration, the students deposited a crepe shrouded coffin labeled "academic freedom" in the rotunda of the capitol building.

Fired in Closed Session.

Rainey, former president of Bucknell university in Pennsylvania and Franklin college in Indiana, was discharged at Houston after a closed session of the regents. They charged he had refused to conform to the board's regulations and policies and had made statements "reflecting on the motives and good faith of the board."

The board named Dr. T. S. Painter, university biologist, as acting president.

The dismissed executive, who has been at odds with the regents for several years, had accused the board of "restrictive measures" upon academic freedom and with encroaching upon his administrative duties.

Charges 16 Violations.

The friction came to a head Oct. 12 when Rainey read to the school faculty a 10,000 word statement, charging the regents with 16 instances of restrictive measures violating the principles of university administration.

He charged that members of the board had tried to eliminate professors "by a procedure in complete violation of rules of academic tenure," had insisted that university requests for legislative appropriations be cut as much as 22 per cent below budget recommendations, had barred administrative officers from board meetings, had taken a stand against the use by faculty members of school funds to travel to national professional meetings, and had removed Arthur L. Brandon as director of public relations without bringing charges against him.

In Houston today Rainey said he would not compromise his stand because of "fundamental importance to the university."

Following Rainey's dismissal, three members of the board of regents resigned and three of the remaining six were reported intending to resign.

TWO WELL INFORMED WOMEN SERVE PRESS AT AIR CONFERENCE

Altho the more than 50 nations represented at the international civil aviation conference have overlooked women and named men as delegates, two of the best informed persons present are women. They are Margaret Holden and Virginia Hudson, employees of the American state department, who read, word for word, every speech delivered. The two cut the stencils from which all press releases are made. They are the liaison employees between the conference and 90 newspaper reporters covering the conference.

"We read those speeches for content, too," said Miss Holden, who has prepared press releases for the food conference at Hot Springs, Va., the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration conference at Atlantic City, N. J., and the monetary conference at Bretton Woods, N. H., and is now assigned to the aviation conference here.

"Conference is just another word for hard work for us," Miss Hudson said.

RATION BOARDS CRACK DOWN ON MISUSE OF GAS

Gasoline rations of B and C card holders in Chicago have been cut more than 200,000 miles a month by ration boards in response to an order by Marion Isbell, area office of price administration director, directing cancelation of excessive allowances, Isbell said last night.

Isbell's order followed publication in THE TRIBUNE of testimony before the state joint legislative petroleum commission a month ago that Stephen J. Kelly, brother of Mayor Kelly, and others had been given more gasoline than the regulations allow.

One Board Cuts 175 Cards.

Isbell said all 175 boards in the metropolitan area had obeyed instructions "to the letter." He said Martin J. Maloney, chairman of board 48 at 5004 Broadway had been "particularly responsive." It was board 48 that allowed Stephen J. Kelly gasoline for 2,500 miles a month, an amount later cut to 1,000 miles. This board, Isbell said, had reduced the rations of 175 persons.

Other boards, Isbell said, also combed their lists thoroly and lopped off mileage allowed drivers whose applications were questionable.

Among the approximately 500 persons who suffered curtailment were Republican and Democratic politicians, including state representatives, an alderman, a ward committeeman, and county officials. Mileage cuts ranged from 10 miles a month to 2,000, altho most were for a few hundred miles, Isbell said.

Publicity Stimulates Action.

"Altho the reports show that only an infinitesimal fraction of the entire mileage issued here was involved in the cuts, it is gratifying to know that all boards are so cooperative," he said. "Many reported they conduct continuous surveys of the supplemental mileage they issue, and so could make no reductions, but others found a few here and there whose applications failed to stand close scrutiny."

Isbell said the publicity given the board 48 investigation in THE TRIBUNE had "proved very helpful" in stimulating board chairmen to prune their ration lists. He said he ordered all boards yesterday to reveal the amount of gasoline issued to any driver at the request of any other person. He said board members and employes had been told to answer all inquiries.

The complainants stated they are kept awake by forge hammers that strike 35,000 pound blows at one minute intervals, day and night.

[ADVERTISMENT]
MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES
This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief
Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.
The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.
When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.
Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

But don't YOU get caught here

Last Winter's mildness made headlines. By the averages, this Winter could be over-tough. Besides, any Winter can get ahead of itself with an early cold snap. Usually it does. And if one little radiator tube goes bust you'll cuss yourself. Even minor repairs will cost more than a whole Winter's Super Pyro anti-freeze. Don't put it off, put it in!

Any remaining warm days, and even your engine's normal HOTNESS won't fast weaken your Super Pyro. Its high resistance to HEAT tends to maintain safety from now till Winter, and beyond. Per season, then, as well as per gallon, the cost of Super Pyro is extra low. Get your car's supply now while you can; right now while you ought to! U. S. INDUSTRIAL CHEMICALS, INC.

READING fired his Genius . . . and the TELEPHONE was Born

On the afternoon of June 2, 1875, Alexander Graham Bell and his assistant, Thomas A. Watson, were tinkering with their crude apparatus of wires and coils. Suddenly, something happened at Watson's end of the line.

Bell rushed in, demanding: "What did you do then? Don't touch anything! Let me see!"

The lucky accident of a faulty spring, giving rise to a current of varying intensity, had provided the answer to the inventor's dream! At that moment the telephone was born.

Alexander Bell had always been obsessed with the idea of "sending the human voice along a wire." For three generations his family had been voice specialists. Before he was 14, he was studying phonetics.

From boyhood, he read omnivorously. In his grandfather's library were rows of books on acoustics. In his Boston workshop were many books on electricity. He read them all.

Thus, by reading, Bell's genius was fired. He acquired the knowledge and vision which were to annihilate space and time for millions . . . were to add swiftly and immeasurably to the world's capacity for productive work.

* * *

TO ALEXANDER GRAHAM BELL, as to thousands of others who have left their mark on history, reading was a powerful inspiration to achievement.

Knowledge is power, and reading is the richest, most fertile source of knowledge. When you read, you can set your own pace . . . go fast or slow . . . turn back and read again . . . start and stop as you please. Only through the unhurried eye of the reader can ideas and information be absorbed fully, in detail.

In The American Weekly is reading at its vivid, most varied best. All the color and stir of life are within these pages . . . love, sex and romance, tragedy and triumph . . . heartbreak and laughter . . . the march of medicine and science . . . the power and beauty of art, literature, religion.

So clear, accurate and interesting are the articles in The American Weekly, that they are used widely in the classrooms of schools and colleges throughout the United States.

The American Weekly is distributed through 20 great Sunday newspapers and read regularly in more than 7,750,000 homes from Coast to Coast. It is the constant companion of some 30,000,000 people. . . .

Can anyone doubt that the manufacturer who associates his product with such an influence is tying in with the most powerful known force in advertising?

SHERIFF SLAYER BEING HUNTED BY PLANE IN OZARKS

Warsaw, Mo., Nov. 2 (AP).—Scores of officers, aided by planes and bloodhounds, searched the Ozark mountains today for the slayer of Sheriff Louis J. Miesner, who was shot to death in the Benton county jail yesterday, evidently with his own machine gun.

Harold [Buster] Goff, 27, a prisoner awaiting transfer to the state penitentiary to start a term for burglary, is being hunted. He escaped following the shooting.

F. M. Brady, prosecuting attorney, said Mrs. Goldie Smith, another prisoner, heard an argument and shots and saw Miesner's body tumble down the steps. Brady said she told him Goff grabbed her and forced her to accompany him until she fell, not far from the jail.

Man's Body Discovered in the Drainage Canal

The body of a man, 40 to 45 years of age, was taken from the drainage canal at 35th st. and Pulaski rd. by police yesterday. The body had been in the water about five weeks, police said.

'SHOPPING TRIP' KISSES RELATED IN DIVORCE TRIAL

New York City, Nov. 2 [Special].—A private detective today testified in Chancery court that the wife of Bernard Armour, 53, millionaire New York manufacturer, had kissed Robert C. Ellis in broad daylight in Manhattan's bustling Herald square.

The detective, Dominick Caso, testified for Armour, who is suing his wife, Martha, 31, for divorce.

Armour, president of the Heyden Chemical corporation of New York, charges that his wife, mother of their three daughters, has misconducted herself with Ellis, Dr. Benjamin Kramer, and Nathan Berger. The three men are identified only as her lovers.

Relates Kissing.

George McCarter, attorney for Mrs. Armour, questioned Caso about the kissing.

Caso said he saw Ellis and Mrs. Armour kissing in Ellis' car parked outside of Macy's department store. After a while, Caso added, they stopped kissing and Mrs. Armour left the car and went into the store.

Ellis, Caso went on, kissed Mrs. Armour in Battery Park, too, one night and the pair disappeared "into the shadows—around the building."

Testimony Names Kramer.

Caso was followed on the stand by Louis Smollens, formerly an elevator operator in an apartment building on upper Central Park West. At least a dozen times, Smollens said, Mrs. Armour and Dr. Kramer went upstairs to an apartment occupied by a family named Glickman.

"Most of the time the Glickmans were away," Smollens said, "and sometimes Mrs. Armour carried an overnight bag with her."

THOS. MIDGLEY, ETHYL GASOLINE INVENTOR, DIES

Apparently Strangled by Bed Harness.

Columbus, O., Nov. 3 (AP).—Thomas Midgley, who invented ethyl gasoline and did some of the first synthetic rubber research, died at his home near here today. He apparently was strangled in his sleep by a harness he had devised to help himself in and out of bed.

Thomas Midgley.

Midgley, who was 55, had been an invalid for four years after suffering an attack of infantile paralysis.

He was regarded as one of the nation's outstanding chemists and once made one assignment produce three major inventions. While working for the Delco Light company of Dayton, O., he was directed to see how more power could be obtained from small electric plants operated by kerosene motors which knocked persistently.

Extracts Bromine.

He first developed what later became known as the Midgley indicator, a device to tell what happened inside high speed internal combustion engines. Its operation indicated to him faster vaporization of the kerosene was needed in order to stop the knocking.

His work to provide that eventually led to the invention of ethyl gasoline. In the course of that research work he had discovered that the use of chlorine and bromine compounds eliminated all objections to the fuel.

A shortage of bromine then developed and Midgley invented a method of extracting bromine from sea water.

Among his approximately 100 patents also was one for freon, a safe refrigerant for both commercial and domestic refrigerators and air conditioning systems.

Gives Up Project.

Midgley made his synthetic rubber studies as early as 1928 while he was associated with the General Motors Chemical company. He did extensive experimentation on the subject but finally gave it up because of limited marketing possibilities at that time.

He is survived by the widow, Mrs. Carrie M. Reynolds Midgley, a daughter, Jane, of Washington, D. C., and a son, Thomas Midgley III., of Hartford, Conn.

WLB DELIVERS SPLIT RULING ON CHARITY GROUPS

Takes Jurisdiction in Dispute with Union.

The regional war labor board yesterday reported it had taken jurisdiction over an employe dispute involving nonprofit charity organizations, but split four ways in its decision, Edgar L. Warren, chairman, announced.

The dispute was taken to the board by the United Office and Professional Workers, CIO, and involved 200 employes of the Jewish Social Service bureau, Jewish Children's bureau, Jewish Vocational Service and Employment center, and the Jewish People's institute.

Refuses to Force Signing.

The board refused to force the agencies to sign a written contract with the union, and refused to order union recognition, maintenance of membership or checkoff of union dues, Warren said, but it did "set the terms and conditions of employment which shall govern relations between employers and the union."

The terms of employment include a grievance procedure with binding arbitration as a final step. The union had agreed, Warren said, to accept existing personnel practices on wages, vacations, and other matters but asked a written agreement, and also requested a union shop and the checkoff.

The board's opinion was written by Dr. John D. Larkin, vice chairman and a public member. He said decision of the national board had set a pattern for the regional board ruling, and that the national board had ruled that "in cases involving labor disputes with firms not engaged in interstate commerce the board will accept the union only as a representative of its actual members, and will issue no order which will require the employer to recognize or bargain with a union not recognized as exclusive representative of all employes."

Exempt in Wage Cases.

He said the fact that employers in this case were nonprofit charitable institutions "does not take away the WLB right to settle the dispute." He said such institutions are exempt from WLB approval in wage adjustments, but this does not carry over into labor disputes.

Public members voted with industry members on some issues and with labor members on others, Larkin said. Industry members wrote a dissenting opinion, Larkin said, contending that the agencies are exempt from the national labor relations act, and that the WLB did not have jurisdiction in the case because their work does not affect the war effort. Labor members held the WLB had jurisdiction in all matters the union brought before it in the case.

M'INTOSH GETS ARMY PARDON ON TEN YEAR TERM

Jefferson Barracks, Mo., Nov. 2 [Special].—Pvt. Charles L. F. McIntosh, 31, has been released from the army rehabilitation center here, it was learned today, thus clearing him of the charges on which he was originally sentenced to 10 years imprisonment at a court martial nearly a year ago after he went AWOL and married Mrs. Alice Rand de Tarnowsky, Chicago heiress.

Capt. Charles Rowan, adjutant of the center, said McIntosh was released from the correctional unit Monday and is now awaiting reassignment. McIntosh had been here since Sept. 1 after having been held in rehabilitation centers at Fort Sheridan, Ill., and at Camp Phillips, Salinas, Kas.

Meantime, federal check fraud charges, arising from the cross country trail of bad checks he allegedly issued during his much publicized courtship of Mrs. De Tarnowsky, have been nolle prossed in Chicago. That action was taken Oct. 17 before Federal Judge William J. Campbell upon the recommendation of United States Atty. Woll.

SHOES WITHOUT MUCH LEATHER OFF RATIONING

Current stocks of shoes containing no leather except for small quantities used to reinforce fabric uppers were declared ration free yesterday by the office of price administration. This release from rationing is confined to shoes made in this country or imported prior to Nov. 6, because the intention of the order is to free stocks dealers have on hand without encouraging further use of leather in this type of footwear. The action will free from rationing rubber soled gym shoes with leather reinforced canvas uppers.

The war production board revoked the conservation order which prohibited the purchase, delivery or use of elastic fabric six inches wide or less, except as specifically authorized by the WPB or for sale or delivery to the defense supplies corporation. This action was taken because stocks of elastic fabrics frozen under the order no longer are needed to meet military requirements, the WPB explained.

BY JUDITH CASS.

CLIMAXING a busy day will be the Service club's benefit opening performance of the "Ice Follies of 1945" tonight in the Chicago Arena and the first concert in the Civic Concert series sponsored by circle 27 of the Oak Park and River Forest Infant Welfare society at 8:30 in the Oak Park High school auditorium. The number of teas following the concert by the Chicago Symphony orchestra this afternoon is the greatest so far this season and includes the opening of the winter exhibition program of the Arts club and a benefit cocktail party and fashion show to be given by the South Shore Service league of the Chicago Maternity center at the Racquet club.

There will be many children at the Service club benefit, and a number of them will be dining at the Woman's Athletic club with their parents in a Dutch treat party arranged by Mrs. William Pope of the benefit committee, who will have her own youngsters in the group. Mrs. Robert Cavanaugh, president of the Service club, and Miss Priscilla Payne are others entertaining at the Woman's Athletic club. Some of those in dinner parties at the Key club will be Mr. and Mrs. Edwin W. Sims Jr., the Jere Pattersons, the Richard Nugents, the Paul Butlers, and Mr. and Mrs. Willard Jaques.

The few Service club provisional members who are not away at school will sell flowers and programs, among them Miss Letitia Bear, Mrs. Frederick Clifford Jr., Miss Barbara La Porte, Miss Joan Van Buren, and Miss Mary Jane Brummel and Miss Nancy Davis, who are co-chairmen of the sales girls.

Today's Calendar.

Bartlett and Robertson, duo-pianists, are on the opening program of the Civic Concert series. Mrs. Russell Lee Gambill, president of circle 27, will introduce them to a sold out house. There will be many dinner parties before the concert.

Paintings by Hans Hofmann and Enrico Donati will go on view at the Arts club from 4 to 6 p. m., with Mrs. Arthur G. Cable in charge of the tea. Mr. Donati and his wife are here from New York for the opening. Mr. Donati, an Italian, has done the decorating for the Ballet International's presentation of Ravel's "Bolero," which probably will be seen later this season. Mr. Hofmann, who formerly lived in Munich, has a school in New York. Among his students has been the Samuel T. Chases' daughter, Mrs. Frederick Hauck.

Miss Virginia Elwood, Mrs. Watson McLallen, Miss Rosemary Brennan, and Mrs. Walter Roney are some of those who will model in the "Fashion Merry-Go-Round" which will be the feature of the benefit cocktail party at the Racquet club. Mrs. G. Dudley Allman, president of the league; Mrs. John J. Cavanaugh, chairman of the benefit; the John S. Cusacks, and the Frank Lyndons, who all are entertaining at the cocktail party, will go on afterward to the Service club benefit.

Désiré Defauw, conductor of the Chicago Symphony, and Mrs. Defauw, will be special guests of the English-Speaking union at tea following this afternoon's concert. Mrs. Silas Strawn will act as hostess.

At the Cordon's after-the-symphony tea, Hugh Marlowe of "The Voice of the Turtle" cast will be

Club Women Told Peace Is Still Distant

BY IRENE STEYSKAL.

If the 600 women—many of them wives or mothers of men in service—assembled yesterday in the Hotel Sherman for the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs' northern regional institute entertained any ideas that peace was near, their confidence was abruptly dissipated by a realistic appraisal of the military situation given them by Brig. Gen. P. J. Carroll, commanding officer of Vaughan General hospital.

From news of advances on the European fronts and the recent spectacular sea and air victories in the Pacific, the country was drawing an unwarranted assurance of the imminent defeat of Germany and Japan, Gen. Carroll, a veteran of the South Pacific fighting, asserted.

There were far too many "ifs" involved, he told the women. The more optimistic view was largely contingent upon the overthrow of their governments by the Germans and Japanese, he said. He expressed the opinion that there had been little sound evidence to give credence to such hopes.

"It is my belief," Gen. Carroll said, "that we are going to lose far more men than we have lost thus far—that we're not even at the middle of the fight. Consider one thing alone: As we advance our supply lines lengthen, and the enemy's shorten. In the east, as great as our sea and air victories have been, we have to get on land before we can whip the Japs.

"At the time of Manchukuo we knew the Japs had an army of 8 million men—and that was before conscription. We are going to have to do away with from 10 to 12 million Japs before we lick them.

"If the war is over in Europe next spring," he said, "we'll be very fortunate." A chorus of dismayed "Ohs" met his further comment that, "If we finish off the Japs by 1947 I will be very happy."

They could best keep faith with the men overseas he told the women by constantly "stirring up" war production at home, by permitting no "let down" of concentration on the winning of the war.

Mrs. W. Glenn Suthers, state chairman of the federation's post-war planning committee, called upon women voters to distinguish between "blind party affiliation" and "intelligent participation in party politics," and urged "conscientious" voting next Tuesday in this, "the most important election in 80 years."

Mrs. Walter M. Rennie, state president of the club federation, made a plea for careful study of all plans advanced for coöperation between nations in setting up machinery for maintaining world peace, and for sustained effort to bring a workable plan into being.

Other guest speakers were Miss Florence Henderson of the department of labor's children's bureau; Livingston E. Osborne, state director of conservation; Dr. Roland R. Cross, state director of public health, and Mrs. Albert M. Dunlap, member of the Shanghai Woman's club during 31 years' residence in China. Mrs. Burton A. Noyes, state federation vice president of the northern region, had charge of the meeting.

Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. William Rambeau and Mr. and Mrs. William Hough will be in Liberal, Kas., tomorrow for the marriage of their daughter and son, Miss Nancy Rambeau and Flight Officer Richard Trevellyan Hough of the army air forces. The ceremony will take place in the evening at the Liberal army air field chapel. Miss Mary Lee Rambeau, a student at Drake college, will attend her sister. Flight Officer Hough and his bride will be at home temporarily in Liberal.

This bright cranberry ring on greens is an eye catcher every time. To make mold, pick over 1 pound (4 cups) cranberries and wash. Place drained berries and 2 cups water in deep saucepan, bring to boil, and boil about 20 minutes or until skins are broken. Force thru sieve, bring pulp to boil, add 2 cups sugar, and boil rapidly 3 to 5 minutes, stirring until sugar is dissolved. Skim and pour into large ring mold. Unmold and encircle with crisp celery and lettuce leaves. Fill center with waldorf salad and serve with mayonnaise. [TRIBUNE Studio Photo.]

Have you mentioned the four syllable word written on the right hand on the typewriter—HONOLULU?

CORA.

The Eternal Question.

I am a white collar worker and am writing in behalf of myself and three girl friends.

Just what do men expect of girls today? Unless we smoke or drink we aren't wanted or considered interesting. For example, what can be wrong with me? I am just past 30; 5 feet 8 inches tall, considered a good dresser, understanding, do secretarial work, and am well liked by the people with whom I work. I enjoy dancing very much, but the older men prefer the girls in their teens.

So, I still say—what do men expect of girls? Any WCG advice will greatly be appreciated. R. K.

A reader wants us to add to the list of things-to-cherish in Chicago the Thorndike Hilton chapel at the University of Chicago . . . and don't forget the Art institute, which is making such a valiant effort to solace our war weary hearts. . . . Another reader thinks it might be fun to recollect the grade school rhymes which have clung to us thru the years, and don't you like the idea? If so, what is stored in your memory? . . . Why do so many career women make a point of asking, "Please don't mention my grown son or daughter"? Don't they realize success seldom comes with youth, and an early marriage and full grown children are no black mark? . . . Gay Woolen Dress Is Foil for Fur Coat

BY REA SEEGER.

It takes a thin wool dress in some gay, even giddy, shade to provide proper contrast for a fur coat. Whether the coat be short and flared, straight or fitted, what shows beneath that length should be brilliant accent and the fabric warm enough to keep you cozy in cold weather. If the fur coat is full length, the wool should be bright but as thin as a summer sheer. Dresses of this featherweight wool in vivid color and brilliant combinations are now ready.

This collection features both the one-piece dresses designed for day time wear and the two piece dress-suits. Color is introduced in the contrasting top of the dress and in the smart jacket. The bright color is usually at the top of the dress. The dark shade of the skirt is repeated in frogs or appliqued bands or motifs against the bright color of the jacket. Dark contrast is used on the one-piece dresses, sometimes in the band outline of the neck or a simulated yoke or in cuffs and collar detail. But the bright clear color predominates, in both the one pieces and the more elaborate dress-suit models.

So far, the color choice is limited, but more is promised. Tawny shades of gold are especially interesting foils for brown furs and of course outstanding contrast for black fur coats. The pale golds are grand with dark brown, the husky gold tones strong enough to contrast dark gray as well as brown or black. Clear scarlet is another good choice for brown, black, or gray, so are the many vivid pinks, corals, and cerise shades. Light blues, and the stronger shades of delphinium blue are classed along with butter-beige and gray neutrals as colors for wear with fur coat or jacket.

Menuhin Does Beethoven in Lyrical Manner

Concert by the Chicago Symphony orchestra, Désiré Defauw conducting; Yehudi Menuhin, violinist. Presented at Orchestra hall Thursday evening, Nov. 2, 1944, and scheduled for repetition Friday afternoon. The program:
Symphony No. 1, C major.....Beethoven
Symphony No. 2, D major.....Beethoven
Concerto for Violin, D major....Beethoven

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

Yehudi Menuhin, looking as trim as the soldiers for whom he has traveled so many thousands of miles to play, filled Orchestra hall to capacity last night when he appeared with the Chicago Symphony orchestra as soloist in the first of five Beethoven programs planned by Désiré Defauw to be scattered thru the season. Mr. Menuhin's way with the violin concerto was supremely lyrical rather than stirring or profound, tho he found a noble line for the larghetto, and touched off incandescence in magnificent playing of the cadenzas, particularly that at the end of the first movement, which was virtuosity in the hands of a musician.

But chiefly he dwelt on the song of the violin, concentrating on purity of tone and line and a kind of gentle contemplation that refused to be banished even to bring the rondo in with its customary sparkle. This was no spellbinding Beethoven in the definitive sense of a performance never to be forgotten, but it had sensitivity and often a lambent radiance that enchanted the ear.

The accompaniment was sympathetic in much of its detail, often to the point of hushing the orchestra to a whisper, but it lacked the sweeping articulation that can carry soloist and listener to dazzling heights of music. For one thing, it merely started the concerto, where a great accompaniment can invite the violin to enter thru stately portals. For another, it furnished polite support rather than a sustained and mounting crescendo of Beethoven that refused to be denied. The result was pleasant performance rather than the ineffable experience, which is the Beethoven Concerto at its peak.

The concert began a little late and ran a little long, because Mr. Defauw chose to precede his soloist with both the First and Second Symphonies. And here again you will find the audience split on the familiar crags of dispute. The fresh and lovely Symphony in C major was rattled off at a great rate, with a facility that was brilliant or superficial, depending on your taste in music. But the Symphony in D major is not a work in which facility will serve. It demands felicity and that it did not get. There were well played interludes, notably in the larghetto, but on the whole it was shallow Beethoven, which is to say it was not Beethoven at all, but a gesture of orchestral lip service in that giant's general direction.

OPA HEAD TAKES LIGHT VIEW OF CIGARET CRISIS

Small hope that the office of price administration will do much to help stock Chicago's empty cigaret counters was offered yesterday by Rae Walters, regional administrator.

"After all," Walters told a press conference, "there are more important things than cigarets." Furthermore, he said, many other spots in the midwest have been harder hit by the cigaret famine than Chicago. Walters said he knew of no OPA plan to put cigarets on rations, and that he has little knowledge of black market operations being a serious factor in the shortage. But he admitted there may be some black marketing in hotels and bars.

Among causes for the shortage, he put heavy "store to store" buying, overseas shipments, and not the least important, the fact that "people are smoking too much."

DEWEY, BRICKER WIVES HONORED BY N. Y. WOMEN

New York, Nov. 2 [Special].—Mrs. Thomas E. Dewey and Mrs. John W. Bricker greeted 3,000 Republican women campaign workers at a reception this afternoon in the Roosevelt hotel.

Guests shook hands with the wives of the Republican candidates at the rate of nearly one a second as the pace of the reception line was speeded to allow Mrs. Dewey, just in from Baltimore, to catch a train to Albany.

The wife of the Republican Presidential candidate wore a black dress, silver fox scarf, wine-red feathered hat, black accessories, a double strand of pearls and jeweled earrings. Mrs. Bricker was dressed in brown. Both women had orchid corsages.

Reopen Addison St. Area After Sewer Repairs

Addison st., between Lincoln av. and Paulina st., which was declared dangerous after a sewer cave-in July 9, was reopened to traffic yesterday. The old 4 foot sewer, built in 1888, has been replaced by a reinforced brick and concrete sewer 7½ feet in diameter, Public Works Commissioner Hewitt announced.

Wonder Radio of Future Has Television, Too

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

A group of "looker-listeners" were given a glimpse last night of home radio in the post-war world. The radionic instrument they saw unveiled in the Blackstone hotel incorporates—besides standard, frequency modulation, and short wave bands—a phonograph with a new type of automatic record changer, home recording apparatus, and television. The cabinet housing all these potentialities also has ample room for storing records and for installing facsimile [radio transmission of printed and pictorial matter] when it comes.

The demonstration was made by Admiral corporation, Chicago, which developed the post-war model in its laboratories, coöperating with the Balaban & Katz television station, 190 N. State st., which wafted a show across the loop for the benefit of the preview audience. The Dinning sisters, identical twins, who sing over W-G-N, participated in the show. Ginger appeared before the television microphones, and Jean heard and saw her sister at the show in the hotel.

The television image is centered in the control panel, which at first glance appears rather complicated. The pictures are of good definition. The images are 5½ by 8 inches.

The various eye and ear filling devices are housed in a modern cabinet. It is 43 inches high, 40 inches wide, and 24 inches deep. It occupies about as much floor space as a spinet type piano.

It is opened up in much the same fashion as a piano. A slanting control panel makes it easy to handle all the knobs and the slide-away phonograph from a standing position, with a minimum of bending. To the right of the television image are six station push button selectors for sound stations, together with manual controls for the standard, FM, and short wave bands.

Day Time Frock

Applique, the pattern for which is included with the dress pattern, adorns the shoulders and pockets of this simple but attractive frock for afternoons and informal evenings. Style No. 3790 is designed for sizes 10 to 20. Size 16 requires 2⅞ yards of 39 inch fabric.

Order Clotilde patterns from Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Annex, NEW YORK CITY. Print name and address; state size. Each pattern is 10 cents plus 2 cents for mailing. The winter pattern book costs 15 cents at Public Service offices, 10 cents if ordered with a pattern.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	Pass	2 diamonds
2 hearts	Double	Pass	Pass
Pass

Opening lead: jack of diamonds.

When your partner has failed to keep your opening bid alive, it is no time for you to be stubborn. South, with his four and one-half honor tricks, resented the opponents trying to take the hand from him and decided to show his other four-card major. West did not fall into the common error of bidding two no trump, he selected the more profitable policy of having the opponents work for him and doubled. The result was a three trick set for a net profit of 800 points.

North put the conventional question to his partner, "Did my bidding deceive you?" "I was absolutely justified," said South, "I had four and one-half honor tricks." Another victim of over-counting. Remember, they do not pay off on honor tricks; it is the little stacks of four cards each at the conclusion of the hand that decide the winners and the losers. There was absolutely no excuse for South's action. North, by failing to keep the opening bid alive, has confessed that his hand is trickless. When you have a trickless partner, do not think in terms of honor tricks. Ask yourself, what can I make singlehanded? Not with any reasonable stretch of optimism could South count on more than six tricks himself.

This assures that he will be down at least 500 points if doubled, a contingency which should not have appeared at all remote. Be careful about taking on two opponents singlehanded.

The usual weekly quiz will appear tomorrow.

'The Key'

INSTALMENT XLI.

INNOCENCE ESTABLISHED.

Evan Madoc's chair was pushed back so sharply as to score the government linoleum. The warder, watching thru his glass panel, put a hand to the doorknob. But after tensing his muscles as if about to spring up, Evan Madoc appeared to change his mind.

"Confidence from a client is most desirable. I realize that you know so little about me I cannot expect your confidence, but I do ask you not to complicate the situation by attempting to prevaricate. You were married to Miss Medora Brown on June 15 five years ago at the Marylebone register office in London."

He put his face right down into his hands. And then quite suddenly he jerked it back and sat up, a wry grin twisting his mouth.

"Well, it seems a peculiar moment for Medora to claim me as a husband. I suppose you didn't find all this out for yourself?"

"Mrs. Madoc has been in considerable distress. She informed me of your marriage because she was afraid she might be compelled to give evidence against you."

"And I suppose it's all in the papers!"

"The only persons who know of it are the chief inspector, Sgt. Abbott, and myself. Publicity at this juncture would be most undesirable."

"I quite agree. It would be highly undesirable for her to be known as a murderer's wife! You know she thinks I did it."

"Mr. Madoc, we have no time for these melodramatics. You are in a serious, even a dangerous position. If you can make up your mind to treat me frankly, I believe that I can help you. You see, I am quite sure that you did not shoot Mr. Harsch."

"Why?"

"Because you have such a very bad temper."

"And what do you mean by that?"

"Mr. Harsch was shot by someone who had planned to shoot him. The weapon was taken to the spot for that purpose. After the murder Harsch's fingerprints were imposed upon it, I think you might be capable of violence in a moment of passion, but I do not believe you are capable of premeditation or of cool afterthought. If you had killed your best friend in the heat of anger you would, I think, stand by your deed and not allow another man to be accused."

"How do you know? What do you mean—what other man? Is anyone else accused?"

"Frederick Bush is under suspicion. He was seen to come out of the church just before 10 o'clock, locking the door behind him. He admits to being there, but says he found the door open and Mr. Harsch fallen down dead by the organ stool. He was afraid of being implicated, so he locked the door and came away. He swears that he did not touch the pistol. By showing that Mr. Harsch had not locked himself inside the church, Bush's statement destroys most of the evidence against you. As you will see, any one might have walked in and shot him."

"For heaven's sake, stop talking! I tell you Bush didn't do it!"

Miss Silver drew herself up.

"Perhaps you would care to amplify that, Mr. Madoc."

He pushed long nervous fingers thru his hair.

"I tell you he didn't do it. I've got to make a statement! They mustn't arrest him! Get hold of that chief inspector! He was anxious enough for me to talk when I didn't want to! I suppose somebody can produce him now and get me something to write on?"

In a calming voice Miss Silver said that she had no doubt it could be managed. She then went over to the door and spoke to the warder. She returned to her place, said, "Pray, Mr. Madoc, continue. I am deeply interested."

He stared.

"They mustn't arrest Bush. You see, it's like this. I came back. After I'd got away with the key I walked all out for five or six minutes. I was going home. And then it came over me that I'd better go back. I thought I'd made a fool of myself. I was angry. I didn't want to give Medora the satisfaction of thinking I cared whether she went over to the church to talk to Harsch or not. I'd like to say there wasn't any question in my mind about there being anything wrong between them, but she liked talking to him, and when we met we always quarreled. I thought I'd punish her by putting the key down on the study doorstep for the maids to find in the morning. I knew she'd enjoy explaining how it got there."

Miss Silver sat with folded hands. She made no comment.

"Now, listen carefully! I came back across the village street and entered the Cut. When I had come level with the church the clock began to chime for the third quarter." He hummed the four descending notes. "It does that three times for the quarter to. It had just got into the second chime when I heard the shot. I didn't know where it came from—there's a good deal of echo there, off the church and off the wall of the Cut. Immediately after the shot some one in front of me in the Cut began to run. I hadn't noticed him before—the trees keep the moonlight off the path—but I did see him open the door into the church yard and run in. It was bright when the door was opened. When I got there it was standing a hand's breath [illegible]. I looked in, and this is w[illegible] saw. The man who had just [illegible] in was halfway over to the door which opens on the green, running fast, and some one else was just going out of that door. I couldn't see who it was—I couldn't say if it was man or woman—I just saw some one go out and bang the door. And then the second person got there, still running, and went out, too."

"Pray continue," said Miss Silver.

He was frowning gloomily.

"I changed my mind again. I wanted to get home. The police won't understand that, but it's true. I felt sick to death of being angry and wanting to punish Medora. I suppose I really knew that something had happened, but I wouldn't admit it—I just wanted to get home. I went back down the Cut as quick as I could, and just as I came out of it I saw Bush cross over from the left to the main church yard gate. He didn't see me, because I was in the shadow, but I saw him. So there you are—he couldn't possibly have shot Michael."

"He couldn't have reached the spot where you saw him in the time?"

"Look—the Cut is the shortest side of a very irregular oblong. I ran down it pretty fast. If Bush was the man I saw leaving the church yard he couldn't have made it in the time with double the distance to travel. You can measure it up for yourself. Besides, Bush was coming quite slowly and leisurely from the opposite direction. And, to finish up with, if he'd really shot Michael, do you suppose he'd have been such a fool as to go back into the church and stay there till just before 10?"

Fresh spinach in transparent packages, all cleaned and ready for cooking pot or salad bowl, is news to make housewives cheer, for it eliminates one of the most tedious chores in vegetable preparation.

Clean, packaged spinach is now being flown here from California by American Airlines in a newly inaugurated air freight service and will be followed by similar air borne produce. Speedy travel time at an altitude high enough to keep storage spaces at low temperature prevents deterioration of the delicate spinach leaves and preserves their fresh flavor and vitamin content.

Spinach is a vegetable which is very finicky about the way it's prepared—no large quantities of water, no long cooking allowed. Add just a small amount of water, cover, and cook for 8 to 10 minutes, removing cover after first five minutes and turning leaves. Drain if necessary, chop spinach coarsely, and add salt and pepper to taste and margarine or butter. Add a little lemon juice or vinegar, too, if you like a hint of tartness is spinach.

Use tiny spinach leaves often in the tossed vegetable salad bowl. They add such a nice bright green touch! Combine the crisp leaves with torn lettuce, celery tops, sliced celery stalks, sliced radishes, and a tomato French dressing.

Spinach salad with a hot dressing is the way of the Dutch and a dish which makes for menu variety.

Pennsylvania Dutch Spinach Salad.

[Serves six.]

3 cups chopped raw spinach
4 slices bacon, chopped
3 tablespoons flour
1½ cups water
2 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon vinegar
Salt and pepper to taste
2 hard cooked eggs

Place spinach in salad bowl. Fry bacon until crisp and add flour, stirring to smooth paste. Add water and cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Add sugar, vinegar, salt, and pepper. Pour over spinach, blend thoroly, and serve with sliced hard cooked eggs as garnish.

Here's a novel luncheon dish to include the egg a day in a new way:

Spinach Luncheon Special.

[Serves two or three.]

2 strips bacon, chopped
1 cup cooked drained spinach, coarsely chopped and seasoned
2 eggs, slightly beaten
½ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon grated Parmesan cheese

Cook bacon until crisp in small [6 or 8 inch] skillet. Drain off excess fat. Arrange spinach evenly over bacon. Add salt to eggs and pour over spinach. Sprinkle with grated cheese, cover, and cook for 5 to 7 minutes over very low heat. Serve immediately.

Spinach Cereal Loaf.

2 cups cooked spinach, chopped
1 tablespoon margarine, melted
½ teaspoon salt or more
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 egg, well beaten
1 cup grated American cheese [about ¾ pound]
1 cup grapenuts cereal

To spinach add margarine, salt and pepper. Fold in egg, cheese, and cereal. Bake in greased bread loaf pan at 350 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes. Serve with or without sauce [tomato or mushroom].

Cooking Dried Beans.

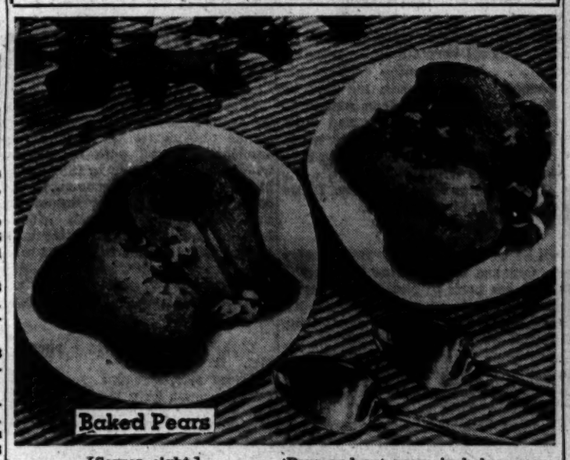
Today's $5 Prize Winning Recipe



[Serves eight.]

1¼ cups water
1½ cups brown sugar
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
Juice and grated rind of ½ orange
8 fresh pears
¼ cup broken walnut meats

Combine water, brown sugar, butter, and orange rind and juice. Simmer in covered pan for 10 minutes. Pare and cut pears in halves; core. Place in baking dish and pour over brown sugar sauce. Bake in moderate [350 degrees] oven until pears are tender, about 20 minutes. Serve warm in their own sauce and garnish with nutmeats.

GEORGE WASHINGTON'S MOTHER'S PRIVATE RECIPE

Movie 'Double Indemnity' Is Superb Drama

BY ALBERT GOLDBERG.

Like "The Voice of the Turtle"—with which, however, it is not to be compared in any other respect—the basic formula is almost trite. But also like "The Voice," this material is wrought into a masterpiece of dramatic construction, and, in this case, of terrific emotional impact.

Fundamentally, "Double Indemnity"—based on the novel by James M. Cain—follows the pattern of the notorious Ruth Snyder-Judd Gray affair of nearly 20 years ago. Walter Neff [Fred MacMurray], an insurance salesman, makes a routine call on a client for the purpose of renewing an automobile policy. The client is not at home, but his wife, Phyllis [Barbara Stanwyck], is. The salesman catches that look in her eye and senses an adventure. She casually quizzes him concerning an accident policy for her husband.

Walter Neff was not born yesterday, and he sees thru her game at once. But a fatal something has already clicked between the two, and when she goes to his apartment the next day he looks at things her way. They trick the husband into signing for a large policy with double indemnity benefits, and then proceed to plan the perfect crime.

To tell much more of the plot would be unfair, altho little attempt is made at mystery. The picture opens with the murderer confessing his crime to a dictaphone and he continues with his comment on the action thruout. You know almost—but not quite—what is going to happen next, and sometimes the suspense so subtly contrived drives your nails into your palm.

The crime is almost perfect. What the murderer hadn't figured on was the vanity of woman—she tries on her widow's weeds prematurely—and, being in love with her, he neglected to check on her past. He also had underrated the sagacity of his closest friend, the insurance claims adjuster with a "little man" in his stomach who tells him when a claim isn't on the up and up.

But plot is less important than character. This cold, calculating, insinuating daughter of evil and this likable, weak, foolish, shrewd—but not shrewd enough—pawn of hers live in vivid reality for nearly two of the shortest hours you ever spent. And when inexorable retribution closes in, altho there isn't a single exculpating factor in their favor, you feel a terrible pity for them. It comes perilously close to high tragedy.

Everything about this picture is superb—acting, direction, writing, and photography. Fred MacMurray and Edward G. Robinson are both magnificent, and tho, like this reviewer, you may never have greatly fancied Barbara Stanwyck, she is perfect here.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Nov. 2.—Victor Moore and Bill Gaxton will go to New York some time in January to do the Vinton Freedley musical. It's a war story. Victor gets into both wars, altho much too old, and Bill plays a colonel. It's all very funny, because in real life, Victor has missed both wars. . . . Leslie Fenton declares his next picture, "Pardon My Past," has nothing to do with his past or Ann Dvorak. . . . I don't believe for one minute that Jean Arthur is retiring from the screen. Even old actresses don't retire, and she's young. . . . Lily Pons did her shopping in San Francisco. Got warm clothes for her trip to China. . . . It didn't take Sam Marx long to sign John Carroll for "New Horizons." Jan Clayton will also be in it. . . . Rene Clair is sure trying to make it an all-star cast for "Ten Little Indians," with Cedric Hardwicke and Ian Keith about to sign.

They Should Know Better.

All those folk prattling that it will be wedding bells for Bob Landry and Deanna Durbin should know he's engaged to Geraldine Lux of the Park av. set, and just as soon as he can get back to New York they're going to marry. She's a mite upset over all these rumors. Said he, "When I talked to her on the telephone yesterday, her voice was on the chilly side—or could that have been the fall weather in New York?" . . . Could "Laura's" success have anything to do with the reconciliation of Darryl Zanuck, David Selznick, and Jennifer Jones? I'm told David is getting $7,000 per for Jennifer's services—but she gets $1,750. . . . From Madison, Ia., comes this wire: "Who and what is Toni 7? Everywhere I go I hear about it. Is it a patent medicine or just something from Hollywood?" It's a gal who was born June Millarde. . . . David Hempstead is making "Married at Leisure" ready for Ginger Rogers.

A Penny Saved.

The Andrews Sisters did three numbers for "Hollywood Canteen," but "Lullaby of Broadway" had to be cut. Did Warners scrap it? Huh-uh. They're using it in another musical. . . . Ben Bogeaus finally crashed thru. He's got a goody in "Dark Waters." The swamps of Louisiana make your hair rise. It's another "Gaslight." Performances headed by Merle Oberon, Franchot Tone, Tommy Mitchell, Fay Bainter, etc., are tops. . . . Martha MacVicars hasn't forgotten that Tom Kelley was responsible for her getting into Howard Hawks' picture, and glory be, she's telling it. Too often they forget. . . . There'll be fireworks in Detroit, they hope, when Woody Herman and Artie Shaw play at rival theaters same week.

That's Harmony—Hollywood Variety.

A magazine writer was interviewing Vincent Price on the set the other day. She asked him what a movie actor talked about to his wife when they met after they'd both returned from a hard day's work at the studio. Vincent answered, "That easy. I say 'D——n Twentieth Century,' and my wife says, 'D——n Warner Brothers.'" Which means, the Vincent Prices are back together again. . . . While working on "God Is My Co-Pilot," Col. Bob Scott wrenched his shoulder. And as he got out of his plane, he came over to me and said, "I'd better get back into combat before I fracture my skull slipping in the bathtub." . . . Dunninger declared in Shrine auditorium here that he defied any one to duplicate his tricks. Richard Himber tells me he did, in New York, April 19, 1944. And Himber is willing to put up $1,000 cash to do it again if Dunninger will appear with him on the stage of the El Capitan theater during "Blackouts," the money to be turned over to the Red Cross.

Those Blonde Tresses Are Going.

Lana Turner is a big girl now, so her hair will be cut short and dressed smartly for "Week-End at the Waldorf." She had quite a time with that blonde halo while playing a WAC. They parted it in the middle, braided it, and wound it around her head. . . . Reminds me of the remark of a friend of mine. She's 75, modern in every way, has long white hair, never bobbed it. I asked her why. She said: "Because it looks so pretty on the pillow." She's been a widow 30 years. . . . Sam Wood wants Claudette Colbert fluffy and feminine for "Guest Wife." When wasn't she? . . . Kay Kyser found a camp where they'd had no entertainment, so took his gang on a 14 hour bus ride to Tonapah, Nev., to entertain boys at an army air base there. . . . At first, Peggy Ann Garner paid no attention to George Raft on "Nob Hill" set. She didn't even like him. So Raft put on a campaign, brought her little gifts daily. Yes, Mr. Raft has a way with children. Irving Thalberg Jr., was crazy about him, and sure misses him. . . . Mervyn Leroy's girl friend is Sally Wright, who used to see so much of Bob Carr. Incidentally, Mervyn gave a party for Mrs. Wright's child the other day. . . . Gene Kelly, in "Anchors Aweigh," sure got in training for his navy job. His dances were in the old Doug Fairbanks manner. He leapt from roof to roof, throwing swords. So Uncle Sam gets what Uncle Metro left of him. . . . Gregory Ratoff, a Russian, borrowed Sgt. Bob Davis, an Englishman, from the "Winged Victory" set to teach MacMurray, an Irishman, a guttural German accent for a scene in "Where Do We Go from Here?"—burlesquing an 18th century Hitler.

Household Forum

By Louise Bargeli

Mrs. Sam K., Indianapolis, Ind.—To make fresh laundry soap last longer I unwrap it and let it "age" a few weeks before I use it. Have been told by an "expert" that fresh laundry soap contains a certain amount of moisture and that it is a help to dry it out or "age" it.

Mrs. Fred G., Des Moines, Ia.—To clean the bulk of the soot out of our chimney flue, we drag a chain up and down in it—never burn it out. Our house is wood shingled and we started several fires by trying to burn soot out of chimney. If you do insist on doing it, play safe and pick a damp or rainy day when the roof is wet!

Minnie G., Chicago—Here's a "help" we enjoyed last summer. We salvaged an old truck tire, turned it inside out, and gave it to our children to use as a sandbox. Hubby made slits in the tire to take sticks which would hold a sunshade. [The rubber was too far gone to be worth anything as scrap.]

Teen Age Child Should Accept Parents' Rules

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

In a recent column I quoted a letter from a young girl of 15 whose father objects to her having any association at all with boys, even when they wish to go to the movies in a group in the afternoon, to the corner drug store after supper for soft drinks, or to each other's houses. I followed the letter with some needed advice to fathers who adopt such an extreme view, and I pointed out the harm, rather than the good, that they do their daughters.

Today's letter is from a younger girl. It reads:

"Dear Mrs. Bevans:

"You must help me if you can. I'm a 13½ year old girl. I don't exactly know how to express myself, but I hope you understand.

"My friends are my age and always tell me about their dates, They come from respectable families, as I do.

"They have permission from their parents to go to the movies with boys around the age of 16 or 17.

"This is what I really want to know. Do you think my mother is doing the right thing not to let me go with boys? Or should I be allowed to have some nice boys call on me and take me out? Another thing, I'm in first term high school, because I skipped a grade, and I think now that I should be allowed to stay with a crowd of boys and girls in the street till 11 p. m. My mother insists on no later than 10 p. m. Mrs. Bevans, please tell me what you think is right."

In writing an answer to this young girl I said among other things:

"As you have [I hope] gathered from reading my column, I am a mother and have had lots to do with young teen-age children, so I understand how you feel about fun and dates. But I also can get a parent's point of view. And, indeed, the advice I am going to give you actually has been approved by my young friends, just old enough now to look back to 13 and 15 and sense what is wise.

"To begin with, I believe in a friendly comradeship between boys and girls at any age. Also, I think that a girl's home should be open to boys as well as girls who are her friends. Besides that, I think it is all right for girls your age to go to the movies with a young group in the afternoons. However, you should have certain hours and certain places that you are allowed to go to that are determined by your mother.

"For instance, it is decidedly too late to be out in the street until 11 o'clock at night. I see no reason at all for it. It seems to me it would be much better for you to be in each other's houses in the evenings. Ten o'clock is a reasonable hour for you to come in. You must remember, too, that you are going with much older friends, and you must realize that your mother knows more about many things that are for your good than you do."

Women in War Work

By Dorothy Johnson

Young women with office skills who would like to work as civilians for the navy in Washington, D. C., will find an added inducement awaiting them at the American university in the capital.

The navy department, cooperating with the university, has a plan whereby civilian young women, working eight hours a day in navy offices, may live on the campus and attend evening classes of their choice there. The work-study opportunity is one of a group of services and benefits offered by the navy department, including transportation to Washington, adequate housing, and a constructive program of recreation, sports, and cultural activities.

The navy is conducting a nationwide drive, thru civil service commission staffs, to recruit stenographers, typists, and clerks. Only women 17½ years or older, not now employed full time in war-essential jobs at highest skills, are eligible. Applications are being accepted at civil service headquarters in Chicago, in the new postoffice building, for Washington clerical employment and enrollment in next February's courses at the American university.

In three calendar years, with autumn, spring, and summer sessions, a navy civilian worker under the plan may obtain an associate degree in arts or science, the equivalent of a junior college education, or in six years she may receive a baccalaureate degree. While working and studying, she lives on the campus for $800 a year, a sum which covers her room, two meals a day, and tuition. Payment may be made in monthly or semi-monthly instalments, a convenience for the young women working for salaries ranging from $146 to $164 a month, depending on experience and ability.

Thirty-four civilian young women from all over the country already are enrolled in the navy's plan.

Two young women in the draft of 30 new SPAR recruits which left Chicago yesterday for boot training at the Coast Guard training center in Palm Beach, Fla., have worked in transportation as civilians and will request assignment to the Coast Guard transportation division when they have completed basic instruction. They are Martha Tyson and Alice Anlauf.

Miss Tyson, 23, of 8256 Dante av., a graduate of St. Thomas Aquinas High school, was employed as a ticket clerk and assistant accountant by the Illinois Central railroad before enlisting in the SPARs.

Miss Anlauf, 22, of 3225 Fulton st., was a reservations and traffic control clerk for the Braniff Airways in Chicago before going into uniform. She is especially eager to get to Florida, because her brother, Joseph F. Anlauf, is a naval ensign on duty at the amphibious training center at Fort Pierce. SPAR Anlauf was graduated from the Chicago Teachers' college.

Transportation personnel is needed urgently now in the Coast Guard, and women are being counted on to fill the jobs.

LEARN HOW TO MAKE GOOD COFFEE

Results are always delicious if proper procedure is followed

Not all housewives have discovered how easy it is to make good coffee. Compliments are certain if these simple rules are observed.

Measure both coffee and water accurately—2 level tablespoons of coffee to each cup of water. Because individual tastes differ, water may be varied slightly for exact strength desired. But stick to your measurements every time after once determined.

Keep the coffee-maker clean. If the utensil has not been thoroughly washed and regularly "aired," the coffee oils that tend to cling to the inner surfaces may impart an undesirable flavor to the coffee.

Watch the time in brewing coffee. Coffee should be in contact with water for a definite length of time. Once the correct timing has been determined, for the type of utensil used, stick to it.

Obviously, it is important to choose a coffee known for its uniform goodness. There is never any variation in Hills Bros. Coffee. For it is a blend of the finest coffees obtainable, roasted to absolute perfection by "Controlled Roasting," Hills Bros. exclusive process.

Q.—We go around with a group of 16 year old boys. They are polite and considerate on dates but seem to have no respect for our homes. We don't expect them to be little angels, but there is a limit. It only happens when they are in a group.

A.—Any young Joe whose parents have taught him how to fold a napkin and open a door for a lady [and most of them have!] knows that any one else's home is strictly private property. And when he is in that home for a visit such places as the upstairs, kitchen, cookie jar, or icebox are definitely out of bounds. These smooth Jacksons are also expected not to carve their initials on the radio, jump up and down on the davenport, or stand on their heads in the middle of the dining room table. They wouldn't be allowed to do it in their own homes, and you are within your date-bait rights to tell them not to do it in yours. If they won't take a hint from you, a sure cure is to have your mother, dad, or older brother or sister near by to keep things under control.

Q.—I was going with a girl for a year and a half and liked her so much that I gave her a watch as a gift. Shortly after that her father told me I couldn't see her again. She told me that she liked me but the reason her father didn't want me to see her was because I had been an All-State football player and too many other girls liked me. I missed the girl so much that finally I went back and asked her to marry me. She said she would, but I would have to have $400 in the bank because her father would want it that way. I knew I couldn't raise the money, so I asked her for the watch back [it still wasn't paid for]. She answered that if I wanted the watch I would have to give her $40. So I gave her the money and returned the watch to the store from which I had bought it. But, oddly enough, I still love the girl.

A.—You were fortunate to get off so lightly. Unfortunately there are many gals who are strictly wrong characters. That folding money has no part in any boy-girl friendship. Whenever a girl takes money from a fellow, or at least nine times out of ten, she's a vixen with fixin's and a smart Joe will forget about her.

FASHIONS

By Angela

The rustle of taffeta delights the feminine heart and inspires many an admiring glance. Peplum lines on these smart new date dresses are short and snappy and material combinations are effective. They're available in sizes 9 to 15 and moderately priced.

Shimmering and beautiful describe the soft loveliness of the plaid taffeta jacket and black crepe skirt of the dress at left. The blue and copper plaid top has a shirred peplum across the front and is smoothly fitted in back. A small turn-over collar, material buttons, and long slim sleeves are the only decorative details.

As crisp as a new bill and twice as desirable is the black and white checked taffeta two piece dress in center. Black velvet turn-back cuffs, a brief tuxedo collar, and a snowy white ruffled dickey are accents on the slightly flared peplum jacket. The flared skirt has a band of velvet around the bottom and, concealed, are black grosgrain suspenders.

The plaid taffeta and crepe combination at right has shades of black, gold, and red in its lines. The short sleeved, fitted jacket has a simple high, round neck and jet buttons. Bias bands of taffeta run along the sides of a group of unpressed plaits in an otherwise pencil slim skirt.

the special guest. Hostesses will be Mrs. Durand Mower, Mrs. Roy Dickey, Mrs. Alvan Jenkisson, and Mrs. William Scott Bond.

"World Security — The Fight Ahead" will be discussed by Clifton M. Utley at a luncheon meeting of the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations at 12:15 p. m. today in the Grand ballroom of the Palmer House. Among those at the speakers' table will be Mrs. Utley, the Walter T. Fishers, the John Paul Wellings, Mr. and Mrs. G. Corson Ellis, and the Adlai E. Stevensons.

Wedding News.

For her marriage last night to Capt. Harold Albert Stege of the marine corps reserve, Miss Suzanne Judd Barlow wore a veil of lace which had been made by her grandmother and which was worn by her mother, Mrs. John Thomas Barlow, at the time of her wedding. The ceremony took place at 8:30 in Mr. and Mrs. Barlow's home in River Forest, with Miss Barbara Barlow attending her sister as maid of honor and Edward Stege serving as his brother's best man. Capt. Stege, son of Mrs. Edward A. Stege of Oak Park, just has returned from 28 months in the Pacific. He was graduated from Brown university, and his bride received her degree from the University of Michigan.

The marriage of Miss Esther Leech, daughter of Mrs. Paul Nicholas Leech and the late Dr. Leech, to Ensign Paul Kohn of the naval air corps, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Kohn of Hazel Green, Wis., will take place this afternoon in the Winnetka home of the bride's mother. Only relatives will be present at the ceremony, but a larger reception will follow at 4:30. Ensign Kohn and his bride attended the University of Wisconsin. He received his wings Oct. 18 at Corpus Christi, Tex., and will report for further duty at Daytona Beach, Fla., where he and his bride will live.

Thru the Looking Glass

It seems that to most women brilliantines and other varieties of hair dressings are like olives—they either like them a lot or dislike them violently. Of the numerous beauty and grooming aids on the market there is hardly one on which they have such definite opinions. We suspect that those who are opposed to using them are of that mind because at one time or another they experimented with one and didn't like the results. If that is true, we believe that the fault was not so much with the product as with the method of application. These preparations by and large should be applied sparingly—too much might produce a bad reaction.

Used properly and according to directions on the package, there is nothing that can add more beauty and luster to the tresses than a good hair dressing. It helps bring out all the highlights in the hair and particularly with locks that are inclined to dryness it serves to take away the dull, crisp look which detracts so much from their natural loveliness.

The popular "snug" coiffures practically demand the use of a hair dressing to give the tresses that sleek look and keep them orderly. Hair that might otherwise be hard to manage will be much more tractable and can be dressed with far less fussing if it is treated with a dressing.

There are so many good hair dressings to choose from that it shouldn't be difficult to find one that will be just right for individual needs. Some are compounded to help lubricate the locks, others merely to add a sheen, and all of them serve as a grooming aid that really beauty wise women find indispensable. LOUISE DOOLEY.

Grandmothers' Club Tea.

The Grandmothers Club of Chicago will hold its annual card party, bazar, and tea at 2:30 p. m. Sunday, Nov. 12, in the north ballroom of the Stevens hotel. Mrs. Rose Dyvig is in charge of reservations.

Friendly Aid Will Have Luncheon Session Today

Mrs. Alfred Kauffmann will open her home at 4950 Chicago Beach dr. today for a luncheon meeting of the Friendly Aid society. Co-hostesses will be Miss Mary Burris, Mrs. Leban J. Brady, Mrs. Donald Bryant, Mrs. Ainsworth Clark, Mrs. Edward Compere, and Mrs. Roy Davis. The society will sponsor a book talk by the author, Mrs. Kenneth Horan, Monday at the Arts club. This continues a series for the benefit of the society's many charities.

EIGHT DAYS OF BENEFIT RACING TO OPEN TODAY

Sportsman's Gives Net Proceeds.

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN.

The next eight days of racing at Sportsman's Park, the final eight afternoons of the sport in the Chicago area this year, will be run for charity.

Bishop Sheil.

Net proceeds today and tomorrow will go to the National Jockey club Welfare fund, of which the Most Rev. Bernard J. Sheil is chairman, and John L. Keeshin is president. Then, starting Monday, the half mile Cicero track will be the site of the Chicago Tribune Charities' meeting, which will run six days, concluding thru Saturday, Nov. 11.

Goes All Out for Charity.

Sportsman's Park, under the direction of President Keeshin, has taken a big part in the raising of funds for welfare and service men's needs since the outbreak of the war and its contribution this year is expected to exceed all its previous efforts. In 1943 the track opened the season with a week of charity racing sponsored by The Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., then closed the year with another week of its own. The two meetings raised $268,192.02 for charitable organizations.

Sportsman's Park also participated in this summer's charity meeting sponsored by THE TRIBUNE, for which each of the five Chicago tracks gave up one of their allotted dates. The meeting, of five days' duration, was run off at Washington Park under the direction of Benjamin F. Lindheimer, general manager of both Arlington and Washington Parks, and $400,800.04 was raised.

Plan Children's Clubhouse.

Besides Bishop Sheil and Keeshin, Charles W. Bidwill, Joseph E. Donovan, and Rabbi Ephraim Epstein are members of the board of the National Jockey club Welfare fund.

The organization's plan is to build one of the finest club houses in the city for the use of the children in the back of the yards district. The idea was Keeshin's and will be handled thru the C. Y. O. Back of the Yards council.

Other organizations which will benefit from the racing today and tomorrow are the Shriners' Hospitals for Crippled Children, Passavant hospital, and the Associated Talmud Torah.

Today's program is topped by the Socony Purse, an $1,800 allowance race at a mile and one-eighth, while tomorrow's attraction will be the longest race of the Chicago season. It is called the National Jockey club handicap, a two mile and 70 yard event for a purse of $2,500. In this race, for older horses, the field must pass the judges' stand five times. A sprint handicap for $3,000 also is on the program.

Attendance was 9,233. The crowd wagered $669,072.

Unholy Man.

When savage beasts grew tame in ancient Rome
And would not harm the body of a saint,
The wily rulers summoned from his home
A swordsman who would slay without restraint;
So sinful man has ever been more fierce
Than any jungle beast the Lord has made—
"I'll sacrifice a million men to pierce
The foe's defense," said Hitler to his aide.

Sin is the cause of war and hate and greed,
It leaves man of all reason destitute,
And when from moral safeguards he is freed
He sinks a little lower than the brute;
Only such rulers as have faith in God
Substitute love and reason for the rod.

The Hopeful Heart.

Some folks opine that it will rain
And others fear 'twill snow.

Beneficence holds sway.

Old Sol dispenses without charge
His rays of warmth and light,
And overhead the gleaming stars
Are twinkling in the night.
Let's not forget each glad surprise
When hearts just upward bounced
With happiness that happened in Entirely unannounced.

Tho each must share the fellowship
Of trial and of pain,
Within the hopeful heart is strength
And courage to sustain.
Then is it ever logical
To look ahead with dread,
Since life is sweet and we should be

Dutch Leonard Offered Bribe, Say N.Y. Papers

New York, Nov. 2 (AP).—Dutch Leonard of the Washington Senators turned down a bribe of "several thousand dollars" to throw the final game of the season to the Detroit Tigers, according to two New York newspapers.

Leonard was reported to have been called on the phone at his Detroit hotel room early in the morning of Oct. 1, the final day of the season, and offered a chance to make several thousand dollars by "getting himself knocked out of the game early," the Herald-Tribune said in a copyrighted story.

The Washington ace was said to have hung up without answering. He confided in Coach Clyde Milan, who was quoted as saying, "We have complete confidence in you. That is why you are pitching the game. You are bound to win it. There is nothing to worry about."

Leonard went out and set down the Tigers with a four hitter while St. Louis was defeating the New York Yankees to break a first place tie and win the American league pennant.

MICHIGAN-PENN CONTEST WILL DRAW 50,000

Quakers Top Nation in Home Crowds.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 2.—Michigan is expected to play the University of Pennsylvania football team before 50,000 in Franklin field here Saturday. If the game draws that many, the average Franklin field attendance, highest in the land this season, will not suffer.

In the first four games of its all-home 1944 schedule Penn has performed before 193,000, an average of 48,250, which is indeed sweet picking when it is considered that Duke, Dartmouth, and William and Mary, weak this year, were the first three foes, and Navy, which drew 73,000 last Saturday, came here limping from a defeat at the hands of Georgia Tech.

They'll Miss Two Stars.

The Michigan turnout, if realized, will be something of a tribute to the Wolverines, for the fans here appear to be something less than steaming hot over Penn after the 26 to 0 Navy victory, Penn's first defeat. No effort has been made to oversell Michigan as being any more than a runner-up in Big Nine competition, however. All smoke-up pieces, if such they may be called, point out that Michigan, too, has been trimmed once, by Indiana. There is some emphasis, tho, on the fact that the Wolverines gave Purdue a rather severe shellacking last Saturday.

It is possible to find out here that Bob Wiese and Bob Nussbaumer, Big Nine touchdown and rushing leaders as of this minute, played their last game for Michigan last Saturday. This news, however, has not startled Philadelphians too much, the odds on Michigan to win being 13 to 5. Some of the professional, or chronic, score guessers allow that Michigan, without Wiese and Nussbaumer, still will be good enough to beat Penn by three touchdowns.

Freshman Will Lead Team.

The game Saturday will be the 19th meeting of Michigan and Penn in a series which began 45 years ago, the latest interruption being between 1940 and now. The Wolverines were here last in 1936. They won in 1937, 1938, 1939, and 1940.

George Savitsky, 252 pound tackle, will be the Penn captain Saturday. It will be the first time in its 68 year football history that a University of Pennsylvania team has been captained by a freshman.

It has been announced that the game will be played under 1943 rules. The eastern experimental code for 1944 has not coincided with the rules governing other sections, or even all teams in the east. Coaches George Munger of Penn and Fritz Crisler of Michigan even decided to toss out all "gentlemen's agreements," devices that have been a strain in some sections this year.

WOLVERINES MUST HUSTLE.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 2 [Special].—Michigan's football team took things easy in today's practice session in preparation for a weekend endurance test which includes making a 1,300 mile round trip within the 48 hour limit imposed by many regulations for the Pennsylvania game in Philadelphia Saturday afternoon. The Wolverines will entrain from Detroit tomorrow night, arrive in Philadelphia Saturday morning, and leave for home shortly after the game.

$50 FINE LEVIED ON CARD-PITT TACKLE DUGGAN

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 2 (AP).—Gilford Duggan, Card-Pitt tackle, today was notified by Elmer Layden, National Football league commissioner, that he has been fined $50 for fighting in the Redskin game in Washington last Sunday.

Duggan and Jim North, Washington tackle, were chased by Referee Carl Rebele in the first half of the game which Washington won, 42 to 20. Soon afterward, Ends Tony Bova of the Card-Pitts and Joe Aguirre of Washington also were sent to the showers.

Affirming a statement he made earlier, Art Rooney, co-owner of the Card-Pitts, repeated that he will pay any fines assessed as a result of fighting in the game. Rooney said he is prepared to offer a rules amendment at the next National league meeting which would take away the power of officials to banish players from games for fighting.

BIG FIGURES IN PRO FOOTBALL FEATURE

TED LEWON'S 695 STILL LEADS IN PIN QUALIFIER

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The Chicago battle for places in the fourth annual All-Star bowling tournament waxed warmer yesterday as the city's leading tenpin marksmen fired at the top eight places in each of the five local centers aiming at the big show to be conducted by the Bowling Proprietors' Association of America and Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., in the Auditorium Service Men's center from Dec. 2 thru 10.

Coin Flip May Settle Prep Football Tie

A flip of a coin will determine the champion in the south section of the City league football race should Parker and Fenger High schools remain tied in the standings at the end of their league race tomorrow, it was decided yesterday at a joint meeting of the board of athletic control and the principals' committee on athletics of the board of education.

The meeting was called after the board of control received a letter from J. Trimble Boyd, principal of Fenger High school, asking the board to reconsider the ruling which provides for the settlement of ties by tossing a coin.

According to August Pritzlaff, secretary of the board of control, the meeting also was prompted because of a letter from Joseph Shine, Parker principal, who asked what action he should take in regard to the controversy.

Bears Have Other Large Problems Besides Packers

BY EDWARD PRELL.

Gary Famiglietti will start at full back and Al Babartsky at right tackle for the Bears Sunday against the Green Bay Packers in Wrigley field. This is going to be good, or bad, depending on the mood of these two giant fellows.

Alternately during Gary's seven year career on the north side the coaches have cussed and praised him. They've been on the verge of giving up on him a dozen times. Perhaps the large Latin can detect this, because that is when he does an about face and then there isn't a better full back in the National Football league.

Or Four Leaf Clovers?

During practice, Gary, head down, paces the football field much like a father-to-be in a hospital maternity ward. In dirty gray sweat pants and a once cream colored sweat shirt that reaches half way to his knees, he is quite a sight. Some one once asked Assistant Coach Carl Brumbaugh about Gary's strange meanderings. "I've got it all figured out," answered Carl, "the guy's looking for quarters!"

Famiglietti wasn't looking for quarters last Sunday when he went berserk against the Cleveland Rams for 92 yards in 18 punches. It was this performance which earned him a starting job against the Packers. But the coaches will have their fingers crossed until Gary runs for the first time. If he takes a good yardage bite on that first thrust it will be a good sign that Gary will keep on running the rest of the game.

Babartsky has been the problem child of the Bears' line. Last year the Chicago Cardinals all but chased the 230 pounder out of camp. The Bears, hearing that Al was in Coach Phil Handler's doghouse, and being very short in the tackle department, made a rapid deal.

The Bears' coaches practically smirked after getting possession of Al, whose chief claim to gridiron fame stems from being one of Fordham's Seven Blocks of Granite, which is what the Rams' line of several seasons ago was called.

Loses Job, Then Regains It.

Changing uniforms had little effect on Al, for whom football seemed just too much work. On top of it, he was moody. At the Indiana training camp this fall, a great change was noted in his personality. He was friendly and became so popular that he was elected captain of the fat men's table. He started the season in his best physical shape as a pro.

In the early National league games Al gradually lost the ground he had gained and lost his battle with Al Hoptowit for the No. 1 right tackle job. He woke up in the 21 to 21 battle with the Lions and was even better Sunday against the Rams.

Full House to See Seahawks Battle U. of Tulsa Tomorrow

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Tulsa, Okla., Nov. 2.—Oklahoma football fans will buy standing room Saturday to see the Golden Hurricane of the University of Tulsa meet the Iowa Pre-Flight school eleven. All seats have been sold, so arrangements were made today to admit standees, an unusual procedure in intercollegiate football.

Henry Frnka.

Twenty thousand thus will watch what long has been scheduled as the climactic game of the season and nearly twice that number would attend, university authorities agree, if they could be accommodated. Capacity crowds have not been unusual since Henry Frnka took command of the Hurricane four years ago, but this is the first time all seats have been sold days in advance. Moreover, last week's unexpected loss to Oklahoma A. & M., 46 to 40, a scoring duel almost without precedent, has not dulled the interest in Saturday's engagement.

Defeat May Boost Morale.

The Aggies surprised a complacent Tulsa squad which had not been defeated in regular season competition since 1941. The defeat may serve as inspiration for the battle with the Seahawks, who have mastered all opponents this year since an opening day loss to Michigan, 12 to 7. Certainly Tulsa is afforded an opportunity to regain its position among the nation's best 10 teams.

Until last week's defeat Tulsa had a record to match last season's perfect campaign that led to a second consecutive appearance in the Sugar bowl.

Glenn Is Quite a Boy.

The man responsible for Tulsa's meteoric rise in football is Frnka, whose personal success as a college coach, after apprenticeship in Texas high schools and as an assistant at Vanderbilt university, is indicated by the number of stars he has developed. Frnka found a tall, gangling player on his 1941 squad and in two seasons that youngster, Glenn Dobbs, reached stardom.

Dobbs contributed to the college All-Stars' victory in 1943 over Washington and this year, when he was named the most valuable All-Star in the game with the Chicago Bears, Dobbs established an all-time record for the series with an 85 yard kick.

BRANDT, FORMER N. L. PITCHER, IS KILLED IN CRASH

Spokane, Wash., Nov. 2 (AP).—Ed [Lefty] Brandt, 39, who once pitched for the Pittsburgh Pirates and the Boston Braves, was killed last night in an automobile accident. Brandt had been operating a tavern at Clayton, but maintained his home here.

Hugh Evans, deputy prosecutor, said an army air force lieutenant, holder of the air medal and distinguished flying cross, was the driver of the car which struck Brandt.

The police report said Brandt's car was involved in a minor accident with another machine and that the drivers were talking in the street when the third machine hit the former baseball player. Brandt, his skull and legs fractured and his lungs punctured by broken ribs, died a short time later.

BUCKEYES BACK IN STRIDE FOR BIG NINE BATTLE

Victor Will Become Title Favorite.

Columbus, O., Nov. 2 [Special].—Ticket sales for the Ohio State-Indiana football game here Saturday have been so heavy in the last few days that officials today set the anticipated attendance at 60,000.

If this figure is reached it will mark a new high in the attendance in the 28 game series between the two Big Nine schools.

In preparation for what the Ohio State coaching staff considers one of the toughest games of the season the Buckeyes had their most satisfactory drill since the week before the Great Lakes game. A major portion of the session again was devoted to defense.

"The team had more zip today than it had shown for a week," Coach Carroll Widdoes said after the practice. "The boys realize they have a tough game to play."

Appleby May Not Play.

Widdoes said that he hopes to start the regular eleven, altho Capt. Gordon Appleby, center, still is a question mark because of an ailing knee. Bill Willis is certain to be at tackle and Chuck Renner is available for center in case Appleby cannot play.

The back field will have Tom Keane at quarter, Dick Flanagan and Les Horvath at the halves, and Ollie Cline at full back. Bob Brugge may replace Horvath at right half, with the latter moving to quarter.

The Indiana squad will arrive tomorrow night, too late to work out on the Ohio field.

WILDCATS MINUS GENE JUSTAK FOR MINNESOTA FRAY

Freshman Guard Stricken by Attack of Flu.

Northwestern's football team, already weakened by the loss of more than a dozen players thru navy transfers, was dealt another blow yesterday by the loss of Gene Justak, star freshman guard, who will be unable to play against Minnesota at Minneapolis tomorrow because of illness. The Whiting, Ind., youngster is confined to the university infirmary with an attack of the flu.

Justak's loss leaves the Wildcats with only one experienced right guard, Vernon Lightfoot, who has started most of the games this fall. The only other player at this position is Frank Jagels who has seen but limited action. Hubert Hilston, first string center, is recovering from the flu and may see only brief service against the Gophers.

Few Changes in Lineup.

Despite the loss of a number of players, the Wildcats' starting lineup for tomorrow will be much the same as the one that opened against Indiana two weeks ago. Back field starters will be Johnny Yungwirth and Hank Altepeter, half backs; Bob Funderburg, full back, and Red Clawson, quarter back. The line will consist of Duane Sickels and Max Morris, ends; John Kroeger and Steve Bennett, tackles; Vernon Lightfoot and Ray Justak, guards, and Jim O'Malley, center.

The Wildcat varsity, bolstered by four recruits from the B team, will depart for Minneapolis at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Stress Passing Attack.

Forward passing was stressed in yesterday's practice. Johnny Yungwirth and Ben Schadler, who have handled most of the passing chores for the Wildcats this season, continued to do most of the passing yesterday. Others who took part in the aerial drills were Bruce Bairstow, Hap Murphy, and Frank Clawson.

The players who will make up the traveling squad are:

GOPHERS EXPECT PASSES.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 2 [Special].—Defense against passes which Northwestern is expected to use against Minnesota here Saturday was the chief accomplishment of the Gophers in today's drill for the football contest which is expected to attract nearly 50,000.

An injury to Red Williams, the Gophers' star half back, proved to be of a minor nature and will not prevent him from facing the Wildcats.

PROF. FRENCH, 'FATHER OF OHIO STADIUM,' DIES

Columbus, O., Nov. 2 [Special].—Prof. Thomas Ewing French, 72, member of the engineering faculty at Ohio State university for more than 40 years, and the Buckeyes' Western conference faculty representative from 1912 until 1942, died here today.

Known as the "father of the Ohio stadium," he also was chairman of the eligibility committee and the N. C. A. C. committee to select rules. For years he had been a member and chairman of the Ohio state athletic board.

Badger Squad of 36 to Make Purdue Trip

Madison, Wis., Nov. 2 [Special].—Coach Harry Stuhldreher today named 36 University of Wisconsin football players to make the trip for Saturday's game at Purdue. According to the team physician, Cody stands little chance of seeing any action until the Northwestern game a week from Saturday, and may not return to uniform until the Navy game in Baltimore on Nov. 18.

Dimancheff, sparkplug of the Boilermaker attack, continued to fill in at full back in a rebuilt back field that had Stormont [Stormy] Pfohl and Bill Canfield at the halves and Ray Schultz holding his old position at quarter back.

FLY RESIGNS AFTER STORMY CAREER IN FCC

Plans Law Practice in New York.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 2.—The resignation of Chairman James L. Fly of the federal communications commission, about whose head a congressional storm of controversy has raged for two years, was announced today. It is effective Nov. 15.

James L. Fly.

President Roosevelt is expected to appoint Commissioner Clifford J. Durr, an ardent New Dealer, to the post. Paul A. Porter, publicity director of the Democratic national committee, also has been mentioned for the job.

Fly's exit from the New Deal had been expected since last July. A deal then was reported in which the chairman would be ousted to appease congressional investigators. Premature publicity halted this arrangement and hearings went ahead with a hint that impeachment proceedings against Fly were under consideration.

No White House Letters.

Fly's announcement thru the FCC information division stated that he was leaving to enter the practice of law with offices in New York.

Resignations of prominent administration figures usually are announced by the White House with publication of letters between the official and the President containing expressions of mutual regard. A White House spokesman late today said he had no knowledge of Fly's letter of resignation.

In addition to the practice of law, Fly is expected to join the business enterprises of William Benton, founder of the Benton & Bowles advertising agency and chairman of the board of Encyclopedia Britannica, Inc.

Benton said recently he had offered Fly a place with a new "subscription radio" service proposed by Joseph L. Weiner of New York, former director of civilian supply for the war production board.

Ends 15 Year Career.

Listeners to this service would pay 5 cents a day to listen to programs devoid of advertising. Each subscriber would be given a patented device enabling him to tune in the service.

Fly leaves the government after a 15 year career. He has been special assistant attorney general, head of the legal department of the Tennesse Valley authority, chairman of the FCC since 1939, and head of the board of war communications since 1940. He is 46 years old and a Texan.

As FCC chief, Fly frequently was embroiled in quarrels with radio broadcasting organizations, other members of the FCC, members of congress, and army and navy officials. He was assailed in congress as one of the most dictatorial of burocrats.

Terror Methods Charged.

A special house investigation of the FCC began in the summer of 1943. Numerous volumes of evidence have been printed in connection with charges that the agency dominated the radio industry by terroristic methods, intruded upon the military and naval fields of intelligence, indulged in favoritism in the issuance of licenses, employed personnel with communistic leanings, and exceeded its authority in many ways. The hearings are expected to be resumed after the election.

Rep. Cox [D., Ga], the first chairman of the investigating committee, who accused Fly of "Gestapo methods," resigned under pressure and the committee's chief counsel, Eugene L. Garey, also resigned after hearings had been suspended concerning the sale of a New York radio station under pressure alleged to have originated in the White House.

Fly's last appearance before the committee in September involved his alleged pressure upon a Florida radio station owner to sell his property at a bargain price to a golf and bridge playing companion of Fly. He vigorously denied this.

Fleet Has Vast Job After War, OWI Asserts

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 2.—For at least six months after the defeat of Japan and perhaps for as long as three years, most of the United States merchant fleet will continue to be engaged in the returning of troops, movement of supplies and equipment, and foreign rehabilitation activities, the office of war information said today in surveying the fleet's war service and peace time outlook.

The war shipping administration was quoted as predicting that the war against Japan "may require three times the shipping involved in the European war."

Approximately 5 million deadweight tons of American merchant shipping, an amount equal to the pre-war German merchant fleet, is engaged in short run shuttle service. One of the principal runs is the English channel, the OWI disclosed.

Vast Pacific Distances.

Observing that it is nearly 7,000 miles from the Golden Gate to the Philippines and 800 more to the China coast, against 3,000 miles from New York to France, the report added:

"As the war veers to the Pacific, greater distances and the many new ports and beachheads to be supplied will step up the number of ships required for shuttle runs alone."

The OWI said that east coast ports of embarkation will not be dismantled when the European war ends, but will be used along with west coast and gulf ports for the Japanese war.

More Relief Programs.

In addition, there is also the prospect that more foreign relief programs may begin soon in some liberated territories, it was reported.

Eventually, after hostilities have ceased, American merchant ships will face the tasks of bringing home about 6 million or more American troops, supplying American military personnel remaining overseas, and transporting cargoes for relief and reconstruction in occupied and devastated areas, the OWI said.

American passenger ships already have moved more than 4½ million of the 6 million American personnel overseas, compared with 987,736 soldiers transported to France in the last war, the report said.

OPA DENOUNCES INCREASED FARE TO CURB TRAVEL

Replying to office of defense transportation contentions that removal of the 10 per cent emergency increase would stimulate travel on already overloaded carriers, Max Swiren, OPA special counsel, told the interstate commerce commission that to attempt to restrict travel in such manner is "un-American." He said that with the 10 per cent increase removed the carriers still would be in a better financial position from passenger travel than ever before.

LARGE OIL EARNINGS INCREASE AVERAGE OF CORPORATION PROFITS

New York, Nov. 2 (AP).—Large increases in oil company earnings helped lift the average corporation profit for the first nine months of the year 5.9 per cent above a year ago, the National City bank said today in a survey of 300 companies.

Outside the petroleum group, net incomes for the period were only 2 per cent higher. The 13 oil companies made an average gain of 27 per cent. The profit increase of 5.9 per cent compared with an 11 per cent rise in sales.

The bank reported 140 companies gained in net income against 160 decreases. The aggregate profit for the 300 was 872 million dollars, against 824 million in the 1943 period. Current earnings, however, were subject to renegotiation, as well as year-end adjustments and reserves. For the 1944 period the annual rate of return on net worth was 8.8 per cent, against 8.6 per cent a year ago.

People and Events

Two changes in the executive staff of Consumers company, by which Robert C. Fenner, president, becomes chairman of the board and William J. Kelly becomes president, were voted by directors yesterday, Fenner announced. They will become effective Dec. 1. Kelly will remain also as president of Kelly Steel works.

William J. Kelly.

C. M. Wynns, president of the Merchants Despatch Transportation corporation and the Northern Refrigerator Lines, Chicago, subsidiaries of the New York Central system, announced the appointment of Kenton C. Underwood as executive vice president, Floyd W. Crow as vice president and general manager, Frank C. Mohr as vice president, and Clift R. Taylor, auditor.

James A. Stewart, vice president, formerly in charge of packers' can manufacture of American Can company, has been assigned to head a new research and development department.

William F. B. Henderson, general manager of the plumbing ware division and director of service for the Briggs Manufacturing company, has been elected vice president and general manager of Clearing Machine corporation, Rudolph Glasner, Clearing president, announced.

The Institute of Gas Technology has appointed George D. Creelman administrative assistant to the director.

General Stock List Gains, but Aircrafts Slip

New York, Nov. 2 (AP).—Stock prices generally recovered today, altho a few recently strong aircrafts succumbed to profit cashing and investment conservatism remained a brake on the advance.

Rails, motors, and scattered blue chips, ahead from the start, made the best showing. Steels, indifferent most of the day, came back in the final half hour for a modest rise. Gains of fractions to about 2 points predominated at the close. A few low priced utilities were lively and lifted volume, altho trade often was slow.

The Associated Press 60 stock average was up 0.4 to 55.3. The market lacked breadth, only 826 issues registering.

Du Pont advanced 2½. Commonwealth and Southern, most active issue, came out in blocks running to 20,000 shares, and finished up 1/16 point at 15/16. Douglas Aircraft dropped a point and Grumman ⅞.

BOND ADVANCE HALTED.

New York, Nov. 2 (AP).—The bond market failed to extend yesterday's advance and settled back into a narrow and mildly irregular position today.

Selected rails and industrials remained on the buying list, however, and investment interest was keener in the higher priced division, coincident with the sharp drop in new security offerings from the record-breaking volume of last month.

PRICES UP IN CHICAGO.

Price gains predominated yesterday as trade fell to 26,000 shares on the Chicago Stock exchange. Among active issues were Consolidated Biscuit, 9½, up ½ to its second consecutive new 1944 peak; General Finance, General Electric, and La Salle Extension, each up ¼, and Chicago corporation common, unchanged.

Army Objects to Small Plant Reconversion

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 2.—Maury Maverick, chairman of the Smaller War Plants corporation, said today that the army had objected to his proposal to permit small plants to resume civilian production immediately. Without naming the sources of opposition, Maverick told a press conference he believed the army had been "over cautious" at times in its attitude toward reconversion of industry.

Maverick said the war man power commission supports his proposal, but that the stiff German resistance had resulted in a "general tightening of attitude toward man power" by the army. He said he believed his plan could be put in effect without interfering with war production.

"It's in the argumentative stage, and I can't predict the outcome," he commented.

What Proposal Would Permit.

Under Maverick's program, west coast plants with 50 or fewer employes and plants in other parts of the country employing 100 or fewer would be permitted to produce civilian goods if they had no war contracts and could not obtain any. These plants would not be permitted to increase their labor forces.

In making public the 14th bimonthly report of the SWPC, which he submitted to Chairman Krug of the war production board, Maverick said small business will not suffer from competition with big industrial companies if sufficient raw materials were available after Germany's defeat. However, if materials were scarce, he said, SWPC proposed to intervene and attempt to obtain a fair division of what is required for reconversion to civilian production.

Studies Financing Problems.

Maverick announced that SWPC was studying the problem of financing small business, with the purpose of recommending legislation to enable small firms to obtain funds more easily. He also said he was "inclined" toward measures to free new small businesses of excess profit and normal income taxes.

The report showed that from November, 1943, thru September, 1944, the SWPC helped small plants obtain 30,167 prime contracts, valued at $2,810,600,000, and 30,375 subcontracts for 640 million dollars.

WIEBOLDT SALES SET PEAK, BUT PROFIT DECLINES

Wieboldt Stores, Inc., operator of a group of department stores in Chicago and suburbs, had reduced net income in its fiscal year ended July 29 despite record sales and operating profits, Werner A. Wieboldt, chairman, told stockholders in his annual report yesterday.

Sales rose 1.72 per cent to $37,118,791 from $36,490,327 a year earlier, and were approximately 50 per cent higher than in the year ended Jan. 27, 1940, he said. Food sales declined.

Altho a peak operating profit of $2,264,138 was shown, profit before taxes was $15,483 below the 1942-'43 period, as a result of a nonrecurring deduction of $118,105 for premium and unamortized expense incidental to refinancing Wieboldt's first mortgage. Taxes on income increased $131,449, he said.

Net income in the period was $800,331, equal to $2.10 a share, and included a net credit of $44,376 resulting from adjustment of prior year provisions for depreciation. Year ago profit was $902,887, or $2.48 a share.

NEW NATIONAL BUS LINE PLAN IS PROGRESSING

All-American Will Be System's Key.

Progress has been made on plans to establish a new coast to coast transcontinental bus system to offer "real competition" to the Greyhound Lines after the war, it was disclosed yesterday. Glore, Forgan & Co. and Kebbon, McCormick & Co., Chicago investment houses, announced that they had formed a syndicate to purchase All American Bus Lines, Inc., and planned to make it the key unit in a nation-wide bus system.

The syndicate is said to be composed of individuals closely identified with the bus transportation industry and others hoping to benefit from an expected large expansion in bus operations after the war.

Has Chicago to Pacific Route.

All American at present operates thru Chicago, St. Louis, Mo., and the southwest to the Pacific coast. It owns Northern Trails, which operates from Chicago to New York via Toledo and Cleveland, O., and Pittsburgh, Pa.

Northern Trails holds an option, subject to interstate commerce commission approval, to purchase all of the stock of Eastern Trails. Eastern's buses operate from New York thru Philadelphia and Baltimore, Md., and connect with Northern Trails at Emmitsburg, Md.

Plans of the syndicate are said to contemplate putting widely experienced bus operators in charge of the merged lines if the deal goes thru and to purchase modern equipment to meet the challenge of Greyhound's new bus designs. The various companies to be absorbed in the unit would retain their corporate identities.

Rails May Link with Line.

It is held likely that some bus lines operated by the western railroads as a part of National Trailways system—a loosely tied cooperative operation of some 48 companies—may become a part of the All American organization. The Burlington railroad disclosed in a recent financial statement in connection with a refunding corporation that it may sell 51 per cent of the Burlington Transportation company, which it owns outright, for $1,500,000.

Reports in transportation circles have indicated that both the Burlington and Santa Fe bus system may become part of the enterprise.

Bus lines of western railroads have had successful and efficient bus operations westward from Chicago, but have had to turn over business destined for points east of Chicago to Greyhound Lines.

All American service in the past was described as low cost transportation not sufficiently attractive to draw customers from the western roads' lines.

Furniture Stock Value High; Better Quality Is Predicted

Despite shortages of some furniture items, the dollar inventory of most stores is 25 to 50 per cent larger than in 1941 and enough merchandise has been available for a 25 to 100 per cent dollar increase in sales during the last two years, Harold G. Davis, management and merchandising counsel, told a midwest conference of the National Retail Furniture association in the Knickerbocker hotel yesterday.

Discussing the outlook for merchandise available in the next four months, Davis said most retailers have and can get bedroom suites, chairs, desks, tables, felt base, mattresses, box springs, Hollywood beds, some 18th century type dining room furniture, pictures, mirrors, and juvenile furniture. Some retailers have dinette suites, modern dining room suites, and lamps. Some have fair to good stocks of floor coverings, and a few can get studio couches.

Better Quality Expected.

An improvement in quality can be expected in the next few months from manufacturers, he asserted. This merchandise will appear in the stores in six months to a year.

Innerspring mattresses are being made and many more will be available in a few months, Davis said. Living room suites will continue scarce. Some steel summer furniture, steel utility cabinets and chromium steel breakfast sets will be on the market soon.

Frederick M. Mitchell, chief of the electric goods branch of the war production board, said it is unlikely that manufacture of electric refrigerators will be resumed until after victory in Europe, altho it has been authorized as soon as man power, materials, components and facilities can be made available without interference with war production. The industry will need three to six months after these are available to get into production, he said.

Range Goal May Not Be Met.

Production of 88,000 electric ranges authorized this year may not be completed, Mitchell said. In the first nine months of the year 39,700 were manufactured and the remaining 48,300 will be scheduled "if possible" for production between now and Dec. 31.

Present stocks of fabricated parts for washing machines available for assembly are such that in the future materials must be allocated before washers can be produced, Mitchell reported. He predicted production will be resumed in a manner similar to refrigerators.

Only 80,000 electric irons were manufactured between authorization on May 14 and Oct. 1, because of raw material delays, but 1,800,000 additional irons are expected to be available by next year, he told the retailers.

Vacuum Cleaners Nearer.

Mitchell predicted that vacuum cleaners will be available for civilian use before refrigerators or washing machines, altho not considered as essential, because cleaner manufacturers do not require so many parts from outside sources.

Resumption of sewing machine manufacture is impossible to predict, he said, because all manufacturers are in No. 1 labor areas and are engaged in the production of essential ordnance equipment.

$5 DIVIDENDS VOTED ON C. & N. W. COMMON, PREFERRED STOCKS

Directors of the Chicago and North Western railway yesterday declared an initial dividend of $5 on the company's new common stock. They also declared a $5 dividend on the preferred stock, covering 1944 requirements, and authorized a 5 million dollar payment on the road's debt to the Reconstruction Finance corporation, reducing that balance to approximately 6¼ million.

Last July directors declared a dividend of $15 on the preferred, covering 1941, 1942, and 1943. The preceding common payment by North Western was in 1931, when a total of $2 was paid before the road went thru a reorganization.

The $5 on common will be payable from earned surplus accumulated since Jan. 31, 1939, the effective date of the reorganization.

ASSAILS BRITISH PLAN FOR PEACE RULE OF COCOA

Mandeville Asks State Department Action.

Plans of the British government to continue war time purchase and price controls over the West African cocoa crops after the war would effect a "permanent elimination of private marketing channels in the handling of this international commodity," Maurice Mandeville, president of the National Association of Commodity Exchanges and Allied Trades, Inc., warned yesterday.

Such plans were outlined in a British white paper submitted by the secretary of state for the colonies to parliament. They would ultimately react to the disadvantages of both consuming and producing countries, Mandeville said.

Asks U. S. Intervention.

He urged immediate intervention by the United States state department and those agencies responsible for guarding the nation's interests in international commerce after the war, notably the foreign economic administration.

"It is particularly urgent to combat such trends," he said. "If continued government controls of this type are accepted after the war for one commodity, the philosophy behind such experiments is bound to spread to other fields."

Great Britain purchased the entire West African cocoa crops and marketed them at fixed prices in the 1939-'40 season. This was meant only as an emergency measure. It was believed private trade channels could not handle these crops because of shipping difficulties, he explained.

Avoid Speculative Effect.

Extension of these controls, however, is being forwarded for an entirely different reason. The British white paper said the direct link between the producers' price and world market prices is to be broken because its existence in the past has subjected local purchase prices in the producing areas to every vagary of speculation on world markets, he said.

Such a system of complete government purchase and centralized distribution of the entire cocoa crop will encourage accumulated excess stocks which will lead to the breakdown of the system, he said. Moreover, the existence of well functioning futures markets under a system of free world prices has proved sufficiently in the past that the price risks involved in the normal handling of the world cocoa crops can largely be eliminated.

6 CHICAGO AREA FIRMS TO START BIG SHELL LINES

The opening within the next two months of new 155 mm. shell production lines by six companies will triple the current production rate in the Chicago ordnance district within four months, Col. John Slezak, district chief, announced yesterday.

The lines will be opened by Florence Stove company, Kankakee; Mueller company, Decatur, Ill.; Giddings and Lewis Machine Tool company, Fond du Lac, Wis.; Minneapolis-Moline Power Implement company, Minneapolis; National Can company, New Brighton, Minn., and W. F. and John Barnes company, Rockford.

Shells for 4.5 inch guns and 8 inch howitzers are being produced in the ordnance district for the first time by Altorfer Brothers company, Peoria, and Batavia Metal Products, Inc., Batavia, Ill., respectively, Col. Slezak said. He disclosed that International Harvester company early next year will open the country's largest production line for 105 mm. howitzer shells in the old Twin Cities ordnance plant in New Brighton, Minn.

NEHI CORPORATION.

Nehi's sales have increased each year since 1932, the growth becoming most marked after the introduction of a new cola drink by the company in 1935. The 1943 volume was $9,657,000, compared with $1,207,691 in 1935. The company's flavors and syrups for the production of carbonated beverages under its trade names, are sold in concentrated form to franchised bottlers thruout the United States and in Puerto Rico and the Hawaiian Islands.

Net income rose from $91,270 in 1933 to $1,075,217 in 1939, but increased taxes have had a restrictive effect so far as subsequent growth is concerned. On the 1,030,000 common shares now outstanding, earnings per share were: 1943, 97 cents; 1942, 94 cents; 1941, 97 cents; 1940, 89 cents; 1939, 96 cents. In the first half of 1934 the profit was 34 cents, against 38 cents a year ago.

Common dividends this year have totaled 50 cents a share, same as in 1943.

The $5.25 cumulative first preferred stock, which is being gradually retired thru a sinking fund, recently amounted to 10,569 shares. There is no funded debt. Net working capital at the close of last year was $1,595,856.

CAB AIDS URGE DELAY IN EXPORT AIR LINES RULING

Washington, D. C., Nov. 2 (AP).—The civil aeronautics board received a recommendation from two of its examiners today that further consideration of American Airlines' application to obtain control of American Export Airlines be deferred.

The examiners said American Airlines' proposal to acquire 51.4 per cent of American Export's stock for 3 million dollars was "inconsistent with the public interest" in view of Export's temporary license to operate to Ireland and Portugal. They suggested that nothing more be done about it until it is determined whether Export will have a temporary or a permanent license.

American Export Steamship company, organizer of American Export Airlines, has been directed by CAB to divest itself of Export Airlines control under a ruling that no surface carrier may control an air carrier except under certain conditions.

Railroad Car Loadings Rise 1.2 Per Cent in Week

Washington, D. C., Nov. 2 (AP).—The Association of American Railroads reported today that 916,446 cars of revenue freight were loaded during the week ended Oct. 28. The total was 1.2 per cent above the preceding week and 3.7 per cent above a year ago.

Wholesale Price Index Rises Slightly in Week

Washington, D. C., Nov. 2 (AP).—Wholesale prices increased 0.1 per cent in the bureau of labor statistics index during the last week of October, the BLS reported today.

RIVER SYSTEM HELD PAID FOR BY AID TO WAR

transportation system of railways, waterways, highways, airways, and pipelines has been a marvel of smoothly coördinated operation in World War II. with each service supplementing the others.

Flood Losses Reduced.

He told how the systems of flood control thruout the Mississippi basin help Chicago business by averting property damage. The annual average property loss in the area is 50 million dollars, not including about 100 million annually in rich top soil swept from farms, he said. The 1937 Ohio flood did 500 million property damage. All these floods cause direct losses of business to Chicago wholesale and other companies, he said.

Commenting on the Tennessee Valley authority, he said that that agency in its 1943 report showed a charge of 40 million for flood control, altho army engineers reported the annual average flood loss in the area is only about 1 million dollars.

Makes Power Cost Look Low.

He indicated that the high charges for flood control have enabled the TVA to make a good showing on the cost of electric power produced by its hydro-electric plants. Altho the Tennessee river is useful in river navigation, he continued, TVA failed in a number of respects to make it satisfactory, including building locks that are much too small.

Macleay said army engineers brought in a plan for flood control in the Missouri valley, but difficulties arose when irrigation interests in the northwest sought to write an amendment to a bill providing for the plan which would make all water subject to irrigation use. He said that people in the valley are "luke warm" to the proposal to set up a Missouri river authority—similar to the TVA—which would take the development of the valley out of the hands of the army engineers corps. He said the TVA and Missouri problems are not related.

GRAIN FUTURES GAIN ON DEMAND FOR CASH CORN

A better demand for cash corn, combined with a forecast for rain or snow over parts of the corn belt, encouraged general buying of grain futures yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade. Early prices were slightly lower, but buying increased and the close was near the top, with shorts covering freely.

Closing trades on corn futures showed gains of ½ to 1⅛ cents a bushel, May leading. Wheat was up ⅝ to ⅞ cent; oats, ¼ to ⅝ cent; and rye, ⅞ to 1¼ cents. Barley finished ¼ cent higher to ⅛ cent lower.

Bids on cash corn for deferred shipment from the country were advanced about 1 cent a bushel, with $1.07⅝ to $1.08⅝ offered for No. 2 yellow, net track Chicago.

HOGS RECOVER 40 PER CENT OF RECENT LOSSES

The Chicago hog market yesterday recovered about 40 per cent of its big losses this week. The advance was the largest since July 24 and raised the average 35 cents to $14.15 per hundred pounds. The top of $14.35 was 45 cents above Wednesday.

Almost all classes of heavy hogs reached the $14 ceiling for any hogs weighing more than 270 pounds. This price bought almost all butchers just over 270 pounds, and up to 350 pounds. The majority of 190 to 260 pound hogs sold at $14.15 to $14.25, with the top paid for selected lots weighing mostly from 210 to 230 pounds. Sows sold mostly from $13.75 to $14.

Receipts Fall to 3 Week Low.

Farm shipments of hogs slumped to the lowest volume in three weeks. The 20 leading markets received 72,000 hogs, a 15 per cent drop from the 85,000 a week earlier. This supply, however, was 41 per cent below the 123,000 a year ago.

The price increase in Chicago was much above the average for the country. Most other markets reported price increases of 10 to 25 cents. A few had advances up to 50 cents, but others had none.

Because the office of price administration early this week altered its definition of a heavy hog, raising the dividing line between light and heavy hog ceilings from 240 to 270 pounds, some stock weighing 240 to 270 pounds actually sold higher than last week.

Previously held down to a $14 ceiling, some sold at $14.10 to $14.25. Now hogs weighing up to 270 pounds are eligible for prices up to the $14.75 ceiling for lighter stock. Other hogs remained 10 to 75 cents lower than late last week.

Steers Weak to Lower.

Most steers and heifers sold weak to 25 cents lower. Best steers available brought $18.25, and the bulk sold at $14 to $17.50. Steady prices were paid early for beef cows, canners and cutters, but the close was 25 cents lower. Calves and bulls were steady.

Lambs again were steady. The top was $14.40.
